HOOVER LEADS U. S. IN TRIBUTE TO WASHINGTON

'This Nation His Best Monument.'

BY JOHN HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 22.—[Special.]—Herbert Hoover, spokesman of a nation, led in paying tribute today to George Washington, founder of a nation.

Standing in the chamber of the house of representatives, the thirty-first President of the United States called upon the American people to honor the 200th anniversary of the first President of the United States by rededicating themselves to those principles befitting a free people of which Washington was a living exponent.

In row on row, filling the chamber to the doors, as the President spoke were the senate and house of representatives assembled in joint session, the chief justice and associated justices of the Supreme court, the heads of the military and naval establishments, members of the cabinet, and the envoys of foreign nations.

Recalls Glories of 1776.

The nation, the President told them, has need to remember the fiber of the men who founded the republic. Said he:

"We have need again to bring forth the picture of the glories and the valor of Lexington and Concord and Bunker Hill, the suffering and fortitude of Valley Forge, the victory of Yorktown. We have need to revive the meaning and the sheer moral courage of the Declaration of Independence, the struggles of the continental congress, the forming of the constitution."

No part of these great events, the President reminded those who packed the galleries, "can be separated from the name and the dominant leadership of George Washington."

Build New System of Life.

"Upon these foundations of divine inspiration laid by our forefathers and led by Washington, our nation has builded up during this century and a half a new system of life, a system unique to the American people," President Hoover went on.

"It comprises a political system of self government by the majority, resting upon the duties of individual men to the community, and of the local communities to the nation. It is a government designed in spirit to sustain a dual purpose; to protect our people among nations by great national power, and to preserve individual freedom by local self-government.

"It comprises a social system free of inherited position, based upon the ideal of equality of all men before the law, the equal privilege of men to strive and to achieve, and the responsibilities of men to their neighbors.

Maintain Ideal of Equality.

"It embraces an economic system based upon the largest degree of freedom and stimulation to initiative and enterprise which can be permitted and still maintain the ideal of equality of opportunity among men.

"Finally it embraces a system of relationships to other nations based upon no thought of imperialism, no desire to dominate; a determined national self reliance in defense and independence in action; freedom from all commitment to the unknown future and an aspiration to promote peace and good will among all men."

His hearers broke into applause.

Seated on the rostrum above and behind the President was Speaker "Jack" Garner. Earlier he had called to order the house members, politely pushed back to the rear seats. For the speaker, Jeffersonian simplicity had yielded to a cutaway.

Audience Marches In.

"The senate of the United States," was Doorkeeper Joe Sinnott's first shout down the long center aisle.

Headed by Sergeant at Arms Dave Barry, with Vice President Curtis treading close behind, the senators marched in two by two. Some strange partners came down the aisle—"Five and Ten" Jones of Washington side by side with the wet Dr. Copeland; the very radical Costigan of Colorado with the very regular Robinson of Indiana.

"The honorable, the chief justice and the associate justices of the United States," Joe Sinnott calls out.

No other body in the United States has the ability to cloak itself with such dignity.

2 Injured when Gale Batters Airship Akron

Lakehurst, N. J., Feb. 22.—[Special.]—The navy's airship Akron snapped her stern cables in a gale this morning, and, swinging free of the car on which the tail was riding, bumped along over the ground in a 150 degree turn before she was brought under control again.

The accident happened a scant five minutes before the air cruiser was to be transferred to its circular track far out in the field from the hangar.

Two of Crew Hurt.

Before the ground crew working with those aboard had mastered the airship again the lower fin and rudder were damaged and the swinging steel cable that gave way had cut wide gashes in the fabric.

Lieut. C. C. Bolster of the construction corps and Aviation Machinist's Mate F. L. Gonsior, who were riding the beam to which the tail was lashed by steel cables, were swept off and knocked down. Lieut. Bolster suffered a fractured right wrist and Gonsior was bruised.

Accidents Strengthen Claim.

Those who have contended for many years that dirigible airships are unreliable in time of war and that it is a waste of money to construct them, claim support for their arguments in the accident.

The controversy over the practicability of dirigibles has been fanned into fresh flame by the charges that the Akron was defective in construction, and it was to test the truth of these assertions that a congressional committee had assembled at Lakehurst for a flight on the ship when the accident occurred.

The ship recently was accepted by the government after being constructed at a cost of $6,000,000.

Representative James V. McClintic [Dem., Okla.], chairman of the subcommittee of the house naval affairs committee, appointed to investigate the charges that the Akron was structurally defective witnessed the accident, together with four members of the subcommittee. Other members of the committee arrived a few minutes later with Rear Admiral William A. Moffet, chief of naval aeronautics.

Skipper Describes Accident.

Lieutenant Commander Charles E. Rosendahl, skipper of the airship, in describing the accident said:

"The ship was moving nicely after having been walked out of the hangar. It was being turned around into the wind when a down drought air current which appeared to be twice the velocity of the general wind forced the ship's tail into the ground."

HIS HORSESHOE PROVES FICKLE AND JOE'S IN JUG

The horseshoe, as the traditional omen of good luck, double crossed Joseph Fraser early this morning. The double crossing of the fickle shoe occurred when he threw one of them through the display window of Barnett's jewelry shop at 39 North Wabash avenue.

Policeman John Sojat heard the crash of breaking glass and reached the scene in time to find Fraser packing two diamond rings and seven watches, valued at $2,000, into his pockets. He took Fraser and the unlucky horseshoe to the Central station. Fraser is 48 years old, lives at 616 West Adams street, and is now out on parole from Joliet prison, where he had served time for robbery.

Boy Slips Into River; Saved by Life Preserver

2 Die, 11 Hurt as Truck Runs Into Trolley

Two men were burned to death and eleven other persons, including women, were injured in a head on collision last night between a trolley car and a large truck in Sheffield avenue, Hammond. The two killed were occupants of the truck and those injured were passengers and crew of the street car.

The accident was similar to the one at 75th street and South Chicago avenue early Sunday morning when a street car and a truck crashed and likewise killed two persons. In both cases the truck gasoline tanks exploded. However, in the Sunday accident the fatality victims were on the street car.

Hits Street Car Squarely.

Witnesses who saw last night's collision in Hammond said that the truck sped south in the north bound lane of Sheffield avenue and hit the front of the north bound street car squarely. The truck bounced to one side, caught afire, and burst apart a moment later as the tank exploded. Neither of the occupants had a chance to escape the fire trap. Both were burned beyond recognition. The truck was part of the motor fleet of the Terre Haute-Chicago Green line, police believed.

The dead men were not identified until the arrival early this morning of Edward Shultheis, owner of the truck, from Terre Haute. He said the dead driver was Henry Wingler, 28 years old, of Terre Haute, and the other victim was Fred Henry Keaton, 16 years old, of Darwin, Ill., a nephew of Wingler.

List of Those Injured.

The injured in the street car were taken to St. Margaret's hospital, Hammond, where it was said none was hurt seriously. They are Otto Last, 2405 East 78th street, motorman, and Clyde J. Bassett, 7621 Lowe avenue, conductor, both of Chicago; Mrs. Ignace Mayer, 56 years old, 3026 South Californin avenue; Mrs. Clara McKenna, 32, of 1333 Indianapolis boulevard, Whiting; Miss Anna Rushnak, 23, of 1424 Roberts avenue, Whiting; Paul Svgrake, 54, of 1534 John street, Whiting; Leo Smoskie, 50, of 1908 Collection avenue, South Chicago; Steve Cupka, 37, of 1024 Myrtle avenue, Whiting; Charles La Bare, 18, of 1537 Columbia avenue, Hammond; Miss Julia Seto, 22, of 1221 Fred street, Whiting, and Helen Gyure, 23, of 2027 Lincoln avenue, Hammond.

Delay Chicago Inquest.

The inquest into the deaths of the two victims of the Chicago truck-street car crash of Sunday was continued to March 2 by Deputy Coroner A. Margolis. The victims were Miss Bernadine Walther, 22, of 7346 Kenwood avenue, and Motorman Walter Paul, 54, of 7530 Langley avenue. Robert Gebhart and Euriel Shortt, both of Columbus, O., operators of the truck, are being held.

COUNTY BOARD WAILS, BUT CUTS OFF 499 JOBS

'Economize or Quit' Warning Heeded.

Dismissal of 499 county employés on March 1 was voted by the county board last night at an emergency session. This elimination of jobs will save $1,000,000 during the coming year in addition to the 15 per cent cut in salaries already in effect, which will save $1,600,000 in comparison with 1931, according to officials.

However, the combined saving of $2,600,000 is not enough, President Emmett Whealan told the commissioners. At least $400,000 more, a total of $3,000,000 in jobs and salaries, must be saved, he declared.

"Either you're going to make a business budget or you're going to quit!" President Whealan told the board as the session opened when certain of the commissioners objected to the firing of favorite employés.

Express Deep Regrets.

This admonition, said to have been backed by a personal warning to a number of the commissioners by Mayor Cermak, had its effect. The fourteen commissioners voted unanimously in favor of the job slashes, although "deep regrets" were expressed by several members.

The action of the county board was the first actual dismissal order against public employés, although Mayor Cermak has declared himself in favor of discharging 2,479 city employés.

It was a lugubrious county board session, summoned suddenly at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The commissioners at first wished to hold an executive session, barring the public and the press, but finally decided to go over the details of the economy proposals in public.

"We're all crowding the mourners' bench," lamented Mrs. Edward J. Fleming. There were numerous "O dear, O dear's" from the women commissioners as the board went through the budget, ruthlessly following the job slashes recommended by J. L. Jacobs, efficiency expert.

Make Added Reductions.

The board went even further than Jacobs' recommendations when they voted to abolish the public behavior clinic and cut $200,000 from the appropriation for the Cook County School of Nursing on the motion of Commissioner Charles H. Weber.

One of the biggest cuts was made in the sheriff's office. Forty highway policemen on motorcycles were ordered discharged after Mr. Jacobs had pointed out that 46 state highway policement are now assigned to Cook county. This reduces the county highway police department to 32 men.

"What! Do away with law and order?" exclaimed Commissioner Homer J. Byrd, but the other commissioners grimly reminded him that this was no time for speeches. In addition to the 40 highway policemen 38 other jobs were eliminated from the sheriff's force, including Assistant Sheriff Frank Wright at $4,500 a year. Other jobs on the roster list were five personal bailiffs to Superior and Circuit court judges at $200 a month, 8 Criminal court bailiffs, and six jailers.

Keep Public Defender.

A motion was made by Commissioner William Busse to abolish the public defender's office, but the other commissioners voted this down on the theory that the office saved the county money. A summary of some of the jobs eliminated and the offices affected follows:

Office—	Jobs eliminated.
Controller	7
Superintendent public service	26
Civil service commission	2
County treasurer	115
County clerk	8
County recorder	42
Circuit court clerk	13
Superior court clerk	9
County court clerk	3

Jury commissioners	3
Criminal court clerk	8
State's attorney	3
Oak Forest home	10
County hospital	16
Bureau public welfare	3
Juvenile court	2
School superintendent	2
Behavior clinic	8

The position of Deputy Controller William J. Graham at $6,375 a year was among those eliminated in the slashes. Graham has been a county employé for many years. Other positions eliminated by the board were classed mostly under the head of "extra help."

Hitler Enters German Race for President

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

The announcement of Hitler's candidacy was made by Joseph Goebbels, his Berlin lieutenant, before an audience of 12,000 shouting Fascisti in the Berlin sports palace. "Hitler, our salvation!" the throng chanted for several minutes. Hitler was not at the rally.

Must Attain Citizenship.

The next step of the Fascisti will be to establish their leader as a German citizen. Party leaders will submit a motion to the reichstag next Tuesday that all aliens who served in the German army during the world war shall automatically become citizens.

Dr. Alfred Hugenberg, former Kaiser Wilhelm's henchman, tonight also announced the nomination of Lieut. Col. Theodore Deusterberg, vice president of the war veterans' "Steel Helmets," as the Nationalist party candidate.

With Ernest Thaelmann, the communist, in the field, the presidential race has become a four cornered affair. Von Hindenburg agreed to run for reëlection after an appeal by 2,500,000 voters.

FOUGHT FOR GERMANY.

Hitler, a former Austrian house painter, is recognized as one of the most picturesque figures to emerge from post-war Germany. He fought in the German army from 1914 to 1918, thereby losing his Austrian citizenship, according to his explanation.

After the war he became leader of the Fascisti in Germany to "combat the communist terror of the left parties." That was why, he said, the National Socialist party was organized.

Has "Army" of 200,000.

This German "Mussolini," who proudly points out that he is at the head of an "army" of 200,000 picked men sworn to obey him; has consistently maintained that Germany should not pay reparations. He is also a bitter opponent of the Versailles treaty and demands its revision.

As a result of his reparations policy the National Socialists have gained adherents by the thousands, until now they claim 15,000,000 German votes.

In an interview he expressed himself on the subject of reparations as follows:

"My personal belief," he said, "is that if the world is sensible, it will suspend reparations tomorrow."

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

NASSAU, Bahamas, Feb. 22.—Five gold bars, valued at $60,000, were found by the police yesterday when they took Gerald Fitzgerald, a poor fisherman, to a spot along the south shore of New Providence Island, where he had discovered the treasure last October.

Fitzgerald had found the gold cached beneath a wild plum tree in rocks bearing a sign of Free Masonry. The story finally leaked out, and the police asked the fisherman to show them the spot. He refused unless Eustace Dorsett, his brother-in-law, a Nassau liquor merchant, could go along, and detectives locked him up Saturday. But yesterday the party went out and found the gold, which is probably ancient pirate gold.

Fitzgerald will receive a third of the treasure and the remainder will go to the British imperial government.

BULLETIN.

TOKIO, Feb. 23 (Tuesday).—(AP)—Gen. Araki, minister of war, announced today that new troop reinforcements would be sent to Shanghai. War office sources disclosed that the decision to dispatch additional soldiers to the scene of the battle with China was reached at a long conference at the war minister's official residence. The conference followed receipt of messages from Japanese officials at Shanghai urging that more troops be sent. It was believed that troops designated to join the forces already at Shanghai had been held in readiness for such an emergency for some days.

BY JOHN POWELL.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 23 [Tuesday].—The Japanese military command here today cabled Tokio for reinforcements to crush the determined Chinese resistance to the Japanese attempt to drive them out of the Shanghai area. The Chinese forces in the Kiangwan area have beaten back every Japanese advance since the "big push" began four days ago.

Maj. Miyawaki, Japanese staff officer, today admitted that the Japanese troops had met with reverses and suffered severe casualties in their effort to dislodge the Chinese defenders. He said the Japanese forces had succeeded in crossing Hongkew creek in some places in their drive on Kiangwan, but that they had been repulsed in other places.

Chiang's Troops at Front.

Maj. Miyawaki admitted that the Chinese 88th division, crack troops of Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, former president and now virtual Chinese dictator, were in the front lines opposing the Japanese in the Kiangwan area. He said Gen. Chiang's troops are directed by German advisers.

An unconfirmed report said Gen. Chiang arrived at the Chenfu headquarters yesterday, made a personal inspection of the Chinese position and delivered an address to officers of the 19th route army. He is said to have returned to Nanking afterward.

A dispatch from Nanking said the Chinese government has appointed Gen. Tsai Ting-kai commander of the 19th army, in supreme command of all the Chinese troops defending Shanghai, which includes national guards previously under the personal command of Gen. Chiang.

Seek to Starve Out Chinese.

The Japanese renewed their terrific onslaught at dawn today. The Japanese artillery laid down a heavy barrage on the Chinese positions, while infantry, supported by tanks, drove into a withering Chinese return fire.

The Japanese announced they were attempting to surround Kiangwan and cut off the Chinese supply of food and ammunition in an effort to starve the defenders into submission.

A squadron of eight Japanese airplanes this morning dropped twenty-five bombs on the Chinese airdrome at Hungjao, near the edge of the international settlement adjoining the British golf club. The airdrome was completely wrecked.

A number of foreign residences are close to the airdrome, but it is not known whether they were damaged. It is believed the Chinese removed all their planes several days ago.

Shell Hits American Hospital.

An artillery shell, supposedly fired from a Chinese battery, struck the American Seventh Day Adventists' hospital in the Hongkew section of the international settlement last night. The shell entered a window and exploded within a room, but there were no casualties.

Another Chinese shell, apparently aimed at the Japanese cruiser, Yubari, anchored alongside the Japanese consulate, struck and exploded near the Italian gunboat, Libia, but there was no damage.

Numerous Chinese civilian casualties resulted from last night's bombardment of the Hongkew section. Guests at the Astor hotel vacated the upper floors and spent the night in the lobby. Shells directed at the Japanese cruiser in the river passed over the building.

Chinese Confidence Rises.

The Japanese military machine, equipped with the latest war equipment, started confidently across the rice paddies and market gardens toward Kiangwan three days ago, sweeping all before it. The Japanese tanks penetrated the Chinese front lines. Then the Chinese really began to fight and the Japanese found themselves up against a solid wall.

The Chinese have now apparently lost their fear and are convinced that the Japanese are not invincible. As the latter get farther into the country, away from roads and into areas crisscrossed by canals and checkered by bamboo groves and little villages and farms, they are finding the going increasingly difficult.

The Japanese are also obviously nonplussed by the Chinese snipers who are hiding in the narrow streets and firing from doorways, windows and roof tops. They are taking a heavy toll of Japanese soldiers, who entered the battle as though they were going on dress parade.

The Japanese objective yesterday was the village of Miaohungchen, west of the Shanghai-Woosung railway near Hongkew creek and about two miles northwest of the Kiangwan race course. The entire area is not more than five miles from the city limits of Shanghai.

The Japanese force consisted of two brigades and one mixed brigade—the 18th brigade, commanded by Maj. Gen. Ono; the 9th brigade under Maj. Gen. Miabara, and the 31st mixed brigade, under Maj. Gen. Shimomoto.

According to an official Chinese report, the Japanese advanced in two columns, one from the Kiangwan race course, the other from Woosung. The columns converged and reached Miaohungchen between 7 and 8 p. m. yesterday. The Japanese infantry columns were preceded by a fleet of tanks and armored cars, while air bombers in nine plane formations rained down tons of high explosives.

Fall into Chinese Trap.

Between 9 and 10 a. m., in the face of severe fighting, the Chinese center withdrew, permitting the Japanese to occupy the town. At 11 a. m. the Chinese right and left wings surrounded the town, cutting off the retreat of some 2,000 Japanese troops which had advanced a considerable distance ahead of the main body.

The Chinese report said these 2,000 Japanese troops were badly cut up and by 5 p. m. the Japanese were forced to withdraw. The Chinese also claim that they recaptured and occupied a part of Kiangwan racetrack and golf club, as well as the railway station.

Chinese casualties were heavy. Three hundred and forty-four wounded were brought to hospitals in the foreign settlement. Chinese Red Cross doctors said 200 more men were left on the field. It was impossible to bring them out because of continuous Japanese artillery shelling and air bombing.

The Japanese also suffered heavily. Latest figures put their casualties at 300 killed and wounded. The Chinese tonight were elated. Chinese papers flooded the streets with extras claiming an important victory.

Chinese Press Hongkew Battle.

Because of conflicting claims, it is impossible to determine the exact status in Shanghai proper. It is known, however, that the Chinese yesterday and last night carried the battle, consisting entirely of rifle and machine gun exchanges and hand to hand bayonet clashes, to within the borders of the Hongkew section. The Chinese claimed tonight to hold several positions previously held by the Japanese within the settlement borders.

One lone Chinese machine gunner, nicknamed Charlie by members of the American 31st infantry, established himself behind a sandbag barricade within thirty feet of a blockhouse fronting the American post on north Honan road and managed to hold out all day and night, despite a desperate attempt by the Japanese to dislodge him.

Makes Faces at Japanese.

Between rounds fired point blank at the Japanese position directly across the street, Charlie waved gleefully to the American soldiers and thumbed his nose at the Japanese. Frequently bullets from both Chinese and Japanese guns whizzed over the sandbags sheltering the American troops, but no casualties have yet resulted. The Americans are enjoying front seats at a first class show.

It was impossible, because of the hot fighting, to determine the outcome. Both sides claimed gains. One result was fresh fires in Hongkew, which lighted the sky over the city and enabled the foreign residents to view the conflict from the tops of office buildings and hotels. Shanghai has become accustomed by now to the whiz of heavy artillery projectiles and the singing of bullets. A favorite remark is:

"You needn't fear the bullets you hear."

I visited the headquarters of Lieut. Gen. Kenkichi Uyeda, Japanese commander, last night. The headquarters had been advanced about a mile from Fuhtan university, where they were yesterday.

I found Lieut. Gen. Uyeda in a Chinese Buddhist temple named Tientosu or "Temple of Heavenly Happiness." Chinese characters over the door said: "Heavenly happiness, tranquility, and peace." Chinese monks who had occupied the temple had fled. The Japanese commander was too busy to meet newspaper men, but Maj. Miyawaki made a brief report.

Edwin S. Cunningham, United States consul general, issued a statement today in which he said "there is no occasion for concern. The interests of Americans in Shanghai are receiving careful attention."

British Prepare to Get Out.

The British community, however, is displaying anxiety and has made detailed arrangements for immediate evacuation, if necessary. Every British subject yesterday received a printed memorandum instructing him to go to the nearest concentration point. A system of signals will be used in event the local British consular and military officials decide evacuation is necessary.

U. S. EXPERTS LAY JAP FAILURE TO POOR TEAM WORK

Artillery Fails to Cover Infantry Advance.

Here is an analysis of the military situation around Shanghai. It was made by several former army officers, who fought in France, after a study of the dispatches from China.

Block Enveloping Attack.

The protected flanks preclude the Japanese forces from a usual form of attack on a garrisoned position, that is, by an enveloping movement. Therefore they were forced to resort to penetration.

With modern small arms fire, including the fire power of machine guns, the penetration of a well garrisoned position is of great difficulty, because on the approach of the attackers to the main line of resistance they are subjected to enfilade fire from machine guns, auto rifles, and rifles from the positions on the attackers' flanks.

Artillery Support Essential.

For penetration to be a success, proper artillery support is essential to clean out the infantry defenders, including machine guns, or to keep their fire down until the attackers can overrun the infantry positions. This means barrages which the attackers can follow closely, and such barrages mean close team work between the artillery and the attacking infantry.

It appears that the Japanese commander elected to make his main effort to penetrate the Chinese line at Kiangwan. In order to win, such a penetration must be powerful enough and swift enough to reach the defenders' support and reserve positions, and attain some degree of organization and consolidation before the defenders can launch a counter-attack.

If the penetration is sufficient to enable the attackers to hold their gains, they are then in a position to debouch and attack the flanks of the defenders' support and reserve positions.

Japs Lack Team Work.

One element of the apparent repulse of the Japanese penetration movement is the lack of the artillery-infantry team work essential in such an operation. It appears that, as a makeshift for field artillery support, which is in close touch with the assault battalions, the Japanese have been forced to rely on naval guns on their warships.

With these guns, because of their distance from the assault units and lack of observation and communication, it apparently has been impossible for an effective barrage to be laid down for the advancing infantry.

Chinese Fire Effective.

Such guns could be used only for fire concentrations on known defense positions. Other positions would be left untouched to do business with the approaching assault units.

Yesterday's dispatches also indicate that the Chinese are launching effective counter-attacks with proper field artillery support. The cables repeatedly mentioned that the Chinese artillery fire is superior to that of the Japanese. This probably indicates that the Chinese field guns are working in close coöperation with the counter-attacking infantry, with good communications and good observation on Japanese advance positions.

JAPANESE ARMY CALLS FOR HELP AS CHINESE DEFENDERS HURL BACK ATTACKS

(1) Miaohungchen, the immediate objective of the Japanese advance.

(2) The Chinese withdrew their center line, permitting the Japanese to enter the town. Then the Chinese left and right flanks closed in, surrounding 2,000 Japanese troops. The Japanese retreated. Casualties were heavy on both sides.

(3) Tazang, the ultimate Japanese objective, from where they plan to advance south on the Chinese lines in Shanghai.

(4) Hungjao air field. Eight Japanese planes wrecked the Chinese airdrome there with bombs today.

This map shows details of engagement within city of Shanghai. It shows:

(1) The North railway station, where the Chinese troops are intrenched. The Chinese yesterday carried the war into the Japanese territory, the Hongkew district of the international settlement. Chinese infantrymen advanced and engaged the Japanese in hand-to-hand bayonet fighting, while Chinese artillery laid a withering barrage on the Japanese positions and on the Japanese consulate and warships in the river.

(2) A new area of the city was set afire by the Chinese bombardment. Arrows indicate approximate sections where fires broke out.

(3) Japanese consulate and warships, objects of Chinese artillery fire.

CHINESE PLANE JAPANESE SLAIN SHOT DOWN AFIRE;

TOKIO, Feb. 23 [Tuesday].—(AP)—A navy office communique said today that Japanese airplanes shot down a Chinese combat plane over Soochow yesterday. Lieut. Otani, Japanese patrol commander, was fatally wounded in the battle.

The Japanese patrol of three scouting and three fighting planes was reconnoitering the Chinese air base at Soochow, about 54 miles west of Shanghai, when the single Chinese plane attacked them. The Japanese fighters shot him down in flames in a two minute conflict.

The Japanese planes all returned safely, but the patrol commander died of a bullet wound in his head.

U. S. Made Plane Shot Down.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 23 [Tuesday.]—[Special.]—Three Japanese pursuit planes brought down a Chinese pursuit plane—an American-made Roeing craft—at Soochow yesterday. The plane, delivered to the Chinese government a week ago, was flown from Shanghai to Nanking by the American daredevil pilot Bob Short, leading to rumors that could not be confirmed which stated that Short was piloting the plane when it crashed.

35 CHINESE YOUTHS TO BECOME FIGHTING FLYERS IN CHICAGO

Seventy-five Chinese residents of Chicago visited the Curtiss-Wright Flying school at Curtiss-Reynolds airport in Glenview yesterday afternoon to inspect the equipment and instruction methods. The delegation included 35 Chinese youths who plan to take courses in flying and go to China as fighting pilots. Four of them contracted to take the course. The others are raising funds and plan to start soon.

Inspection of the flying school followed a meeting at the On Leong tong headquarters, 22d street and Wentworth avenue, which was attended by about 500 Chinese residents of Chicago on Sunday night. Funds for training the 35 youths were solicited at that meeting. Another meeting for the same purpose is to be held next Sunday night.

The four youths who have begun their training are John L. F. Suu, Robert Mok, Hentsze Kwong, and Frank Sum. They are taking ground school courses at 1338 South Michigan avenue and flight instruction at the airport. The courses are being condensed so their training may be completed in two months, according to L. M. Churbuck and Karl S. Day, manage. of the ground school and the airport.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

BRATISLAVA, Czecho-Slovakia, Feb. 22.—Five men were killed and 14 men and women were injured in a fight among guests at a fancy dress ball at Udvarnek, near Tyrnau, last night. Farm youths who went to the ball won such success with the women and girls as to excite the jealousy of the villagers. The villagers sought to drive the farmers from the dance hall and a melee ensued in which lead pipes, brass knuckles, knives and revolvers were used. The women were trampled.

Aged Woman Missing 3 Days Found Dead in Home

Police last night entered the flat of Mrs. Christiana Schuls, 70 years old, at 1712 Burling street, who neighbors reported had not been seen for three days. They found her dead. Nearby were two dogs, weak from hunger and exhausted. Police discovered a gas flame burning on the kitchen stove and believe the flame reduced the oxygen value in the rooms, causing Mrs. Schuls' death.

ROB DENTIST AND WIFE.

Two gunmen robbed Dr. Barney Novak, a dentist, and his wife, Jean, of jewelry valued at $1,230, as they were walking in Western avenue near their home at 1403 North Western avenue early yesterday.

BREAK WINDOW, STEAL GUNS.

BANGALORE, India, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Seven persons were killed and two injured in a fire today in two fireworks shops here, believed to have started by boys smoking "bidis." Bidis are cigarets made of Indian tobacco, which came into general use after the Congress party's nationalist campaign against British goods, including Virginia cigarets.

Thrusting a revolver through the ticket cage window, a bandit last night held up Miss Myrtle Effort, 1531 Chase avenue, cashier of the Norshore motion picture theater, 1769 Howard street, and compelled her to hand over the receipts, $69. He then boarded a taxicab, the driver of which was unaware of the identity of his passenger.

JAPAN'S TROOPS CHARGED WITH KILLING CIVILIANS

SHANGHAI, China, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Charges that Japanese soldiers were killing defenseless Chinese peasants behind the lines at Kiangwan were printed today in the American-owned Shanghai Evening Post-Mercury.

The accusations were in an article under the signature of T. O. Thackrey, managing editor of the paper, who said that he went to the Kiangwan International Race club without being seen by the Japanese and there looked on while Japanese officers killed Chinese men, women and children.

"I stood there in the grandstand with one of my reporters," Mr. Thackrey wrote, "and watched what happened to these Chinese prisoners in the hands of the Japanese.

"A Japanese officer turned one of a group of Chinese in peasant garb to face the sun. His shining saber flashed up to the hilt in its human sheath. A second figure took its place and once again the saber found its pulsing scabbard.

"Perhaps, as the official Japanese military communiques says, these corpses once had been snipers or even perhaps spies. I make no challenge, I just detail what I have seen.

"There were women and children among the corpses. Women shot through their padded coats, run through with sabers. Children whose bodies were riddled with bullets. Men garbed as peasants were heaped grotesquely about, their wounds soaking the ground."

He told also that he had seen a farmer boy flung face down on the ground and shot to death by Japanese officers.

Japanese consular officials denied the accuracy of reports by Thackerey. The Japanese said the race club area having been under fire for two days, it was unlikely any Chinese civilians were thereabout yesterday.

BOTH JAPAN AND CHINA PROTEST THE USE OF DUM-DUM BULLETS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 22.—(AP)—The Japanese embassy said today that the Tokio government will bring to the attention of the league of nations the alleged use of dumdum or soft nosed bullets by the Chinese forces at Shanghai. Dr. W. W. Yen, representing China at Geneva, made a similar charge against Japan several days ago.

Since The Hague peace conference of 1899, called through the influence of Czar Nicholas II. of Russia, outlaw the dumdum bullet and poison gas, their use or reported use in war has always been the cause of heated controversy.

Neither Japan nor China was signatory to the declaration against dumdum bullets. Although the United States participated in this first Hague conference, the Americans did not sign the decelaration against soft nosed bullets. France and Russia were the only great European powers among the fifteen signers of this declaration.

FORMER CHICAGO COUNTESS WEDS BRITON SHE SHOT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 22.—Alice Silverthorne, formerly of Chicago, was married today to Raymond Vincent De Trafford, wealthy Briton whom she shot and seriously wounded in France in 1927. The wedding took place at Neuilly. Witnesses were the groom's brother, Rudolph, and Marquis de Casa Maury.

A religious ceremony at the church of St. Pierre in Neuilly this evening was followed by an informal reception at the home of friends.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Silverthorne of Riverside, Ill., and a niece of Mrs. J. Ogden Armour. She was tried by a Paris court for shooting De Trafford but escaped with a fine when he refused to testify against her. The romance began when she was the wife of Count Fredrick de Janze, whom she subsequently divorced.

NEW MANCHURIAN REGIME BATTLES CHINESE REVOLT

2,000 Rebel Troops March on City.

TOKIO, Feb. 22.—(AP)—The war office was informed today a revolt has broken out against the new Manchurian state, which is to be formally inaugurated on March 1 with Henry Pu-yi, former boy emperor of China, at its head.

Information from Mukden was that 2,000 Chinese troops, former followers of Gen. Ting Chao, were marching on Imienpo. This movement was directed at Hsi Hsia, governor of Kirin province and one of the leaders who formed the new state.

Rebels Seize Village.

According to the Mukden dispatches the rebels had seized Wukimiho, about twelve miles northwest of Imienpo, which is an important station about ninety miles from Harbin. The forces of Gov. Hsi Hsia were reported retreating to the south.

Japanese authorities expressed anxiety about several hundred Japanese and Corean subjects in Imienpo, but they had not decided to send troops there.

Prepare for Inauguration.

CHANGCHUN, Manchuria, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Public buildings in Changchun were being prepared today to house the government of the state of Ankuo, "land of peace," which will be installed on March 1 under Japanese auspices to administer Manchuria and part of Mongolia.

The city hall has been redecorated and is being used as temporary government headquarters. Several banks and schools nearby have been taken over as office buildings. As soon as the ground thaws new structures will be erected, for which building materials already are arriving from Mukden and Dairen.

West Side Firewater Makes Indian Wield Hatchet

Virginia Dare, 28 years old, is a Chippewa Indian and lives on a reservation in Wisconsin. Yesterday, in Chicago, she obtained several drinks of west side firewater and reverted to the ways of her primitive ancestors. She got a hatchet, entered a gasoline filling station at Morgan street and Jackson boulevard and with many loud war whoops proceeded to demolish the windows and the light globes. It required fifteen minutes for Policemen Patrick Gaynor and Edward Sundheim to overcome Virginia.

ROBS SOUTH SIDE MARKET.

An armed man entered the Packingtown market at 1439 East 55th street yesterday and compelled the owner, Harry Horowitz, his assistant and a customer to go into a rear room. He then took $400 from the safe and fled.

3 POWERS SIGN MEDITERRANEAN 'PEACE' TREATY

Will Confine Attentions to War in Orient.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 22.—Great Britain, France, and Italy have signed a tripartite agreement to maintain the status quo in the Mediterranean until the conflict in the far east is solved to their joint satisfaction, it was learned today from reliable sources.

The document, described as the "secret pact of Malta," was signed at the close of last week by naval commanders in chief of the three countries at the British governor's palace at Valetta. All representatives were empowered to act with full authority for their government.

It is understood that the preamble expressly states that the treaty is in no way an alliance, but that it prepares the way for joint action in China without the necessity of keeping a sharp eye on cross purposes at home. It frees all three Mediterranean fleets for service in the orient as long as the need for warships in China is likely to arise.

The reason, it is learned, for the pact being signed by naval officers instead of the usual diplomatic representatives is to keep the action clear of the supervision of the league of nations. If it had been permitted to take the shape of a formal treaty the league's rules would have forced the submission of the document for examination, and Japan and China are members of the league.

HUNGER PERILS 20,000 SHANGHAI WAR REFUGEES

NANKING, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Twenty thousand Shanghai refugees—penniless and half starved—are being cared for at the Sanpaslou camp near here, and the problem of keeping them alive has become more seriously daily.

The national food relief committee and various missionary groups have taken over the work of feeding and sheltering these miserable victims of the Shanghai warfare.

The city government has been providing one meal of porridge daily for each camp inmate. American wheat is being used in large quantities to keep the refugees alive.

HOBOS BECOME 'PROSPECTORS' IN WARM SHELTERS

Relief Provides Substitute for Old Time Jungle.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

The hobo jungle has been replaced in Chicago by a modern caravanserai where "prospectors" from the four corners of the nation stop over for grub, a flop and an exchange of traveling intelligence.

The refuge is at 116 South Green street, the clearing house for men, where the "unemployed" are assigned to the permanent shelters operated by the Joint Emergency Relief Fund. This establishment also serves as a temporary shelter for those who desire to remain a night or two and for others who are waiting for their "blue" or permanent tickets.

Here in the evening, between 5 p. m., after "supper" is served, and 9:30, when the ordeal of bathing and fumigation begins, the long basement with its tiers of park benches buzzes with expert gossip about trains.

Where the "Bulls" Are Tough.

Maps are passed around and the most favorable routes to faraway destinations are explained by the travelers. For example, the C. & A. is the best line to St. Louis, but one must beware of the "bulls" at Bloomington. For Little Rock, Texarkana and points south, take the Missouri-Pacific from St. Louis, or the Cotton Belt. To get to Phoenix, don't take any chances on the Santa Fe, but hop a C. & A. to Kansas City and then get a Rock Island.

The hobo worker once was known as a boomer, but some wag has changed it to prospector to fit the new economic condition. The theory is that a man in quest of work is, like the Forty Niner, chasing the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow. Each night brings scores of these men to the clearing house, some to go on their way the next morning and others to get assignments to permanent shelters for a week, two weeks or maybe three.

A reporter with a fictitious name and appropriate clothes obtained a card to spend a night in the clearing house, where he could talk to the guests as one bum to another. A total of 150 men were interviewed and 30 of them were non-residents.

More Non-Residents Found.

The reporter was assigned, on the next day, to the permanent shelter at 222 South Morgan street, after stating that he had just come in from Milwaukee, was broke and wanted to rest up a couple of days before leaving for his home in Texas. In this shelter 100 men were engaged in casual conversation, and 18 of them were found to be non-residents who had been there from one to four weeks.

Of those interviewed in the clearing house, 20 per cent were from out of town, of those in the permanent shelter 18 per cent were non-residents. If the percentage holds true in all the twenty shelters and feeding stations with a total registration of approximately 12,000, the Joint Emergency Relief Fund is caring for more than 2,000 non-resident homeless men. The reporter could not go into other shelters as an investigator in the guise of a casual because the inmates may not drift from one shelter to another.

Tricks in Getting Relief.

Most of the nonresidents interviewed said they stated frankly to the relief investigators that they were from other cities or states, but added it is not impossible for a nonresident to obtain permanent shelter under the pretext that Chicago is his home.

This was demonstrated by the case of a man who was reared in Iowa and who never held anything but odd jobs in Chicago. He has been in the shelter two months.

"If you want to get permanent shelter, buddy, you'd better tell them you live here," he said. "They'll ask you a thousand questions about what you've done and where you've lived for the last five years, but you can tell 'em you worked for the railroads and lived in some cheap hotel or rooming house on South State street.

"Them places never know who lived there and the railroads won't answer their letters. Don't tell 'em you worked for any contractors, though. Them contractors always answer the letters, and if your name ain't on the list you're out of luck."

Try to Weed Out Outsiders.

The stated policy of the relief fund management is to provide shelter for a nonresident for only a day or two, but it is not difficult to get a card for a week and when the week is up get it renewed, either by changing the name or inventing some new hard luck story.

While waiting in line at the clearing house for a blue ticket the reporter saw a robust Negro youth with one in his hand.

"What's the matter, boy, you've got a blue card?" the youth was asked.

"The card runs out today and it's raining," was the reply. "I want to try and get another week before going back to St. Louis." The next day the young Negro was seen in the permanent shelter at 222 South Morgan street, sitting on a bench with his mackinaw collar turned up and his lips puffed out.

Bookkeeper Gets Extension.

A bookkeeper from Omaha, who, it appeared, was not a hobo because he was worried about the problem of transportation back home, talked to the reporter in the waiting line.

"I came here looking for work and went broke," he said. "I've been in the shelter a week and I guess that's all they'll do for me, but I'll try it again. I'd leave today if I had the fare home." This man also was reencountered in the permanent shelter the next day.

A man from Brooklyn whose last steady employment was on a railroad extra gang had been in the shelter two weeks. He has traveled all over the country, working a few hours at washing dishes and other odd jobs here and there. The man apparently is sincere in his search for work, but despair has overcome him.

"I'll tell you, Slim, I don't believe we'll ever get work," he said.

Boys Becoming Hobos.

A great many boys under twenty are found in the shelters, and the lure of the carefree, hobo life is evident from their talk. There were two farm boys from Texas, one from Iowa and two from Michigan, all speaking the hobo argot. An 18 year old boy from Little Rock had left a $2 a day and board job in the citrus fruit valley of Texas and was on his way to the lumber camps of northern Michigan. Levee work will open up on the Mississippi, down around Memphis, in the spring, and he'll hit for there, he said.

Some of the hobos are ex-service men. Two of these were waiting to get in shape to go up to Milwaukee and get in the Soldier's home there. One of them, from downstate, receives a disability pension of $18 a month from the government. Another veteran said he was leaving, in a few days, for Phoenix, his home.

"I can live there on my pension, but not in Chicago," he said. "I wouldn't be here but I lost a $20 bill, my last cent, and the Y. M. C. A. hotel is holding my suitcase. They wouldn't keep me a single night on it."

Impatient to Be on Way.

The hobos are not supinely contented in the shelters, for they are too confining, the regulations too strict and the food too meager for them. Most of them are impatient to get on their way.

"The Bridewell has got this beat," one of them said.

A young man gave a rooming house where he had been staying as his last residence. He didn't give his estranged wife's address, for he didn't wish her to know where he was. But his wife had made inquiries at the rooming house, and on his second day in the shelter the police came and took the young man back to her. It was learned that she was working and could support him.

IRON OUT ISSUES IN WAGE CUT OF BUILDING TRADES

Final questions in the building trades' wage reductions are expected to be ironed out, this afternoon at a conference of leaders of the Building Trades' council and the Building Construction Employers' association. Closed meetings were held yesterday and both sides expressed the hope that at today's meeting an amicable settlement would be reached.

Among the constituent unions of the trades' council considerable dissent was reported over the recently adopted 20 per cent wage reduction. At that time it was stated the council had the authority to act for its constituents, but discussion arose when the agreement was submitted to the unions for ratification.

One group of unions, headed by the electricians and the plumbers, is said to favor a 10 per cent reduction for all new construction a reduction of 25 per cent for reconstruction and all repair work. The other group holds out for a flat 20 per cent reduction as provided in the original agreement.

VOLUNTEER FIRE LADDIES OF NILES GET A ROASTING

There was a fire yesterday afternoon in the home of Henry Dreyer at Milwaukee avenue and Oakton street, Niles.

Among those responding to the alarm were the Niles volunteer fire department, under Chief George Pasek; the Park Ridge volunteer fire department, under Chief H. A. Miller, and the Morton Grove fire department.

Morton Grove's hose wouldn't fit Niles plugs, so the burden fell on the others. After a long fight the flames were brought under control and the Park Ridge volunteers went back to their headquarters, where Chief Miller issued a statement. He said:

"Hereafter our volunteers will volunteer to fight fires only in Park Ridge. When we went to help the Niles department the Niles firemen quit and went home to eat their suppers and left us to finish putting out their fire."

ASQUITH WIDOW FORCED TO SELL FAMOUS HOME

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 22.—The countess of Oxford and Asquith is the latest victim of the economic situation. It was announced tonight that she has decided to sell her country residence, the Wharf, in Berkshire, one of the most famous homes in the political and social history of the last twenty years.

The late Herbert Asquith, who became Lord Oxford, held strong affections for the Wharf, and held many of his momentous wartime consultations there. His grave is in the posal.
churchyard cemetery adjoining the garden house.

The countess is greatly distressed at having to sell her property, but after consultation with members of the family it was agreed that strict need of economy necessitated its disposal.

LAUNCH DRIVE TO RE-EMPLOY MEN AND MONEY

Chicago Canvass Will Start March 7.

Plans for an intensive Chicago campaign for the "reëmployment of men and money" were announced at a luncheon yesterday at the Mid-Day club, which was attended by Mayor Cermak, George W. Rossetter, president of the Association of Commerce, and other business and civic leaders.

The campaign, which is a modification of the Rochester plan for the stimulation of trade and employment, will begin on March 7. On that day an organization in each ward will begin visiting every employer, home or building owner, and employed citizen, distributing pledge cards.

Owners of property will be asked to pledge definite sums for repairs and improvements, providing permanent or temporary employment for as many workmen as possible from March 15 to July 1. Renters will be asked to set aside sums for purchases during the same period.

Success in Other Cities.

The campaign will tie up with the national employment stimulation movement sponsored by the American Legion. The Chicago sponsors base their hopes for its success on results already obtained in Rochester, N. Y.; Buffalo, Minneapolis, Akron, O., and other cities.

The drive was decided upon after weeks of investigation by the Association of Commerce into the "made work" programs of other cities. This investigation was undertaken on the plea of Edward L. Ryerson, chairman of the Joint Emergency Relief fund.

Besides the Association of Commerce, the movement has been indorsed by the Chicago Federation of Labor, the Cook county council of the American Legion, the Chicago Federation of Women's Clubs, the Chicago Advertising council, the Western Society of Engineers, the Chicago Building Construction Employers' association, and 38 neighborhood organizations.

Rossetter to Head Drive.

Mr. Rossetter, whose selection as general chairman of the campaign was announced by Mayor Cermak, expressed confidence that pledges "running well into eight figures" will be obtained during the house to house drive, from March 7 to April 15.

"This is bigger than a mere job finding project," said Oscar W. Rosenthal of the National Association of Building Trades and Employers. "Jobs for workingmen mean purchasing power, and purchasing power will put business back on its keel. The money these men will earn will go into the stores.

"There is no economic need for new buildings, but repairs, rehabilitation and improvements will pay for themselves in increased rentals. It is not unusual for the owner of a building to spend half a million for rehabilitation, yet if only $200 were expended on each of the 21,000,000 buildings in the United States, that would total $4,200,000,000. That would just about pull us out of this depression."

Cermak Explains Methods.

The methods of ward organizations which conducted Liberty Loan and Red Cross drives during the world war were explained by Mayor Cermak. He suggested that similar organizations be utilized for the unemployment relief campaign.

"The drive in each ward should not be managed by political organizations, for they would not have the same influence," said the mayor. "But they could be bi-partisan, with a Republican chairman and Democratic secretary in one ward, and vice versa in the next. During the war our organizations could canvass the entire city in two hours, with one solicitor to each block."

Frederick J. Ashley, coördinating chairman of the campaign, said the investigating committee had planned to utilize the political organizations in each ward, with the assistance of clubwomen and neighborhood business groups. The drive, he said, will be conducted along the lines followed by the federal census enumerators in 1930, with Joseph E. Vesely, who directed the census in Chicago, as executive director of the campaign.

Will Not Ask Contributions.

Speakers emphasized that no actual contributions will be asked, the few hundred dollars necessary for stationary and other incidentals already having been provided.

"This is not a charity proposition," said Mr. Ashley. "The people have already discharged their charitable obligations in contributing to the Joint Emergency Relief Fund. They will be asked only to spend what they can afford, with wage scales and commodities at their present low levels."

The full coöperation of the 192 Cook county posts of the American Legion was pledged by Paul Armstrong, commander. E. M. Craig, secretary of the Building Construction Employers' association, said that organization would continue to do everything in its power to stimulate employment.

Olander to Head Committee.

Victor Olander, secretary of the Illinois Federation of Labor, postponed acceptance of the chairmanship of the actual campaign committee to confer with his associates, but assured the meeting that labor will give its full support to the drive.

An advisory committee, to be headed by Mr. Armstrong, will include Mayor Cermak, Frank Loomis, secretary of the Joint Emergency Relief Fund; Robert I. Randolph, Craig Hazlewood, John Fitzpatrick, Joseph K. Brittain, Patrick F. Sullivan, William F. Krahl, Basil Church, R. H. Roberts, and Mr. Craig.

BEG YOUR PARDON!

Through an error a death notice printed yesterday said that Mrs. Eleanor L. Nowlan was a member of Adelphi chapter No. 820, O. E. S. Mrs. Nowlan was not a member of this organization. The statement belonged in another death notice. Misplaced type lines caused the mistake.

MOTHER OF 4 CLEARS CONVICT BY BANK ROBBERY CONFESSION

Lima, O., Feb. 22.—(AP)—One man convicted of bank robbery and another charged with being his accomplice were cleared of guilt, police said today, byt the alleged confessions of a young mother of four children and her brother.

The woman, Mrs. Pearl Griffith, 23, and her brother, Clyde Whittredge, 20, both of Delphos, confessed, the police said, to robberies of banks at Osgood, Deshler, Malinta, and Lewistown.

Morris Boyer, 22, of Sidney, is under conviction for the Lewistown robbery. His alleged accomplice is Everett Davis, 30. Two other men were named by Mrs. Griffith as having aided in the holdups.

Mrs. Griffith and Whittredge were identified yesterday by August J. Reichert, cashier of the Osgood State bank, from which $1,100 was stolen last week. Representatives of the other banks identified them also.

Mrs. Griffith told police she used her share of the loot to support her children, aged from 10 months to 5 years.

TWO AMERICANS PERILED AS JAPS BOMB AIRDROME

Flee to Field as Planes Drop Explosives.

BY JOHN POWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Feb. 23 [1 p. m.].—Two Americans, Carl Nahmmacher of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Leslie Lewis of Stockton, Cal., and a German, Wilhelm Brill, narrowly escaped death as the result of Japanese air bombing of the Chinese Hungjao airdrome this morning.

Nahmmacher and Lewis, who are agents for American airplane companies, and Brill, who is a German flying instructor, were on the premises when Japanese bombers made a second trip at 11 a. m. and destroyed the hangar. When they heard of the first bombing the three men went to the airdrome to inspect it. They were on the premises when five Japanese bombers and three pursuit planes returned and completed the job of destruction.

Demolish Two Buildings.

The two Americans and their German companion ran to an open field as the Japanese dropped eleven explosives, demolishing the buildings, hangars, and huts in an adjoining Chinese village. Aside from a slight injury to one Chinese soldier guard, there were no casualties.

Col. T. H. Shen, director of the airdrome, who also was present during both bombings, was uninjured. He is a graduate of the United States army aviation school at Kelly field, San Antonio, Tex. Col. Shen said the five Japanese bombers and three pursuit planes first visited the airdrome and dropped five bombs, two of which penetrated the roof and wrecked an ancient Curtiss Robin OX plane donated to China several years ago by overseas Chinese, as well as an ancient Newport plane built locally.

According to Brill the Japanese bombs were of the 200 pound variety. One fell in a creek alongside the flying field, damming the stream and splattering mud over the countryside.

Planes Flying 1,500 Feet High.

A total of 22 bombs landed in the vicinity, the Japanese planes flying 1,500 high. Col. Shen said no Chinese planes have used the airdrome for months and only a small guard of soldiers was in the vicinity. It is believed the bombing was in retaliation for the firing of Chinese anti-aircraft guns which took down the second Japanese plane in the Kiangwan area Sunday, killing three Japanese aviators, as well as the action of a Chinese aviator yesterday who killed a Japanese aviator while flying over Soochow.

SLAYER AVOIDS DEATH PENALTY 24 YEARS BY LEGAL TECHNICALITY

New York, Feb. 22.—[Special.]—Archibald Herron, 73, New Jersey's record-breaking occupant of the death house, has avoided the electric chair for 24 years and because of a technicality he is safe now for the rest of his natural life. Legislation to make a repetition of his case impossible has been introduced by Assemblyman Charles A. Otto.

Herron in 1908 killed the Rev. Samuel B. D. Prickett at Metuchen in a fit of anger because Prickett as police recorder had sentenced him to jail for disorderly conduct.

KEGEL INQUIRY TO BE CONTINUED BY JURY TODAY

The grand jury will conduct a further investigation today of the poisoning charges against Mrs. Marie Sahlin Kegel, estranged wife of former Health Commissioner Kegel. Upon their findings the jurors will decide whether to recommend that the indictment returned last week against Mrs. Kegel shall be allowed to stand, or whether they shall recommend to the state's attorney that the case be quashed.

The jurors will try to have Mrs. Mary Ryan, who has been a patient in the John B. Murphy hospital since Jan. 25, when she charged that Mrs. Kegel poisoned her, brought before them as a witness. If she is unable to testify, the hospital will be asked to send the records of her case to the jury. Hospital authorities said yesterday that they thought it would be harmful for Mrs. Ryan to leave her bed, but that full records of her condition since she entered the institution were available to the grand jury.

It was also reported that Mrs. Kegel, who is a fugitive, confined in a sanitarium, would appear and ask the jury to hear her.

Two Robbers Are Caught by Camera Burglar Trap

Nashville, Ind., Feb. 22.—[Special.]—Benjamin Douglas, former state entomologist and owner of orchards here, who was robbed recently, has developed a burglar alarm which has trapped two men. Douglas placed a snapshot camera in the rear of his office and attached a cord to the doorknob. When he found his office robbed he developed the films. Dale Sluss, Monroe county, was arrested. He denied the charges until he saw the photograph. Sluss then signed a confession and involved Hanford Poling, Brown county, in this and other robberies.

MIDNIGHT RACE FOR LAST PLACE ON PARTY BALLOT

Candidates Jockey for Deadline Advantage.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

A small midnight rush after a stalling contest to be the last to file petitions to run for county offices in the April primaries, as usual enlivened County Clerk R. M. Sweitzer's office last night. A score or so of prospective candidates and their friends, in the ambition to capture the tail place on the ticket which is supposed to rate next to top spot in pulling power with the voters, hung around for hours with petitions in their pockets and watches in their hands, hoping to be last to crash in before the time limit expired.

Hartigan Causes Flurry.

One flurry was caused by the filing of a petition for Judge Matthew D. Hartigan of the Municipal court for state's attorney in the Democratic primaries. It had been announced earlier from the headquarters of Michael L. Igoe, minority leader at Springfield, one of the three major Democratic candidates for governor. Sheriff William D. Meyering appeared at the county building early in the evening saying the petition was ready to file. The conjecture is that the Igoe camp will link its governorship campaign with the contest over the state's attorneyship, the chief county office to be filled this year. The Democratic organization is supporting State Senator Thomas J. Courtney, minority leader. Hartigan got last place on the ticket.

The filing of Steven J. Conway for coroner was also regarded as a move to strengthen the Igoe group. The organization choice is Coroner Frank J. Walsh.

Judge Francis Borrelli of the Municipal court was among the eleventh hour filers, putting in his petition for state's attorney in the Democratic primaries.

Hold Back Deneen Men.

The Deneen camp kept back its drainage trustee slate until the final tick was about to tock, but apparently was beaten in the waiting game by candidates, not so well known in politics, who filed after the Deneen group. Part of the Deneen slate is at the top of the ticket, having filed early, and the Republican county ballot is led by State's Attorney John A. Swanson.

The filing of Steven J. Conway for coroner in the Democratic primaries was regarded as a move to strengthen the Igoe group. The organization choice is Coroner Frank J. Walsh.

The candidates for the county offices in the order of filing as given by County Clerk Sweitzer are as follows, an asterisk [*] denoting an incumbent, and slates being designated as [O] Democratic organization, [I] Igoe, [B] Brundage, [D] Deneen, and [H-C] Harding-Crowe:

Of the twelve whose terms expire two are Democrats and ten Republicans. The Harding-Crowe group indorsed all the Republican judges who are up for reelection. The Deneen group indorsed four of the sitting judges—Heller, Trude, Casey, and Holmes. The slates are not complete. Sitting judges are marked with an asterisk [*], [O] denotes Democratic organization, [D] Deneen:

He is president of the Chicago Law and Order league and secretary of the Hyde Park Protective association. Mr. Farwell became ill with a cold two weeks ago. WRIGHT ENTERS RACE FOR AUDITOR AS NELSON QUITS

De Kalb Senator Supported by Emmerson.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 22.—[Special.]—The primary petition of State Senator Harry G. Wright of De Kalb as Republican candidate for state auditor was filed late tonight and word came that Auditor Oscar Nelson would not be a candidate for reelection. Wright is understood to have the support of the Emmerson administration. He is managing the campaign of Omer N. Custer, Emmerson's candidate for governor.

HARRY G. WRIGHT.

In Chicago the following announcement was issued by Mr. Nelson: "All I can say at this time is that I have decided not to file for reelection. For the next year at least I can be of more service to the people by not entering into competition for public office."

Oglesby Petition Missing.

At a late hour no petition for former Lieut. Gov. John Oglesby had been filed. It had been reported that he intended to seek his old office.

The filing of the petition of First Assistant State's Attorney John E. Northup of Chicago, candidate for the Republican nomination for attorney general, was preceded by a statement in which the prosecutor in the sanitary district trial made known his campaign pledges.

"I feel that this office, like all others at this time, should particularly direct its attention to the great task of arresting the upward swing of public expenditures," said Mr. Northup, "to the end that the level of taxation, already too nearly confiscatory, may be reduced within proper and moderate bounds.

Promises Bank Investigations.

"The attorney general is vested with vast powers under the common and statutory laws. It would be one of my aims to use this power for the utmost safeguarding of all public treasuries supplied in whole or in part by state taxation." He also promised that if elected he would devote "unceasing care" to the investigation of improper banking practices.

Within half an hour of the deadline, petitions of two Republican candidates from Cook county for attorney general were filed. The petition of State Senator Arthur Huebsch, Brookfield, was filed in his behalf by State Senator Earl B. Searcy, Springfield, shortly after the petition of Samuel L. Antonow.

The list of candidates for state offices, as compiled at a late hour tonight, follows:

BRUNDAGE PUTS HAT IN RING IN GOVERNOR RACE

Promises to Be Wettest of G. O. P. Candidates.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Edward J. Brundage, former attorney general, entered the race yesterday for the Republican nomination for governor. His petition was filed at Springfield in the afternoon.

RUSH C. BUTLER. [Moffett Photo.]

His decision to become a candidate was the result of a final plea during the morning from a delegation headed by Rush C. Butler, former president of the Chicago Bar association and the Illinois State Bar association. This delegation and others have called on Brundage repeatedly during the last two weeks with appeals that he run, but he postponed his decision until the last day for filing.

The delegation also included Harry Olson, former chief justice of the Municipal court; B. F. Langworthy, Rollin I. Read, Frederick A. Brown, Henry C. Brummel, Gustave Fischer, H. L. Palmer, Col. M. J. Budinger, and Peter S. Lambros, as well as leaders of Brundage's own political organization.

His Opponents in Race.

The Brundage petition was the last important one filed for the Republican governorship contest. The principal candidates he will oppose are Omer N. Custer of Galesburg, the Emmerson choice; former Gov. Len Small, Attorney General Carlstrom, and William H. Malone, former chairman of the state tax commission.

In making his favorable reply to the appeal of his visitors the former attorney general indicated that when his platform is issued he will be the wettest candidate in the race. It is also understood that he will oppose limitation of Cook county representation in either house of the assembly, the compromise on the redistricting problem for which some of his opponents have declared.

Mr. Brundage's decision was attributed largely to Custer's speech at Galesburg, in which he refused to take a definite stand for or against prohibition on grounds that there is nothing a mere state executive can do about it.

Butler Presents Appeal.

Mr. Butler acted as chairman of the delegation that called at Brundage's office and he made the formal talk.

"We have called to ask you not to make final your declination to run for governor," he said. "We have come also to present to you the signed petition of over 5,000 voters urging you to become a candidate. These signatures were not obtained by political organizations but by citizens deeply interested in having a candidate from Chicago.

"We believe that during the last few years Chicago has received scant consideration. During that time we have fallen into a tax muddle that, in the failure of solution, has resulted in collapse of our local governments. The probability of our public schools being closed, the interruption to the education of the children, and, worst of all, the dangers resulting from their being thrust upon the streets are matters of grave alarm to thousands of parents.

Points to Unpaid Teachers.

"The outrage upon the teachers of being unpaid month after month, the threatened curtailment of our police and fire departments and a lessening of all public service are matters decidedly serious to the citizens of Chicago.

"We feel that Chicago needs at Springfield a governor who understands its problems—one who is not antagonistic but sympathetic. Experience has shown us that there is not downstate a proper grasp of Chicago's requirements.

"We want you to be a candidate. It is not solely because of friendship that we make this request. We desire it because we consider that your experience qualifies you better than any one else to help Chicago. As president of the county board you became familiar with the details of our county government. As corporation counsel of Chicago you learned the needs of our city. And from your eight years' experience as attorney general you know the state situation.

For Taxation Solution.

After expressing his gratitude that his callers felt he could be helpful to Chicago, Mr. Brundage reiterated his statement that he had not been eager to become a candidate.

"I may repeat, however," he said, "what I have said before, the problems of Chicago are not local. They are Illinois' problems. The difficulties of taxation must be adjusted and an equitable system established. Personal property cannot place upon real estate the entire load of maintaining government.

"Then, too, I am disgusted with the efforts of Republican aspirants for office to straddle one of the most vital questions confronting the American people.

"Either the 18th amendment and the Volstead law are wise enactments or they are not. I believe thirteen years of trial have demonstrated that these laws are unenforceable. We know what they have produced—the dangers to our youth—promiscuous drinking—and, what is worse, organized crime.

"Beer, because of its bulk, can be transported only by armed gangsters. The vast profits in bootlegging have resulted in an association of criminals so concretely organized and so well endowed that it dominates vice in all its forms.

"I believe the law should be modified. Prohibition is not a moral question. It is both economic and social. To say a governor of Illinois has nothing to do with this question is ridiculous. He is the leader of political thought. He can obey the wishes of the people as expressed in a popular referendum, at least as far as they pertain to state laws.

"I am not in favor of the return of the old time saloon. I do believe that sensible people on both sides of this question realize that it is the biggest problem before the American people. It has got to be settled and settled right.

For Rule of Majority.

"This is a country of majority rule. Only minorities produce tyrannies. The submission of the entire question to a referendum of the people cannot outrage the feelings of any one who believes in majority rule. Unless we abide by the decision of majorities we have ceased to be a free people.

"Accepting your view that I can be helpful to both Chicago and the state, I become a candidate."

Active work on the Brundage campaign will be begun at once. It is expected headquarters will be in the Hotel La Salle.

TWO BOYS PLAY THEIR PART IN BOLD ROBBERY

Two boys and a youth displayed adult expertness in robbery late yesterday when they held up four employés in the offices of the Eblin Engineering corporation, 412 North Leavitt street, and stole $50.

The trio, one about 12 years old, another about 14, and the third 19 or 20, entered the offices boldly. They ordered Mrs. Cecil Newman, 2852 Washington boulevard, and Quido Schultise, clerks, to raise their hands, and then rounded up two other employés, Walter Homberger, 2735 Washington boulevard, and Emanuel Wielmete, 5250 North Melvina avenue.

The oldest of the bandits ordered Schultise to open the safe, and when the latter pleaded he did not know the combination, threatened to "punch him in the nose." Schultise opened the safe.

GALPIN TURNS UP AS CAMPAIGNER FOR DRY CUSTER

Found Running Meeting of Committeemen.

Newspaper men who called at the Hotel Morrison headquarters of Omer N. Custer, state administration candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, were surprised to discover a conference of west side ward leaders and committeemen in charge of Homer K. Galpin.

Galpin, former county chairman, remained out of the jurisdiction of the Cook county courts for two years when grand juries were seeking to ask him about the source of large campaign contributions that reached his hands. Another year has passed since that time and there had been no prideful announcement of his return when he was discovered more or less in the rôle of local campaign manager for Mr. Custer.

The headquarters announced that sixteen west side committeemen and another half dozen western ward leaders were present. Observation failed to verify the figures. Most of those seen, like Galpin, were known to be wets, and they laughed off efforts to interview them about their reasons for sticking to Custer after his dry pronouncement at Galesburg on Saturday.

Wet and Dry Problem.

In spite of this laughter of those who answered Mr. Galpin's call, there were a number of regular ward committeemen who, during the day, admitted their efforts in Custer's behalf had been extremely embarrassed by his statement that a state executive has nothing to do with the wet and dry question. Among them were the following:

CHARLES L. GERDS, 7th ward—I don't know how I can ask the voters of my ward to support a dry candidate for governor. I don't see how a dry candidate can expect votes in Chicago. His candidacy is a puzzle to me.

D. W. JELLEMA, 9th ward—He's all dry and I'm all wet. I'm not a candidate for reëlection, so Mr. Custer's campaign will not embarrass me.

CHARLES A. NOWAK, 19th ward—As a state office holder I don't wish to be compromised. My ward is dry and therefore it will not be inconsistent for me to be with Custer.

WILLIAM LASS, 23d ward—I'm not responsible for Mr. Custer's views or his policy. He's the candidate and he should know what he is doing. I can't say what will happen in my ward. Our people may not like to vote for a dry candidate. I haven't taken a position on the matter yet.

Wet, But He Backs Custer.

WILLIAM M. GARRISON, 27th ward—I'm wet and so is my ward. When James Hamilton Lewis was

Gov. Ritchie Makes Plea for State Liquor Control

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 22.—[Special.]—Before an audience which local political seers estimated as being 90 per cent Republican, Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland today pleaded for individual state control over the liquor problem and "an unscrambling of mixed politics and morals."

GOV. RITCHIE. [Harris & Ewing]

He was speaking to the Michigan organization of the Crusaders, pledged to repeal of the eighteenth amendment. At night he was the guest of honor at a reception and dinner given by the Democratic state committee. He wound up the second day of his Detroit visit with an address to a massmeeting of his party at Orchestra hall, where two thousand persons cheered a verbal chastisement of the administration in Washington.

The Crusaders' luncheon was presided over by Dr. Burt Shurley, president of the school board, who, after informing the five hundred diners that he was a lifelong Republican, went on to divulge the information that conditions brought about by the operation of the eighteenth amendment had caused him to discard a party label.

Issue Above Party.

"I care not now," said Dr. Shurley, "whether a man is a Democrat or a Republican. What concerns me in the approaching battle is a candidate's attitude on this iniquitous piece of legislation. We are assembled here on the birthday of the greatest American, George Washington, to listen to the doctrine of one of the greatest living Americans, the governor of Maryland."

Gov. Ritchie jokingly made reference to the fact that the majority of his audience belonged to the other side of the political fence and asked that the diners bear with his criticisms, for that was the privilege of the party out of power. He promised them that their turn for caustic comment would begin with the inauguration of the next President.

"My concern," he said, "is not whether the nation shall be wet or dry, but how can government best deal with the problem to reach that goal which ought to be the objective of all—true temperance. I believe our greatest progress to that end was made before we mixed morals, politics, and legislation all together and tried to do by government force what can be done only by education and popular sanction and consent."

Gives States Control.

Turning to his ancient gospel of state rights, the presidential candidate declared he could see "no way" out except by turning the question back to the states, with federal power limited "to its sound constitutional function of seeing that the interstate phases of the subject are controlled to give effect in each state to the popular will."

In the enthusiasm of his audience Gov. Ritchie professed to see proof of the radical change in the viewpoint of the nation as a majority on the matter of discussion of what Dr. Shurley had termed "this distressful question."

"There was a time," said the governor, "when it was regarded as a sort of quasi-treason to question this in public. That time has gone, because people in high places are expressing their convictions on both sides of the question more freely now."

Assails Administration.

Taking up his promised criticism of the national administration, Gov. Ritchie had this to say:

"We try to help the wheat farmer and buy millions of bushels of wheat and then we are afraid to sell it for fear the bottom will drop out of the market altogether. So we exchange it for Brazilian coffee and thus put the government in competition with private business. We encourage the cotton planter to grow more cotton and when he does and then finds no market for it, the best we can do is tell him to plow up and destroy every third row."

campaigning for governor he promised the people beer in six months and we haven't got it yet. If a United States senator can't get beer for the people how can a governor do anything about it? We've got to do the best we can for Custer.

ROBERT E. CROWE, 29th ward—Custer's attitude makes no difference to me. I have been with Carlstrom for months.

EDWARD F. MOORE, 30th ward—I'm wet, but I'm with Custer.

JOHN T. DEMPSEY, 38th ward—Theoretically and technically Custer is correct when he says prohibition repeal is a matter for congress and not for a state official. But if another O'Grady bill for repeal of the state search and seizure law is passed and if Custer be elected governor he would have to decide whether to sign or veto it. So the question does face a state official and Mr. Custer is confronted with it. I can answer only for myself and I'm wet and I am a candidate for clerk of the Appellate court.

U.S. Marine Has Smallpox; Battleship Is Quarantined

HILO, Hawaii, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Precautions were taken today to prevent spread of smallpox in the United States fleet following discovery of a mild case on the battleship Arizona. Private William W. Smith of the marine corps, taken ill Friday, has been transferred to the hospital ship Relief. The Arizona has been quarantined, her personnel vaccinated, and the visit of the ship to Hilo and Pearl Harbor canceled.

STATE TO SPEND 4 MILLIONS IN '32 ON STREETS

Urbana, Ill., Feb. 22.—(AP)—Frank D. Sheets of Springfield, state highway engineer, said today the state will spend $4,000,000 in 1932 for improvement of streets in Illinois cities.

He said the highway department will inform city officials of the contemplated work within a few days. The cities can either permit the state to construct the streets, he said, or they can coöperate with the state.

The highway department now is maintaining or reconstructing 1,390 miles of streets in Illinois, Sheets said. He spoke today before the annual highway short course at the University of Illinois.

PEPSODENT ANTISEPTIC is 3 times as powerful as any other leading mouth wash. Hence it goes 3 times as far. That's economy for you! Why waste money on antiseptics that must be used full strength to be effective?

IT'S plain to see—the difference between Pepsodent Antiseptic and other kinds is a big difference to the public. It's the difference between one dollar or three—the difference between positively killing germs or fooling oneself by diluting old-style antiseptics. After all, there are really only two leading kinds of antiseptics. On one side you have the mouth wash that kills germs only when used full strength. On the other side you have Pepsodent Antiseptic—utterly safe, when used full strength, yet powerful enough when diluted with 2 parts of water to kill germs in 10 seconds! Pepsodent Antiseptic is at least 3 times as powerful as other leading antiseptics. Hence, it goes 3 times as far—gives you 3 times as much for your money—and gives you greater protection against sore throat colds. What a fine way to save money. Instead of paying $3 for three bottles, you pay $1 for one bottle and make it go as far as three—just mix as you use it. For years 3 people in 4 have diluted ordinary antiseptics but now they've discovered their mistake. When choosing your antiseptic, be sure you choose the one that kills the germs when mixed with water. Insist on Pepsodent Antiseptic—be safe—and save money!

BAD BREATH (Halitosis)
The amazing results of Pepsodent Antiseptic in fighting sore throat colds, proves its effectiveness in checking Bad Breath (Halitosis). Remember Pepsodent is 3 times more powerful in killing germs than other leading mouth antiseptics. Remember, it kills germs even when diluted with water!

21 GUN SALUTE OPENS TRIBUTE TO WASHINGTON

Many Groups Honor Father of His Country.

Cannon-fire boomed out over Lake Michigan at the foot of Randolph street at 11 a. m. yesterday as Chicago officially began the celebration of Washington's 200th birthday. The presidential salute of twenty-one guns was fired in front of the Illinois naval reserve armory. The observance of the Washington bi-centennial will end on Thanksgiving day.

Clear skies and mild weather sent thousands outside their homes to enjoy the double holiday. The loop streets were thronged with theatergoers and shoppers. Luncheon rooms and banquet halls were packed with civic and patriotic assemblies paying tribute to the memory of Washington. Ballroom floors were filled with dancers last night. Pageants, songs and speeches emphasized the ideals of Washington. The incidents of his life were recalled and faith in his principles was pledged anew.

Bust Presented to Mayor.

Mayor Cermak received in his office yesterday a marble bust of Washington presented in honor of the bi-centennial. The presentation was made by William G. Thon and Col. T. A. Siqueland, chairman of the Chicago division of the bi-centennial organization.

The mayor was also present at the firing of the presidential salute, as were Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, commander of the sixth corps area of the United States army, and his chief of staff, Col. William H. Burt, Mr. Thon, and Col. Siqueland. There were 30 uniformed sailors commanded by Capt. Edward A. Evers. The U. S. S. Wilmette was in holiday dress with flags and emblems flying.

Officials Are Speakers.

United States Attorney George E. Q. Johnson and Circuit Judge Michael Feinberg addressed 2,000 members of the Knights of Pythias and auxiliary organizations at a Washington bicentennial celebration last night at 32 West Randolph street. Attorney General Oscar Carlstrom was the principal speaker at a meeting of the Illinois Society, Sons of the American Revolution, at the Hotel La Salle, and Floyd E. Thompson, former chief justice of the Illinois Supreme court, addressed a meeting of school children and adults in the First Methodist church of Evanston.

Johnson and Carlstrom and Judge Feinberg emphasized the need of patriotism like Washington's in the present trying times.

"Our problems have become more involved, but a little of Washington's patriotism and faith in God would go far toward stabilizing present conditions," said Mr. Carlstrom. "We need his courage, that we may transmit to our children the priceless heritage we received from him."

"Traitors of Present Day."

Speaking of traitors in Washington's time, Judge Feinberg declared there are those today who are no better than Benedict Arnold. He praised District Attorney Johnson's war on gangsters as exemplifying the courage of the true Americanism for which Washington stood.

Mr. Johnson spoke of Washington as "the first great fraternalist," as illustrated by his respect for the rights of others and benevolence toward the weak.

Washington's disregard of party politics in the selection of his cabinet and members of the Supreme court evidenced his sincere devotion to the best interests of the nation, former Justice Thompson declared.

Among the patriotic groups gathering for luncheon was the Chicago chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, which met at the Stevens hotel. More than 500 women heard Maj. Norman A. Imrie of Culver Military academy speak on "What America Needs." This was followed by a series of tableaux picturing the life of Washington. Mrs. Raymond W. Stevens, regent of the Chicago chapter, presided.

James F. Bishop of the Illinois Bicentennial committee spoke before the National Fraternal Congress of America, which is holding its annual meeting at the Congress hotel. The congress is composed of the life insurance divisions of several lodges. The sessions will continue through today. Peter F. Gilroy of Denver is the president.

Discusses Washington's Life.

More than 300 members of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs met at the Morrison hotel yesterday for the first district luncheon to hear William Rothmann, attorney for the sanitary district board, tell of the life of Washington.

"Men of Washington's social stratum were pro-English and opposed to the revolution," Mr. Rothmann declared. "But Washington, who had everything to lose and nothing to gain by a revolution, nevertheless fostered the cause of the common people."

In services at St. James's Episcopal church, attended by the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, tribute was paid to the memory of Washington. Bishop George Craig Stewart conducted the service.

Charles G. Sauers last night told the Cook County Federation of Women's Organizations at its bicentennial program at the Chicago Woman's club that the forest preserve, of which he is superintendent, will commemorate George Washington by the planting of a million trees and shrubs in the 30,000 restricted acres.

31ST PRESIDENT PAYS HIS TRIBUTE TO NATION'S FIRST

Military Leaders Colorful.

An aurora of gold braid and gleaming ribbons bursts through the doorway—the commanders of the nation's military and naval forces.

The governors of Virginia and South Dakota, the Washington bicentennial commission, with Prof. Albert Bushnell Hart of the flowing beard and five descendants of the Washington family, take their places, followed by the cabinet, marching to front row seats.

Then, "the President of the United States" announces Joe Sinnot.

Audience Sings; Hoover Doesn't.

Preceded by his aides, with Senator Simeon D. Fess of Ohio and Representative Clifton A. Woodrum, heads of the committee on arrangements, trailing close behind, in comes President Hoover.

There is applause. The President shakes the hands of the speaker and of Vice President Curtis, who now has charge of the gavel.

Led by the chorus of interstate commerce commission employés, the audience sings "America." The President does not sing, but Senator Fess beside him pipes away lustily. This is a great moment for Senator Fess.

The President's speech before this distinguished audience is the official opening of a nine months' long celebration of Washington's birthday.

Washington Great in Adversity.

"From the inspiration and the ideals which gave birth to this nation, there has come the largest measure of liberty that man has yet devised. So surely were the foundations of this free government laid that the structure has been able to adapt itself to the changing world relations, the revolutions of invention and the revelations of scientific discovery, the fabulous increase of population and of wealth.

"If we are to get refreshment to our ideals from looking backward to Washington, we should strive to identify the qualities in him that made our revolution a success and our nation great.

"We find they were not spectacular qualities. His great military strength was in the strategy of atrition, the patient endurance of adversity, steadfast purpose unbent by defeat. The American shrine most associated with Washington is Valley Forge, and Valley Forge was not a place of victory—except the victory of Washington's fortitude triumphant above the deakness and discouragement of lesser men. Washington had courage without excitement, determination without passion."

House Yells for Garner.

The members of the house felt easier. As the foreign diplomats filed out, there was applause. It died down, then picked up again as a small figure passed up the aisle third from the end of the line. The handclapping swelled loudly. It was Minister Yen of China.

The Supreme court paced its dignified way up the aisle. Cheers mingled with the handclapping.

The house members were feeling happier and more at ease. They applauded Vice President Curtis as he led the senators back to their own end of the capitol.

The house members were alone at last.

"Hurrah for Garner!" called a voice on the Democratic side—not loudly, more of a suggestion. It was a popular suggestion, the most popular of the day to judge by the yells and shrieks, the whistles, and the waving of handkerchiefs that followed. The noise lasted a long time.

AWARD FOR BRAVERY WASHINGTON STARTED REVIVED BY HOOVER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 22.—[Special.]—The Order of the Purple Heart, established a century and a half ago by Gen. George Washington as award for bravery on the part of his enlisted men in the revolutionary war, was revived today by the war department at the direction of President Hoover. Announcement of the reëstablishment of the order was made as a tribute to Washington on the two hundredth anniversary of his birth.

The Order of the Purple Heart is the oldest honor in the decoration for enlisted men and non-commissioned officers in the history of the army. Only three men, Sergt. Daniel Bissel of the 2d Connecticut regiment, Sergt. Daniel Brown of the 5th Connecticut regiment, and Sergt. Elijha Churchill of the 2d Continental dragoons, also a Connecticut regiment, ever have received the award.

Under the rules providing for its reinstatement, however, thousands of soldiers and ex-soldiers will become eligible for the decoration.

In establishing the order at Newburgh, N. Y., on Aug. 7, 1782, Gen. Washington declared "the road to glory in a patriot army and a free country is thus open to all."

The revived decoration consists of a heart shaped medal with a face of purple enamel bordered with gold. On the reverse side is a relief figure of Gen. Washington in his continental uniform and the inscription "for military merit." The Washington coat of arms is incorporated in the ring which attaches the medal to a ribbon of purple bordered with white.

WASHINGTON WAS IDEAL CITIZEN, SAYS PERSHING

Lauds Military Genius in Valley Forge Speech.

Valley Forge, Pa., Feb. 22.—(AP)—Gen. John J. Pershing, on the historic camp ground of Gen. George Washington and his continentals, today paid tribute to the first President as "the ideal American citizen."

To 9,000 Boy Scouts and more than that number of other persons at the Washington Memorial chapel, the general also extolled the military genius of Washington by describing him as "the great commander."

"The remarkable achievements of Washington during the war, in the face of every discouragement," Gen. Pershing said, "confirmed him in the minds of his countrymen as the unquestioned leader, not only in military but in civil councils as well. A broad minded, many sided patriot, he stands as the ideal American citizen.

"The strength and majesty of his character and the devotion which he inspired were not diminished with the years. And as we look at him from a more distant age, we must conclude that, during the revolution, our armies were commanded by one of the great captains of all time."

"1932 VIEWS" OF WASHINGTON ARE OUTLINED

Lafayette, Ind., Feb. 22. — [Special.]—Here is how George Washington would view problems of 1932, if he were alive today, in the opinion of Dr. L. M. Sears of Purdue university, author of a history of American foreign relations as well as of a new "Life of George Washington."

Not unduly disturbed by the agricultural situation because he faced with courage an equally bad one.

Not entirely dismayed by the industrial depression, as he would take a constructive attitude toward engineering projects such as Boulder dam, Muscle shoals, or Great Falls of the Potomac.

Against adoption of the 18th amendment but rigid obedience once it became part of the basic law of the land.

For adoption of a plan of adequate preparedness.

Against joining the league of nations, but hearty coöperation in efforts at control of international social problems.

Against adoption of the economic boycott on Japan, but protection of American lives and property in China, Japan or any other country.

"Washington was essentially a nationalist, with interests of the nation as a whole always first," said Dr. Sears. "In diplomatic matters he is the father of neutrality, the steady worker toward peace with due preparedness, the well wisher of other nations, but first the guardian of his country's interests."

THIRD CHILD IS BORN TO IRVING BERLINS; IT'S 7½ POUND GIRL

New York, Feb. 22.—[Special.]—A seven and a half pound daughter was born to Mrs. Ellin Mackay Berlin, wife of the song writer, last night at Doctors hospital.

The new arrival is their third child. Mary Ellen, the first, was born on Nov. 26, 1926. Irving Berlin Jr., the second child, died on Dec. 25, 1928, less than a month after his birth.

It is said the death of this baby brought about a reconciliation between the parents and Mrs. Berlin's father, Clarence H. Mackay, chairman of the board of the Postal Telegraph company. He had opposed their marriage.

NOW SCIENCE TELLS WHY BRAN IS SO GOOD FOR HEALTH

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Has "Bulk" and Vitamin B; Also Healthful Iron

By using Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, millions of people have overcome common constipation, and the headaches, loss of appetite and energy that so frequently result.

New laboratory tests show ALL-BRAN supplies two things needed to overcome temporary and recurring constipation: "Bulk" to exercise the intestines. Vitamin B to help tone the testinal tract.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of lettuce. Within the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently it clears the intestines of wastes.

Further experiments prove ALL-BRAN provides twice as much blood-building iron as an equal amount by weight of beef liver.

Eat this delicious cereal and avoid pills and drugs. They cause artificial action, and often lead to harmful habits.

Try two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN daily — sufficient to overcome most types of constipation. If your intestinal trouble is not relieved this way, see your doctor.

ALL-BRAN has a delicious, nut-sweet flavor. Enjoy as a cereal with milk or cream, or use in making fluffy bran muffins, breads, omelets, etc. Recipes on the red-and-green package. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

SILENT THRONGS BOW IN HOMAGE FOR WASHINGTON

Hoover Lays Wreath on Ivy Grown Tomb.

By GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 22.—[Special.]—Washington, which was named for him; Alexandria, which knew him as a neighbor; Mount Vernon, where he lived, and now lies buried, were the triple shrines today for people from all parts of the country who came to honor George Washington on the 200th anniversary of his birth.

The President of the United States laid a wreath on the first President's ivy grown tomb on the banks of the Potomac. The famous Richmond Light Infantry Blues and the famous Richmond Grays marched in a parade of memories down the streets of Alexandria. And in the capital more than 75,000 visitors came to attend the opening of the George Washington bicentennial which will be celebrated throughout the nation for the next nine months.

Reverence Brings Silence.

All day long tourists, eager but reverent, walked the gravel paths of the Mount Vernon estate down the slopes to the deep green grotto where under simple architecture planned by Washington himself lies the body of the father of our country. Today, with all the crowds, the color guard in his little booth, had no need to urge silence. The little children were quiet. Their parents were hushed.

Through the hours this organization and that came to place a wreath on the cold stone casket covering that was warmed with the foliage. Later in the afternoon came a wreath, no more elaborate than the others, but bringing with it the tribute of a nation. This was the wreath which President Hoover placed there as he stood in silent homage for a minute.

They left Washington down there by his Potomac that he loved so well and walked up the winding paths, past the deer park, past the carriage house with its old coach, past the holly trees so vividly red, to the fine old colonial house, so vividly white in the sunlight.

Through the main hall beneath the key to the Bastille presented to Washington by Lafayette, across the carpet with its faded stars interwoven, and out to the veranda overlooking the river the presidential party went.

Tribute to Teachers.

There on the grassy slope were banked hundreds of men and women, delegates to the National Education association convention at the capital. To them he said:

"It is a signal event that the representatives of teachers of our whole country should meet in Mount Vernon today. Because our teachers, more than any other group, have both the privilege and the duty to guide the steps in each new generation on the road to democracy; to instruct them with understanding and reference for the spiritual benefits which flow from this history of this great man, and to instill our children with the accomplishments of the men who have made and guided our nation.

"You have come from every part of our country, from homes, towns, cities, and states unknown to Washington's life, yet each of and every one of which received untold blessings from his life and his public service. To you more than any one else we intrust the translation of Washington to our children, and that is a trusteeship in which the nation can find no greater assurance of its meaning, of its sanctity and reverence."

Parade Traces History.

Back in his motor, the President drove to Alexandria, over the new Washington Memorial road, in a great deal less time than it was wont to take George Washington, country squire, to make the trip on his favoriate horse. In Alexandria they were just witnessing the end of the parade, the beginning of which the President had reviewed earlier in the afternoon.

It was a huge parade, filled with both history and hilarity. The famous Richmond Light Infantry Blues, the famous Richmond Grays marched along with khaki clad men of today. A group of pickannies danced about on the steps of a red brick manor house whose slave quarters had been transformed into a modern garage. Gov. John Garland Pollard of Virginia headed a delegation from the Virginia legislature. A lady in a lace gown made a colonial curtsey.

Later in the evening many ladies in lace gowns were bowing low at Gadsby's tavern in Alexandria, where the "birthnight ball" duplicated as far as possible the last birthnight ball Washington attended there, in 1798.

Back in Washington, too, dancing closed the birthday. Fragile costumes from grandmother's trunk, fresh costumes from a clever dressmaker, mingled together as it suddenly grew fashionable to be white haired, and statesmen put on brocaded breeches to do their bit for the bicentennial.

CROWD OF 5,000 CHEER THRILLING RESCUE AT FIRE

Flames swept rapidly through the four story plant of the Empire Packing company at 3840 Emerald avenue yesterday after an ammonia plant exploded.

When engine company No. 29 arrived most of the employés had fled to safety. But with a crowd of 5,000 or more looking on spellbound, a short, thin man had crawled out on a window ledge on the fourth floor. The fire was sweeping on him and he lowered himself down the wall and clung by his hands to the sill.

Ladders were extended up toward him. The first one was too short to reach his feet. The victim, agonized by the flames searing his fingers, cried that he would have to let go. Then Lieut. Stanley Tichy called to him to hold on. The lieutenant went rapidly up the ladder. From the top of it he could just reach one foot of the unfortunate man. When the latter dropped, the lieutenant held him, obtained a firmer hold, and carried him down as the onlookers cheered.

He is Nicholas Nagdol, 35 years old, 1525 West 47th street. At the Wesley Memorial hospital his condition was described as serious. Miss Helen Wilson, switchboard operator, and thirty other employés trapped in the building escaped by climbing down ladders.

GIRL VANISHES IN IOWA; HOLD CHICAGO YOUTH

Elmer Norum, 20 years old, 4155 Kamerling avenue, formerly a freshman track team star at the University of Illinois, was being held by the police of Cedar Rapids, Ia., last night in connection with the disappearance of a 14 year old girl, Phyllis Byers of Cedar Rapids.

The girl's parents said that Norum called for her at her home last Friday night and she had not been seen since. Norum declared that he and Lawrence Mudd of Louisville, Ky., had left Phyllis and another girl a few hours after she joined him at her front door. He added that he did not know where she went.

Norum and Mudd are employed as members of a crew of magazine salesmen. The parents of Norum said he had to leave the university last June and go to work. His father, Martin Norum, is a conductor on the surface lines.

G. O. P. WILL PICK HOOVER, BUT NOT SO GRACEFULLY

Lack of Enthusiasm Made Manifest.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 22.—[Special.]—Although the renomination of President Hoover at Chicago next June is almost universally taken for granted, the lack of enthusiasm among Republicans for their party leader is almost daily being manifested in some new and striking way.

It appears that Ohio is the only state in which the President will make an open fight for delegates. Postmaster General Walter F. Brown returned from a reconnaissance of that state to assure the White House that it would be safe for Mr. Hoover to enter his name in the primary, virtually all opposition having been removed.

Dodges Primary Defeats.

As to North Dakota, Minnesota, Illinois, Wisconsin and other western states, however, it was stated that Mr. Hoover would make no primary fight for delegates. For Mr. Hoover to enter the contest in these states, according to the scouts, would be to risk almost certain defeat at the hands even of opponents who would have no chance themselves of being nominated. Thus Mr. Hoover by staying out of the North Dakota primaries has avoided the danger of being defeated by Dr. Joseph I. France of Maryland.

Even in Minnesota, with the highest per capita number of federal job holders in the country, the prospects of obtaining an instructed Hoover delegation are exceedingly unfavorable. Assistant Postmaster General Arch Coleman and Walter H. Newton, one of the secretaries of the President, both of whom hail from Minneapolis, were dispatched home to arrange for these instructions, but were forced to beat a precipitate retreat by the heat of the factionalism they stirred up. Now the understanding is that the administration will keep its hands off the Minnesota situation.

New Jersey Revolts.

A repugnance to instruction of delegates for Mr. Hoover has developed among Republican leaders in both New Jersey and New York. The New Jersey leaders disclosed their opposition to instructions several weeks ago, giving as their reason the inconsistency of indorsing the renomination of the President and of demanding a platform plank advocating repeal of prohibition.

Thereat Ambassador Walter E. Edge, a Republican big shot in New Jersey, was hastily summoned back from Paris to labor with the disaffected. He came, spending several days in New Jersey and several more in Washington. He labored with all concerned, including the President. He told Mr. Hoover, according to the account of the interview, that eastern Republicans cannot be expected to rally enthusiastically to the support of Mr. Hoover or to contribute to his campaign fund unless he makes the race on a wet platform.

Tries Prohibition Compromise.

The word Mr. Edge brought back from the White House was that Mr. Hoover is going to let the convention write the plank on prohibition and he will run on any platform however wet it may be—that is, within reason. The ambassador's judgment of the maximum degree of wetness Mr. Hoover would regard as "reasonable" suggested a plank advocating a referendum on prohibition repeal or modification. Then Mr. Edge returned to Paris confident that on the basis of this understanding of the President's attitude the New Jersey Republicans will instruct for Mr. Hoover.

As a result of these developments the Hoover strategists have been trying to devise a plank wet enough to satisfy the big contributors without being so wet as to alienate the prohibitionists who are overwhelmingly Republican outside of the south. Their first proposal was a plank committing the party to resubmit the 18th amendment to the people whenever a majority of the states should petition congress to do so.

It Pleases No One.

Administration leaders put forth this suggestion, saying they had received assurance from dry leaders that they would accept such a plank in preference to the Raskob proposal to submit an amendment taking wet states from under the eighteenth amendment. When the move leaked out, however, the dry leaders refused to indorse it. The Rev. Edwin C. Dinwiddie, spokesman for the combined prohibition organizations, admitted that the proposition had been broached to him but pronounced it "simply a step in the direction of repeal," at a time when the drys are demanding a "fair trial for prohibition.

Nor did the proposal appeal to the wets. Henry H. Curran, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, called it a "trick plank" which sounded fair but actually would impose a new hurdle to repeal of the 18th amendment.

Recover Bomb Believed Tossed from Automobile

A bomb consisting of ten sticks of dynamite taped together, which was found by boys in the old canal bed at 32d street and Western avenue on Saturday, was turned over to the bomb squad by Capt. George O'Connor of the Brighton Park police yesterday. Since there are no construction projects involving blasting in the neighborhood of the old canal bed, police expressed the belief that the dynamite was tossed from an automobile of bombers who were being pursued by police.

MAYOR PRESSES FOR JOB SLASH; PICK COMMITTEE

Overrides Aldermen Who Oppose Plan.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The actions of Mayor Cermak yesterday, not his speech so much, indicated impressively that he is determined to reduce the cost of the city government substantially—$18,300,000 at once and more later.

He appeared before the council finance committee, which met to consider his recommendation for the abolition of 2,479 jobs at an estimated saving of $6,345,740. Every seat was occupied and many were in the corridor because of the lack of standing room. Practically every department head and scores of employés were there to tell the effects which will follow a layoff of 2,479 employés.

Suggests 50 Per Cent Cut.

In this setting the mayor suggested about a 50 per cent cut in appropriations from taxes, prevented the department chiefs from making their speeches, and had a subcommittee appointed to trim the budget, slash the estimate of revenue, and get other local governments to fall in line with a real economy program.

Only one alderman voiced a protest. He is Oscar F. Nelson [46th], who was floor leader for the late city hall administration.

"I do not think we will have much more than half the taxes we spent last year," said the mayor. "There has got to be a reduction. It is idle to go ahead and make a budget until we determine how much money we can expect.

Others Must Follow.

"It is useless for the city proper to economize unless the other governments follow suit. We are not going to have the income. More personal property will be placed on the tax rolls, but that will be offset by a reduction in real estate.

"I have received hundreds of telegrams saying that the police, fire and nurses should not be reduced. Health Commissioner Bundesen is here to plead for the nurses. I haven't talked to him, but I know what he will say. The police commissioner has a plea for you and I know what that will be. If it is not to be the police, fire and nurses, what shall it be? There must be large cuts. The money cannot be gathered in. We are threatened with the closing of the schools. That would be a calamity, but what can be done about it?

"The legislature has left us flat on our backs. At the last session it added $20,000,000 more in taxes for pensions.

Income Tax Cited.

"This special session has added an income tax which will burden Chicago $24,000,000 a year," added Ald. B. A. Cronson [4th]. "It has fastened a bond issue of $4,000,000, without a referendum, on the west side. The local governments should get together on a reduction in expense."

"We cannot cut out 2,479 jobs without endangering life, property, limb, and health," said Ald. Nelson. "It means riots and a breakdown of the local government. It is our sworn duty to protect life, health, and property, even if we haven't the money. I know of no unnecessary jobs and will never vote to eliminate 2,479. Douglas Sutherland and Harris Keeler have said we have no useless jobs."

Would Smoke Out Dodgers.

Nelson finished with a plea for a campaign against tax dodgers. He would use the radio night after night to give the names of those who evade taxes. He would smoke them out, and especially those who have not paid their share of personal property taxes.

Ald. John Toman [23d] suggested that tenants do not pay rent to landlords who have not paid their taxes.

"It is not our sworn duty to appropriate regardless of our income," said Ald. J. M. Arvey [24th]. "It is our sworn duty to appropriate within the revenue. To do otherwise is an offense against the law."

Ald. John S. Clark [30th], chairman of the committee, also insisted that expenses be reduced. He said that real estate has decreased 20 per cent in value and that there has been a 30 per cent loss and cost in the collection of taxes. These two items in dollars he placed at $140,000,000, or about half of the tax bill for the county.

Suggests Other Action.

Ald. J. B. Bowler [25th], suggested that the mayor close up the movie houses of a company which he said owes about $300,000 in taxes. He would also go after a taxicab company, which he said should pay about $500,000 in taxes.

"Ald. Nelson said he does not know of any useless jobs in the city service," said Ald. J. B. Waller [43d]. "We have an $80,000 report from J. L. Jacobs telling us of score of them."

Then followed a motion to appoint a subcommittee of five to perform the tasks outlined by Mayor Cermak.

The school board is scheduled to hear from several tax experts this afternoon who have been asked to estimate how much taxes will be available for the school board this year. This is exactly the information which the mayor suggested the council finance committee should obtain. After getting the estimates, the mayor would have all of the governments agree on a tax figure.

Then from that basic figure, the mayor would persuade all of the local governments to reckon their tax income and make a budget accordingly.

The "shame" campaign to collect 1930, 1929, and 1928 taxes, which the council judiciary committee has been promoting, was attacked yesterday by Nathan William MacChesney, attorney for the Chicago Real Estate board. This board has sent out a letter saying that "no good purpose can possibly be served by putting these [1930] taxes into collection at this time."

MacChesney and Sexton Clash.

Referring to the adjournment of the legislature to April 19, MacChesney said that it was maneuvered by "Chicago interests" which wished to delay taxing personal property by continuing the old system as long as possible.

"Do you mean me?" asked Corporation Counsel Sexton while the aldermen sat up in their chairs.

"Let me finish my statement," snapped back MacChesney.

"You have no right to make those left handed remarks about city officials. You make a lot of loose statements continually," shot in Sexton.

"That is not worthy of you," soothed MacChesney.

"I'll make it worthy of me," said Sexton. "I stood it all last week in Springfield and won't stand it any longer."

No Reference to Officials.

MacChesney said that he did not refer to any members of the city government as being in the "Chicago interests," and added that the legislature adjourned for political reasons.

"This is Washington's birthday," commented Ald. John Coughlin [1st]. "To me it is treason that the property owners will not pay part of their taxes. I would go farther than calling them in. I would picket their stores, shops and offices and shut off their water."

The chief object of the judiciary committee was to formulate a program for the legislature, on which they made uncertain progress.

ALDERMANIC GROUP WANTS TAXES PAID IN 2 INSTALLMENTS

After a five hour session yesterday a subcommittee of the city council outlined a legislative tax program which will be submitted to the judiciary committee this morning. If approved it will go to the council later in the day.

The plan provides for the payment of the 1930 taxes in two equal installments on April 15 and Oct. 15. In the opinion of tax experts the plan is futile because the 1930 tax bills are in collection now and since it might involve a breach of contract with the holders of 1930 tax anticipation warrants.

The subcommittee approved senate bill No. 150, which authorizes the county court to order a reassessment where property is omitted or undervalued in an assessment roll and give a rebate to those who have overpaid, providing it permits a reassessment of personal property for 1928 and 1929.

County Attorney Bell charged that real estate interests had halted the passage of this bill. "I was astonished," he said, "as my thought was to reimburse real estate taxpayers when personal property was reassessed."

SEE INSURANCE BOOST IF FIRE FORCE IS PARED

Officials of the Firemen's association of Chicago yesterday issued a warning that a reduction in the personnel of the fire department would make it necessary for fire insurance companies to raise their rates, and might result in their refusal to write more than a stated minimum of protection.

"The firemen respectfully suggest," the statement continued, "that deliberately inviting a repetition of the events of 1871 will not help in the solution of Chicago's problems."

Bernard M. Cutler, chairman of the fire prevention committee of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, which made a favorable report on the city's fire protection a year ago, said in New York last night that reductions meant "taking a chance."

"It would not be possible to say that the rates would go up until the reductions are actually made," he declared. "But if Chicago makes a large reduction in its fire fighting ranks its is quite likely the rates would be raised."

COUNTY BOARD WAILS, BUT CUTS OFF 499 JOBS

Heed Whealan Warning to "Econmize or Quit."

School of Nursing caused a sharp debate. Commissioners Fleming, Plumb, and Sears, women commissioners, objected, declaring that a long study should be made of nursing school costs before a cut was considered.

Commissioner Weber retorted that his preliminary investigation of the school had shown extravagant management. He mentioned the items of expensive furniture purchased with county funds by Miss Laura Logan, dean of nurses, for her private quarters, as evidence of the spirit in which the school was being run.

The motion was passed, 6 to 4, with Commissioner Busse and George A. Miller passing their vote.

The vote upon the job cuts took half an hour, with each commissioner arising to explain his vote. Commissioner Frank Kasper said it was time "to take the bull by the horns." Commissioner Peter M. Kelly declared the emergency was "terrible." Miss Mary McEnerney said she hoped all county activities would "break down" as a result of the slashes. Miss Amelia Sears voted in the affirmative, expressing "sincere regrets."

Mayor Orders License Offices Kept Open Late

Mayor Cermak yesterday ordered City Clerk Brady and City Collector Kaindl to keep their offices open until 5 p. m. on Saturdays and until 9 p. m. during the week for the purpose of issuing licenses to applicants. The mayor's order was based on his personal observation last Saturday afternoon of a crowd of persons who were unable to pay their vehicle and general license fees.

DENIES MYSTERY IN RESIGNATION OF M'ALLISTER

Rumors of some hidden mystery in the sudden resignation of the Rev. Dr. Charles E. McAllister last Saturday as rector of St. Luke's Episcopal church, Evanston, were denied last night by G. F. Slaughter, junior warden of St. Luke's. Mr. Slaughter confirmed Dr. McAllister's statement that his resignation was based solely on differences of opinion between himself as rector and the vestry on matters of parish administration.

"The rumors are sheer nonsense," said Mr. Slaughter. "Even those who might be opposed to Dr. McAllister on matters of policy have the utmost respect for his character."

The Rev. James McNeill Wheatley, senior curate under Dr. McAllister, has become priest-in-charge of the parish. The Rev. Mr. Wheatley went to Evanston on the call of Dr. McAllister.

Last night a leading member of the Evanston church, not a vestryman, asking that his name be withheld, said the secret of the whole affair was "the inability of a parish like St. Luke's to get on with two bosses."

"Bishop George Craig Stewart," he said, "is too close to the parish he created during his 26 year rectorate to release control of its activities in a period of a few months."

DEFICIT TACKLES YALE FOR BUDGET LOSS OF $500,000

New Haven, Conn., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Yale university's income for the current year will fall short by $500,000 of meeting expenses and all departments have been asked to make a 10 per cent reduction in their budgets.

President James R. Angell said that the budget cuts would be made "without a reduction of the salaries of any of the attachés and if entirely possible, without the curtailment of personnel."

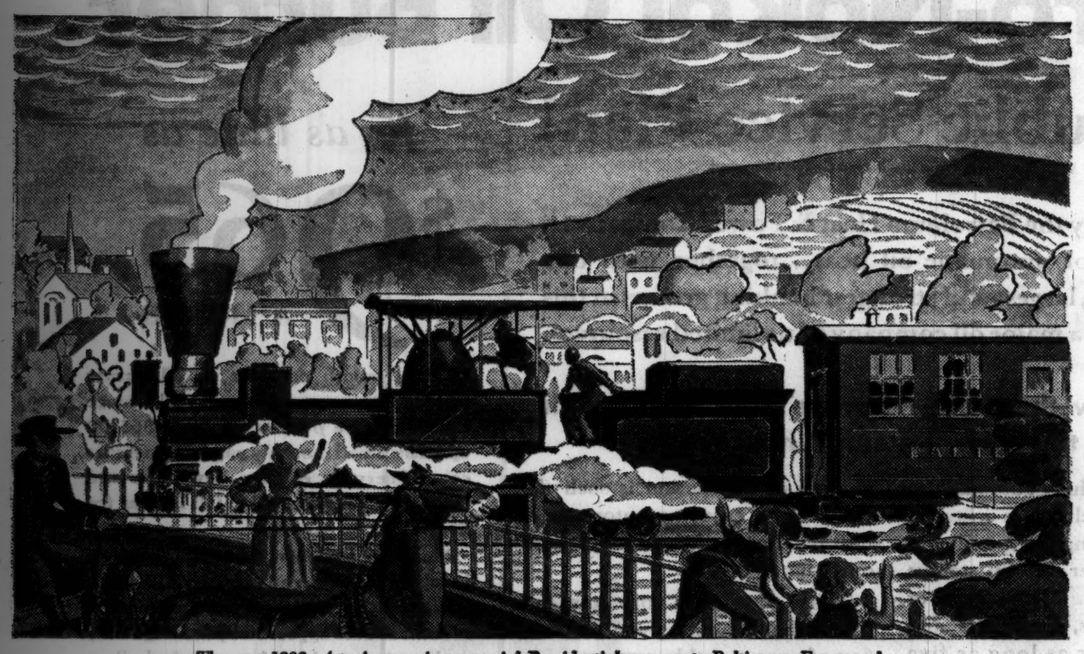
SUCH SPEED WAS UNHEARD OF . . . SO HE PUT OUT THE FIRE!



The year 1832. A train carrying a special Presidential message to Baltimore. Faster and faster it roared along. Now it had reached a speed of thirty miles an hour. Suddenly a hiss, a jolt. The train stopped. The fireman, frightened at such speed, had put out the fire!

TIMES HAVE CHANGED since firemen put out fires because thirty miles an hour was too fast. Today's railroad is the most efficient mode of transportation ever devised by man. Although generally we think of this efficiency in terms of passenger service, the greatest contribution the railroad has made is its economical handling of freight.

Thousands of freight trains roar through the night. One brings your morning milk. Another carries fresh fruits and vegetables. Still others bring clothing and building material. These essentials of life must arrive on time.

Were it not for railroad transportation we would live in a different world. Our fruits and vegetables would have to be gathered from nearby orchards and farms. Indispensable drugs would not be available at the corner pharmacy. Part of our cities would be turned into dairy lots and grazing lands. Our modern industrial structure would crumble.

Supplementing the railroad, and helping it maintain its high efficiency is the General American Tank Car Corporation. Most railroads maintain only sufficient special cars (such as refrigerator and tank) for their daily requirements. At peak seasons, when additional equipment is necessary, they obtain extra cars from General American. These cars are leased first to one road and then to another—thus enabling General American to operate its fleet economically throughout the year. In this way General American assists the railroads—helping them to render the most efficient transportation service ever devised by man. Address Continental Illinois Bank Building, Chicago, Illinois.

HOPE TO COLLECT $7,000,000 TAX WITHIN 3 DAYS

43 Personalty Bills Sent to Large Concerns.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

More than $7,000,000 in personal property taxes for 1930 will be collected in the next three days, in the opinion of Chief Clerk Otto Woerter of the county treasurer's office.

Seven million is nearly 25 per cent of all of the personal property taxes collected in 1931 for the tax year of 1929. Approximately $29,000,000 was gathered in by the country town collectors, the county treasurer and later by the state's attorney through court proceedings.

Five Banks Pay All.

In the first two days of 1930 collections last Friday and Saturday, five banks—Central Republic, Continental Illinois, First National, First Union Trust and Harris Trust—paid an aggregate of $3,235,463.59, which is the full amount to a cent assessed against them. Twenty-three other banks will receive their tax bills for personal property in the mails this morning.

But the bills for the 23 banks are relatively small in comparison with part of the personal property bills sent out yesterday for the local public utilities—Edison, phone, gas and street railway companies. These bills total $4,276,086.52. These utilities have personal property scattered in every township within the city and at various spots throughout the county. The total of their personal property taxes will be consequently larger than represented above.

Amounts Set Aside.

The utilities, like the banks and other well managed corporations, set aside the estimated amount of their taxes from the income of 1930. The cash with which to make the payments has been resting in the banks since, and it was presumed by Chief Clerk Woerter that the companies will pay as soon as they can verify the accuracy of the assessments.

Personal property tax bills were mailed yesterday to a number of large concerns with downtown offices. Forty-three of the larger assessments mailed are as follows:

TRIAL OF GEYER AND WOODRUFF TO BE DELAYED

The trial of Norman O. Geyer and George Woodruff, indicted on charges of conspiracy in connection with the closing of the Waukegan State bank last June, which was scheduled to begin in Woodstock today, will be continued, according to State's Attorney A. V. Smith of Lake county. Geyer was president of the Waukegan State bank and Woodruff formerly was chairman of the National Bank of the Republic of Chicago.

It is probable also that the case of State Auditor Oscar Nelson, who was named in the same indictment but obtained a separate trial, will be continued, Mr. Smith said.

Plans to open a merged bank to take over the assets and liabilities of the Waukegan State bank and the Waukegan National bank are said to be progressing and State's Attorney Smith said he did not want the trials to proceed now if they would do anything to hamper the opening.

CASHIER JAILED AFTER STORIES IN ROBBERY DIFFER

W. W. Buck, cashier of the Ringwood State bank, in McHenry county, was locked up in the jail at Woodstock yesterday. On Saturday Buck reported to authorities that five bandits, waiting in the bank, made him a prisoner when he opened the doors in the morning, forced him to open the vault, and fled with $5,000.

Yesterday he dropped into the office of Sheriff Lester Edinger at Woodstock. They began to chat about the robbery. Sheriff Edinger noted discrepancies in Buck's story, as compared with his first story. He prolonged the conversation and noted more discrepancies.

He locked Buck up. The sheriff declared that the cashier's remarks indicated that he was withholding information about the robbery, and said that Buck would be held until he clarifies his story. Buck's home was searched, but nothing was found there.

HUNDREDS DANCE AT BENEFITS FOR HUNGRY CHILDREN

Stars of Stage and Radio Entertain Crowds.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

Two of the gayest celebrations of George Washington's 200th birthday anniversary were the bicentennial balls last night at the Aragon and Trianon ballrooms. Between 2,500 and 3,000 persons danced to the music of Wayne King's orchestra at the Aragon and of Bernie Cummins' band at the Trianon, and enjoyed the special entertainment given at both places by stars from loop theaters and radio broadcasting stations.

The proceeds of the balls will be turned over to THE TRIBUNE'S Hungry School Children's fund to provide lunches for needy pupils in 243 public schools.

There were many supporters of the Hungry School Children's fund who took large parties to the ballrooms. Delegations came from the Chicago Motor club, the Illinois Central and the Pennsylvania railroad service organizations, the 40 and 8 society, the American Legion and Legion auxiliaries, and the "400" clubs of the Trianon and Aragon.

Ballrooms Gaily Decorated.

The ballrooms were decorated in holiday style with the national emblem and portraits of Washington. Girls in colonial costume sold candy, part of the proceeds going to the Hungry School Children's fund.

Arthur Lake, who played the rôle of Harold Teen in the movies and who is performing as master of ceremonies this week in the Uptown theater, made his appearance at the Aragon with the Harold Teen gang from W-G-N.

A love duet was sung by Allan Rogers and Marian Palmer, principals of "The Chocolate Soldier," playing at the Erlanger theater. Others on the program were the "Melody Three," Harriet Brewer, Margarite Jacobsen, Marion Cole, and Miss Ruth Wenter, radio star. The Alpha Chic Omego trio, including Bill Zook, Kay Williams and Beth Smith, also sang.

From W-G-N came Announcer Bob Elson, accompanied by Tom, Dick and Harry, Carl Hoefel, Lawrence Salerno, and Beth Owen.

Program at the Trianon.

At the Trianon Baby Rose Marie, who is playing at the RKO Palace theater, sang a few of the 150 songs which she has memorized at the age of 6. Contributions to the Trianon program from the loop theaters also included the appearance of Gloria Holden, Roman Behnen and Jay Fassett, principals of "As Husbands Go" at the Adelphi.

Twenty-four girl students of the Harrison High school gave a Polish dance. Mayor Cermak indicated his support of the benefits by appearing at the Trianon and addressing the crowd.

The Oxford Singers, official Washington bi-centennial male quartet, were on the program at both ballrooms singing George M. Cohan's "Father of the Land We Love," and "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia."

The contributions that arrived yesterday for the hungry school children's fund from TRIBUNE readers are as follows:

$5—H. S. Irwin, S. S. Gibling.
$3—D. E. Cameron.
$2—Ruth P. Derebey, Emma Peterson, Mrs. L. M. Samuel.
$1—L. Schenck, anonymous.

Total	$ 56.00
Previously acknowledged	36,678.34
Grand Total	$36,734.34

RUNAWAY GIRL'S FATHER SEEKS TO HALT MARRIAGE

County Clerk L. A. Hendee of Lake county said in Waukegan yesterday that Charles F. Martin, 2051 Home avenue, had notified him not to issue any marriage license to his daughter, Alice Carol Martin, 15 years old, and Armin Hess Jr., 18 years old, 7434 Barton avenue, should they apply for one in Waukegan.

The two young persons disappeared from their respective homes and when they had not returned late Sunday night their absence was reported to police. Early yesterday both families received telegrams from Kenosha, Wis., reading: "We've eloped. Don't worry."

EDITOR IS CITED FOR CONTEMPT OF COURT IN A CIVIL ACTION

Carbondale, Ill., Feb. 22.—[Special.]—That an editor may be brought into court for criminal contempt by a plaintiff in a civil suit has been ruled by Circuit Judge D. T. Hartwell of Marion when he decided that Frank Ledbetter, editor of the Pulaski Enterprise of Mound City, and the Carterville Herald of Carterville must answer in Circuit court at Mound City on March 16.

The motions to quash had been argued before him on this case, the first being sustained and the second denied. The attorney for Ledbetter contended that no one in a civil suit had the right of their own motion to bring criminal contempt proceedings, but only through the state's attorney or attorney general could such proceedings be brought.

The plaintiff argued that a person accused of obstructing of justice could be brought into court and punished. Attorneys for Ledbetter say the freedom of the press is involved. The civil suit is one wherein Grace King of Mound City is seeking to collect $15,000 damages for a mouse she alleges was in a can of chili con carni bought from Oscar Atherton, a Mound City grocer.

Ledbetter in his Pulaski Enterprise published a letter which appeared to be a circular sent out by the Cairo Association of Grocers as a matter of news to show that the grocers were paying attention to the suit.

Grace King, through her attorney, charges that it is insinuated that the damage suit is a "frameup" and that the publication of the letter would obstruct justice.

CLARKE HEADS DRIVE TO SELL RELIEF PAPER

Banker Cites Merits of $18,750,000 Warrants.

Philip R. Clarke, president of the Central Republic Bank and Trust company, was pressed into service yesterday by the Joint Emergency Relief fund to direct the current drive to sell $18,750,000 in state warrants authorized by the legislature for charity relief in Cook county.

Mr. Clarke spent his first day on the job in rounding up an organization to sell the securities, including among them many men who worked with him in the liberty loan, the Strawn relief drive and other charity campaigns. He appointed chairmen of 38 trades divisions, who were given allotments and sent out to secure their pledges.

$6,000,000 in Notes Sold.

The sales of the notes have totaled $6,079,000 to date.

"This is a job that requires more action than explanation," said Mr. Clarke last night. "The facts are pretty well known. For the last two years shelter and food have been provided to an increasing number of Chicago families through the generous and outright gifts of our business concerns and many thousands of individual citizens.

"The millions of dollars thus made available, despite careful administration, are exhausted, and it once more becomes our duty to provide funds to continue their very necessary assistance.

Cites High Interest Rate.

"The emergency is just as great as it was last year and early this winter, but the burden of providing more funds by outright contributions has been overcome. The state of Illinois has agreed to furnish the money needed to carry on the relief work as soon as it disposed of an issue of $18,750,000 6 per cent notes created as a result of the splendid recent action of the Illinois legislature. These notes in every respect are sound, tax exempt securities, giving the highest rate of interest return of any obligation ever issued by the state of Illinois.

"A small group of patriotic citizens has in the last week been selling these notes to those who chose to buy for investment reasons. This sale has not progressed rapidly enough, so we are organizing on a much larger scale in an effort to get across to every corporation and individual the urgent need of the complete sale of the entire amount of the notes and the fact that it is more than their choice—it is humane obligation to buy these attractive securities.

Allocated to Trade Groups.

"The $18,750,000 has been allocated through a quota system to the various trades, to an individual subscription committee and to an investment banking sales organization."

In announcing Mr. Clarke's appointment to the sales chairmanship, Edward L. Ryerson Jr., president of the Joint Emergency Relief fund, called attention to the fact that the fund is "operating on a very limited, temporary credit, as we cannot get the necessary funds from the state until the $18,750,000 of notes has been subscribed."

SURFACE LINES WILL CHANGE TWO STREET CAR ROUTES TODAY

Two changes in street car routes will be made by the Chicago Surface Lines today. The Lincoln-Berwyn line will be consolidated with the Indiana avenue line and operated as a through route, No. 3, from the north end of Lincoln avenue to Indiana avenue and 51st street. The Indiana avenue cars run from 51st street and Indiana avenue to the Navy pier at present, while the Lincoln avenue service operates from Lincoln and Berwyn avenues and Lincoln and Peterson avenues to La Salle and Madison streets as one branch, and from Rosehill and Ravenswood on another branch. Local downtown cars, it was explained, will be operated over the route in rush hours, and the Lincoln-Rosehill cars will continue to operate as at present. Instead of Indiana avenue cars running to the pier over Grand avenue, as they do at present, this service will be provided by Stony Island avenue cars.

FIND TELLER OF CLOSED BANK IS SHORT $10,000

Investigation of the records of the closed Wiersema State bank, 11103 South Michigan avenue, disclosed yesterday that the accounts of one of the tellers were short $10,000.

None of the officers of the bank had any knowledge of the shortage until two days after the bank closed on Jan. 29, it was stated. Nicholas Wiersema, president of the bank, said depositors would lose nothing by the teller's peculations, as all employés of the bank were covered by a policy issued by the Massachusetts Bonding company.

It is understood that the bonding company is negotiating with the teller for restitution of the money. Assistant State's Attorney Henry E. Ayers is studying the bank records with a view to prosecuting the teller. Before being forced to close by steady withdrawals the Wiersema bank paid out more than 75 per cent of its deposits, once amounting to $4,250,000, according to the president.

GANG 'EXECUTES' HUSBAND, SHOOTS WIFE IN CELLAR

Trio Beats Second Man in Village Home.

Taylorville, Ill., Feb. 22.—[Special.]—Three armed men, believed to have been members of a bootleg gang, stopped their battered automobile today in front of the bungalow home of Dominic Severi, 42 years old, in the village of Langleyville, two miles west of Taylorville.

"Down to your cellar," the leader ordered.

In the basement they stood Severi against a wall and shot him six times, as his wife looked on. As she screamed and struggled the intruders turned and shot her six times. Then they beat Nichi unconscious and departed.

When neighbors entered the bungalow Severi was dead. The others were unconscious. Mrs. Severi and Nichi were brought to the St. Vincent hospital, where it was said her condition was critical.

Sheriff Charles Wienecke, after examination of the house, expressed the opinion that Severi had been a bootlegger and had cut in on the territory of the killers.

Nichi was unable or unwilling to give the authorities any information that would lead to the capture of the three men. He said he had never seen them before.

JAPAN DEMANDS WORLD CUT SIZE OF BATTLESHIPS

Also Seeks to Curb Naval Warfare in Air.

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Feb. 22.—Japan today made a precise demand for a reduction in the size of capital ships at the international disarmament conference. In a ten point proposal she asked that capital ships be limited to 25,000 tons and their guns to 14 inches.

This is directly opposite to the American viewpoint and the proposal embodied in the second and third points of the nine point program of American Ambassador Hugh S. Gibson, also submitted in detail today, that the Washington and London treaties be prolonged and proportional reductions be made within that framework.

Britain Uses Diplomacy.

Great Britain made a proposition tonight but did not join in the drive on battleships. Instead of pressing her old demand for a smaller model, she merely asked "consideration of the possibility of reduction in the size of capital ships."

This is interpreted to mean that with Japan and France sympathetic to each other's naval proposals, London is not eager to reopen the old arguments with the United States at the very beginning of this conference.

Like nearly everybody else Japan came to Geneva with positive proposals carefully designed to improve her own relative situation. In addition to her proposal to reduce the size of capital ships she suggested the limitation of the aerial side of naval warfare, which is designed to reinforce her mastery of part of the Pacific, enabling her submarines to strike from countless island bases.

Would Cut Aircraft Carriers.

She also proposed a reduction in tonnage allotted to aircraft carriers and to abolish landing stages and mooring masts on any other type of warship. One brand new suggestion urged the limitation of armaments and landing stages on merchant ships.

Japan also asked that aerial bombardment of cities and all other attacks on civilian populations be outlawed.

With the French scheduled to return from Paris on Wednesday, led again by Andre Tardieu, and eager to seize their first opportunity to answer Germany's demand for military equality, the conference is about to be revived.

The so-called "conference" commission, which in reality is the conference itself, will begin its labors with Tardieu's return. And before the week closes enough persons are expected to demonstrate what chance of success this conference has, if any, on the major issues.

Showdown Is Near.

A convention "humanizing" war could be signed here tomorrow, but the chances of agreement on the big points are not quite so good.

The conference commission will begin on the question of procedure and it is on this score that the French will pounce on the German and Russian proposals. Their strategy, it seems, is to sidetrack both on the pretext of clearing the way for the draft disarmament convention as a basis of discussion.

The French as well as a number of others feel that a showdown is imminent this week or next and that an adjournment may be necessary to avoid aggravations bound to result from a too apparent breakdown.

The American delegation is strongly opposed to the idea of adjournment and has found support among other delegations.

U. S. BOOTLEGGERS HOLD RUM PRICE PARLEY IN CANADA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HALIFAX, N. S., Feb. 22.—Determined to reduce Canadian liquor prices to depression levels in the United States, heads of the Atlantic coast rum running racket met here today. Rum runners from all over the east will be in conference for a week. Vannie Higgins of Brooklyn, credited with having called the parley, is reported to have arrived here on Saturday and registered at a hotel under an assumed name.

Thomas Kilduff and Louis Ferrar of New York City scorned such subterfuges when they arrived this morning. Kilduff said that while business "is good, the competition is getting pretty tough, and we're going to talk with several of the boys while here."

Although the government price for liquor does not fluctuate, the wholesalers who supply American rum runners can demand almost any sum they please for the cargoes that go to New York's rum row.

Dies, Aged 100

MRS. MARY M'FARREN.

Oregon, Ill., Feb. 22.—(AP)—Mrs. Mary McFarren, who was 100 years old last Sept. 16, died here last night. She was born in Pennsylvania. As a bride she traveled in a covered wagon to Kansas with J. R. McFarren. Her death broke a family chain of five generations.

USES FIRE RUSE TO ENTER HOME; ATTACKS WOMAN

Cuts Telephone Wire to Prevent Alarm.

A bandit who started a small fire and then played a bogus rescue rôle to entrap his victim, attacked Mrs. Eva Goodwin, 35 years old, mother of two children, in her home at 10731 Eberhart avenue last night.

Mrs. Goodwin, wife of a road supervisor for the Illinois Central railroad, was ready to go to bed when she was aroused by a furious pounding on the front door. She opened the door. A man about 30 years old confronted her.

Shouts Warning of Fire.

"Your garage is on fire," he shouted. Mrs. Goodwin looked out and saw that what he said was true. She tried to telephone to the police but the wire was dead. It was later learned that it had been cut.

Just then the man knocked on the rear door. "Give me a bucket of water and I'll put the fire out," he said. Mrs. Goodwin gave him a bucket. He made three trips for water, and extinguished the small blaze.

Then, on his fourth appearance, he put his hand in his pocket. "I'm a robber," he said. He forced Mrs. Goodwin to give him $3. Then, taping her mouth and tying her with telephone wire, he attacked her. He left 40 minutes later, alarmed by the crying of Mrs. Goodwin's children upstairs.

Police said the rapist doubtless started the garage fire as a ruse. While getting the water he was able to satisfy himself that Mrs. Goodwin was unprotected.

Suspected Rapist Seized.

The police last night arrested John Sluntski, 19 years old, of 5331 Madison street, who escaped last September from the state hospital for the feeble minded at Lincoln. Sluntski is a suspected rapist and confessed robber.

He will be questioned in connection with an attack early yesterday on Mrs. Anne Yaeger, 50 years old, of 322 North Lotus avenue. She was dragged into a car at Laramie and Chicago avenues, robbed of her purse and attacked. Sluntski denied the rape. The police say he admitted nine street robberies in which he used a cigaret case as a revolver.

Bandits Paddle Boat Through Flood, Rob Store

Lepanto, Ark., Feb. 22.—(AP)—Robbers last night paddled a boat through flooded streets to one of the town's largest stores and tried to dig through the thick brick walls of a vault. Failing, they looted a cash register of a few dollars, loaded their pockets with cigarets and cigars, and sailed away.

PITCAIRN ISSUES CALL FOR G. O. P. REPEAL SESSION

Warns Party of Peril in Dry Law Straddle.

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 22.—[Special.]—Raymond Pitcairn, executive chairman of the Republican citizens' committee against national prohibition, made public today the text of the invitations he has sent to prominent Republicans throughout the country to attend the rally of Republican liberal forces in Chicago March 4.

The purpose of the Chicago meeting, as announced in the invitations, is "to consider ways and means to place a prohibition repeal plank in the Republican platform to save the party from the destruction which seems inevitable if the present straddling policy is adhered to."

In addition to President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia university and Congressman James M. Beck of Pennsylvania, who are scheduled as the principal speakers, Mr. Pitcairn revealed that he had invited Joseph R. Nutt, treasurer of the Republican national committee, to attend and express his views.

6,000 Indorse Movement.

Mr. Pitcairn said while making the announcement that favorable indorsement of the movement had been received from more than six thousand Republicans, who were either Republican contributors to the campaign of 1928 or were outstanding business men. Those attending the conference will run into the hundreds.

"As chairman of the Republican citizens' committee against national prohibition, I extend to you a cordial invitation to attend the three sessions of this committee, to be held at the Blackstone hotel, Chicago, on March 4, 1932," said Mr. Pitcairn's letter to Mr. McNutt.

"We know that you as treasurer of the Republican national committee share our concern over the increasing number of contributors of our party in 1928, who will throw their contributions to the Democratic party this year unless our party comes out for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

Contributions Held Up.

"Stress has been laid upon the loss of these former contributors to the Republican party. We are also impressed with the number of contributors to the Hoover campaign of 1928, who have joined our Republican citizens' committee and have voluntarily pledged themselves not to contribute to their party, unless the party platform and its candidate stand unequivocally for repeal.

"The drys have claimed the President for their own. The drys will mark him with the brand of prohibition, if they can.

"In normal times political expediency might dictate that the hour for the presidential declaration is after the national convention. But we are in the throes of a political revolution. The rules of the game of politics are of no avail. Some say it is already too late. We say the time is now."

ARRAIGN BROTHER OF SENATOR CARAWAY ON DRY LAW CHARGE

Waverly, Tenn., Feb. 22.—(AP)—Walter E. Wyatt, brother of Senator Hattie Caraway of Arkansas, entered a plea of not guilty before a United States commissioner today to charges of violating the national prohibition law, and furnished $1,000 bond for his appearance in federal court at Nashville the second Monday in March. He is charged with owning and operating a distillery, possessing intoxicating liquor, and possessing property designed for use in the manufacture of liquor.

The commissioner, Max Simpson, quoted officers as saying they found a still near a farm which Wyatt rents and that after lying in wait for a while Wyatt and another man approached the still but turned back before reaching it.

The officers, Commissioner Simpson said, followed Wyatt to his home and reported they found a dismantled still there.

The Wyatt estate, where Mrs. Caraway was reared, is some distance from Wyatt's rented farm.

N. Y. GROUP SEES REPEAL, BARES PLAN OF CONTROL

Basic State System Embodied in Report.

New York, Feb. 22.—[Special.]—Definite recommendations laying the ground work for a system of state control of liquor in the event of the repeal of the eighteenth amendment were made public today by a conference group which has carried on an investigation of control methods since Dec. 1, 1930.

At the instigation of the New York State Division of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition reform, fourteen persons active in religion, law, medicine, education and social service took up the study leading to the present preliminary report, in which are embodied the important basic provisions of a liquor control law for New York state.

The elimination of profit from the manufacture and sale of alcoholic beverages is of the most urgent necessity for the success of such a law, according to the conference group. It is pointed out that this end may be achieved, as it is in other countries, by government manufacture or by the chartering of companies under government control, with a fixed limit of return on capital investment. Any surplus to go to the state.

The group considers third in importance a provision for a comprehensive plan of temperance education.

The members, who consented to make the investigation as a public duty, Mrs. John S. Sheppard, New York state chairman of the group said, include Bishop Charles Fiske of the Episcopal diocese of Central New York; the Rev. Dr. Howard Chandler Robbins, former dean of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, and William Andrews of Syracuse, former judge of the state court of appeals.

CENTRALIA MAN KILLS SELF.

don't blame them wholly for winter ills

CHILE REACHES BREAKING POINT IN NITRATE POOL

Another Trade Stabilizing Project at Crisis.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Down in Santiago, flourishing capital of the industrialized republic of Chile, where more than four billions of American and European capital have been invested, a consultation is scheduled to open this morning between government officials and spokesmen for the largest corporation ever conceived in South America to attempt stabilization of a raw product.

The consultation has been called in an effort to save the Chilean nitrate industry from disaster. The corporation in the case is the Compania De Salitire de Chile, a combine financed half by the government and half by private operators, who control 95 per cent of the vast natural nitrate deposits of Chile. For almost two years artificial injections of more than 375 million dollars have been necessary to keep this combine alive.

Hope to Save Industry.

According to dispatches last night the consultants said they have hopes of "ironing out serious difficulties between the people and government of Chile" on one hand and private interests, including the Guggenheim brothers of New York on the other. They admitted, however, the dispatches said, the danger of dissolution of the combine, a breaking up of the Chilean nitrate industry, and a resulting debacle in the nitrate pampas which threatens the entire financial structure of the nation.

Public opinion against this huge attempt to stabilize an interest from which the Chilean republic has received as high as half its total income was reported as adding seriously to the crisis. As in the Canadian wheat pool, the American farm board, the Cuban sugar trust, and the Brazilian coffee stabilization fiascos, the Chilean government finds itself involved in an international malady of uneconomic artificialities.

History of the Trade.

The nitrate combine, known as the Cosach, was formed in July, 1930. Between 1830 and the ending of the world war, Chile had enjoyed the bulk of the world's nitrate trade. By 1920, however, synthetic production in Germany, Great Britain, the United States, Japan, and other countries had combined with improved production in Chile to bring a world surplus.

Even an international agreement failed to check production and control price cutting, and Chile withdrew from this organization in 1930. That year it was staring at vast warehouses piled high with 40 per cent of its year's production unsold.

These nitrates from the desert of Tarapaca once sold at high prices, and Chile enjoyed a virtual monopoly. Nitrates are used in stimulating growth of farm crops, in making high explosives, pickling and preserving meats, and in manufacturing glass and glassware, artificial silk, dyestuffs, fireworks, and many chemicals. They also are used in making the transparent package and cigar wrappers so popular today and the fine automobile finishes and lacquers of modern perfection.

Synthetic Processes Developed.

Chile, depending upon its natural deposits, did not reckon with science. Methods of getting ammonia, from which nitric acid and nitrogen fertilizers are made, were developed so that ammonia became a byproduct of the coking of coal. Even more spectacular has been the rise of the process of producing ammonia by combining nitrogen from the air with hydrogen from coal gas or with other products.

Today the United States has sufficient capacity for producing all its nitrates by synthetic process. Germany or Chile alone, the one with synthetic, the other with natural nitrates, could supply the entire needs of the world. Germany's existing nitrate plants are reported running at 20 to 30 per cent of capacity.

The result has been that Chile's market continues to decline, in spite of new processes introduced by American interests to cheapen nitrate production. Even the supplying of half the world's needs for iodine from these itrate fields has not relieved the situation.

The best customers of Chile in the past are building tariff walls or finding cheaper supplies elsewhere at an increasing rate.

Credit Extended to 1932.

International bankers say that Chile has always maintained its credit. This reputation was advanced last December in an attempt at a "blood transfusion" to save the paling Chilean nitrate Cosach. Upon the government's virtual guarantee of its bonding power bankers of New York and London extended credits to the Cosach to continue its existence into June, 1932.

President Medley G. B. Whelpley of the Cosach enters the conferences this week representing the Guggenheim interests of New York. He has just returned from a first hand study in Europe of what the synthetic competition is doing to Chile's largest industry. He is accompanied by Paul Mayer, a director of the corporation, and a corps of assistants.

American taxpayers have more reasons than one to view the implications of this combine's possible fall with concern. Chicago business men explained yesterday. Not only are millions of dollars' worth of Chilean bonds owned in this country but the United States is still in possession of a nitrate plant of its own, that at Muscle Shoals, in Alabama.

130 Millions Spent at Shoals.

Building the plant in sections during 1919 and 1925, the government has invested more than 130 millions of dollars in an area of 4,000 acres. The 47 million dollar Wilson dam has returned over 4 millions in revenue while leased to produce hydro-electric power. The Sheffield steam power plant costing more than 12 millions has been returning a rental of $10,000 a month, plus a royalty on the current used.

The third unit, called nitrate plant No. 1, cost some 13 millions and has never returned a cent of revenue, while the admittedly obsolete nitrate plant No. 2 cost about 54 millions. A presidential investigation of plant No. 2 last year disclosed that its operation would entail a yearly loss of two million dollars at its rated annual capacity of 40,000 tons of nitrate.

Only the failure of the senate to pass a bill over President Hoover's veto in 1931 saved the United States from entering the power and nitrate producing business, it was pointed out yesterday. Data received by Silas H. Strawn, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, show that the United States has the capacity for producing 691,500 tons of nitrates a year without Muscle Shoals or the Canadian production near Niagara Falls. This is declared to be ample for war or peace time needs. The peak consumption for all time in the United States and its territories was 432,000 tons in 1929.

CHICAGO WOMAN TELLS HOW SHE LOST 12 POUNDS

Many would not believe such a thing possible—as losing a pound a day. But actually hundreds, such as Mrs. Frank Grotola, 2093 Stave St., Chicago. She writes: "For 3 years the large intestine would clog after I ate and I would feel sore. Since taking Bonkora I no longer suffer from that trouble. Besides, I got rid of all the gas. But what makes me most happy is losing 12 pounds of fat in 3 weeks. I am sure grateful to Bonkora." If you are burdened with excess weight, double chin, large hips and bust—by all means get a bottle of Bonkora, the new Battle Creek treatment, today. Before breakfast take a little in half a glass of water.

Don't starve—eat all you want—avoid fatty meats and starchy foods. From free chart with each bottle, merely choose the foods you like best in correct combinations. Bonkora, a compound of Nature's choice herbs and salines—is safe and harmless. Takes off excess poundage by cleansing wastes from the intestines and removing retained moisture from fatty tissues. If you really want to get rid of fat—feel full of vigor—want a clear, glowing skin and an appealingly slender, youthful figure—don't delay another minute. Start today with Bonkora. If within the very first week you do not lose weight, send the bottle to Battle Creek and your money will be refunded. One bottle—a month's treatment—only 98c.

ELMHURST BARBERS PROVIDE THE NEEDY WITH FREE HAIRCUTS

Haircuts and shaves for the unemployed and needy were donated yesterday in the nine barber shops of Elmhurst following the sanction of the plan by George Reno, secretary of the barbers' union, Local 851, of Du Page county. The barbers agreed unanimously on the plan at a meeting on Sunday night. Those seeking the free service must get a ticket from the relief club for unemployed of Elmhurst at 108 Park avenue in the suburb. The work will be done every Monday from 9 to 10 o'clock.

MME. GADSKI, 59, NOTED SOPRANO, SERIOUSLY HURT

BERLIN, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Mme. Johanna Gadski, 59, noted opera singer and once one of the foremost Wagnerian sopranos of her time, was seriously injured today when her automobile crashed into a street car. With her and also seriously injured were her husband, Capt. Hans Tauscher, Mrs. F. Bang of New York and Mrs. C. Busch, Mme. Gadski's daughter.

Mrs. Bang was driving when the accident happened. Mme. Gadski suffered serious injuries to the back of her head. The injuries of the others were reported less serious. Physicians said Mme. Gadski's recovery might be slow because of her age.

Mme. Gadski sued the Chicago Opera company for $500,000 for alleged slander in 1922 in one of a series of quarrels which centered around the fact that she was a native German. She lost the case.

VICTIM DEMANDS 2 FREED GUNMEN BE IMPRISONED

William Trautvetter, a druggist at 2338 East 71st street, said yesterday that he will demand that authorities take steps to return to prison two gunmen, Carl Parker, 25 years old, and Stanley Wilson, 19 years old. Parker fired six shots at the druggist in a holdup. He and his accomplice, Wilson, were freed through the extra-judicial efforts of Circuit Judge E. D. Shurtleff of Marengo, former speaker of the Illinois house of representatives.

Parker is a nephew of Judge Carl D. Sherwood of Clark, S. D., a former member of the Supreme court of that state. Judge Shurtleff took part in the negotiations which caused Judge Charles A. Williams to order that his sentence of a year to life, imposed on Parker and Wilson, should "stand for naught." He granted the two bandits probation.

The two gunmen confessed seven drug store robberies, but were sentenced for only one. The other charges were stricken off with leave to reinstate. Federal charges were also lodged against the pair, since some of the drug stores they robbed were subpostal stations, but these were not pressed after sentence was imposed in the Criminal court.

Spurned Suitor Betrays Girl on Slaying Charge

Peoria, Ill., Feb. 22.—(AP)—Angeline Donnovil, 19, arrested here on the tip of an unsuccessful suitor, will be taken to Springfield for questioning concerning the slaying of a gambler named Dawson, police announced today. They said the girl admitted that robberies were planned in her apartment here. She was arrested subsequent to the capture of a trio who tried to hold up the Illinois Terminal Railway station at Springfield last week.

ACCIDENT VERDICT RETURNED.

A verdict of accidental death was returned by a coroner's jury yesterday at an inquest into the deaths of Karl Kosary Jr., 12 years old, and his brother, Henry, 10 years old, who were drowned on Sunday when thin ice broke on a pond near 92d street and Archer avenue.

SWORD OF LABOR DANGLES OVER DE VALERA'S HEAD

Warns Irish Winner Not to Cut British Ties.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Feb. 22.—Eamon de Valera is almost certain to be the next president of the Irish Free State, but Labor is going to call the turn. This was the impression gained today in an interview with Thomas Johnson, for many years secretary of the Irish Labor party and the real political leader of Irish Labor.

Johnson emphasized that the party has adopted no official policy, but he made it quite clear that if De Valera's Fianna Fail should try for "another round with England," Labor will turn it out of office.

Labor Stands By Treaty.

Labor, Johnson said, stands by the treaty with England. It has been assumed that it would agree to De Valera's program to abolish the oath of allegiance to King George and to retain in Ireland the $15,000,000 Irish farmers pay to their former landlords each year.

This money is collected by the Irish government and paid to the English government which in turn pays the landlords. The Labor leader said that his party would not support the abolition of the oath to King George unless it was made clear that it is not part of a general policy of separation. He added that Labor would not agree to the retention of the land annuities unless by agreement with England.

The position in a nutshell is that Labor stands for the sanctity of the treaty and will not consent to any change except by agreement.

Agrees with Economic Policy.

On the other hand Labor agrees with the general Fianna Fail program of economic reconstruction, including tariffs, higher old age pensions and greater social expenditures.

The net result is that Labor, which holds the balance of power, can change the government at will, and De Valera cannot make any radical departures from the political as distinguished from the economic policy of the present government. If he does, out he goes.

Labor's position on the public safety act is also being watched closely. The party opposed the passage of this act which abolished trial by jury for gunmen and certain other political offenders. Many believe that the gunmen when released will be more dangerous to De Valera than they were to President Cosgrave. They will treat De Valera as a traitor if he does not sever all ties with England. From Cosgrave they expected little.

De Valera Faces Test.

In these circumstances De Valera may be compelled to reenact the act or something similar to it, and if the circumstances are justifiable, Labor might agree in the interests of public order.

The dail meets on March 9. Perhaps by that time De Valera will have made his deal with Labor, but if he has not, every move he makes will be fraught with danger. The opinion that the life of the next government is likely to be a short one is growing in Dublin.

Youth Sought as Suspect Slain by Police Bullet

Chester Lakowski, 19 years old, 4347 South Ada street, died at the Bridewell hospital yesterday morning from a bullet wound inflicted a few hours earlier by Policeman George Jordan. The shooting occurred in front of Lakowski's home. Police had raided an alleged disorderly flat in the same building and arrested a man and woman. Jordan was left to wait for the youth, who was wanted on a warrant charging burglary. When Lakowski returned, he eluded Jordan's grasp and started to flee. The policeman fired only one shot.

EMMERSON SIGNS INCOME TAX AND 15 ROUND BILLS

Bonds Without Vote Acts Get Pocket O. K.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 22.—[Special.]—Gov. Louis L. Emmerson today signed the income tax bill and four of its companion measures. He also placed his signature on the measure which permits fifteen round heavyweight championship fights. The income tax law becomes effective July 1. The governor allowed two bills to become law without his signature. They authorize a $4,000,000 bond issue without referendum by the west park board, and permit certain school districts to incur bonded indebtedness without approval of the voters.

Governor Explains Action.

"The general assembly has passed and sent to me senate bill 44, which authorizes the issuance of bonds by the west Chicago park commissioners and house bill 15, which permits certain school districts in Cook county to incur bonded indebtedness. Neither of these bills requires that the approval of the electors in the district affected shall first be secured.

"As governor I have consistently refused to approve nonreferendum public bond issue proposals. However, in view of the desperate financial needs of the municipal governments in Cook county, I am not disposed to veto these measures. Consequently, I am permitting them to become laws without my approval."

BONDS HELD UP TO JULY 1.

The bill authorizing the Chicago west parks to issue $4,000,000 in bonds without a referendum, which Gov. Emmerson yesterday allowed to become a law without his signature, will be of little benefit to the employés of the park system until July 1.

The bonds cannot be placed on the market until July 1, President William R. James said last night, but a drive to sell tax anticipation warrants will be started immediately. Park officials hope the prospect of the bond issue will aid the warrant sale. No immediate pay is in sight for the one thousand employés, who have gone payless since July and now have approximately $1,700,000 due them.

Chicagoan's Country Home Robbed; Loot Is $6,000

J. A. Muldoon Jr., owner of a trucking business at 1201 West Lake street, reported yesterday to Police Chief Clayton Tiffany of Mundelein that burglars had entered his summer home two miles west of the Lake county town and carried off a quantity of valuable furnishings. The house was closed for the winter. The loss, which Muldoon estimated at $6,000, was covered by insurance, he said.

WISCONSIN GIRL, 15, IS VICTOR IN CHERRY PIE BAKING CONTEST

Olive Charboneau, 15 years old, of Vesper, Wis., didn't mind spending Washington's birthday baking pie. At the end of a morning in the kitchen of the Morrison hotel, her cherry pie was judged the best entered by four contestants in the first national cherry pie contest, and she was awarded a prize of $500. The contest was conducted by the national cherry week committee.

Other contestants were Lois Newkirk, 16 years old, of Grand Rapids, Mich.; Alica Anson, 16, of Spencerport, N. Y., and Stella Snow, 17, of 714 West 61st street Chicago. The pies were judged by Mrs. Wilbur Fribley, president of the Housewives' league; Mrs. Henry W. Hardy, president of the Chicago and Cook County Federation of Women's Clubs, and Miss Lillian Kemp.

The Ford Truck paves the road to profits

"Cut costs" were the orders when the Hillding Construction Company of Bay City, Michigan, was awarded the contract for a nine-mile concrete highway between Adrian and Hudson, Michigan. The bidding for this job was keen and highly competitive and a profit could be turned only if the most rigid economy was observed.

As a step toward lowering expenses, this contractor devised a new system for handling material. Ten Ford units were equipped with trailers so that they could haul three "six-bag" dry batches of material. Twelve or fifteen times a day they traveled back and forth from mixer to the place of pouring. Between times they carried tools, implements and various heavy equipment.

Besides performing these tasks with ease and at a low operating expense, the Ford trucks equipped in this manner saved the cost of a miniature railway which is generally used on hauling jobs of this kind.

Low in purchase price and economical to operate, Ford trucks are built to the requirements of reliable and profitable hauling service. Many outstanding mechanical features contribute to the strength and long life of the Ford commercial units and enable them to stand the stress of hard daily usage with a minimum of repairs and lost time.

Ford hauling units are available with many standard bodies meeting practically every business need. Your Ford dealer will gladly help you with your hauling problems. You may purchase a Ford truck or commercial car on easy terms through the Authorized Ford Finance Plans of the Universal Credit Company.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

SOMETHING NEW IN PRINTING.

THE TRIBUNE takes pride in the demonstration that it has perfected and installed an attachment to its news presses which makes possible the production of three color printing at the full newspaper speed of 36,000 copies an hour from each press. In the last few days the process has been applied to three pages of advertising, the first THE TRIBUNE'S own announcement, the second that of the Kelvinator refrigerator, and the third that of the Hub.

The new process is not the work of one man. It is the result of the coöperation of a group of men, headed by Mr. John Park, production manager, and his assistant, Mr. Otto Wolf. Especially deserving of mention are Mr. Edgar Mahar, chief of the pressroom; Mr. Louis Racicot, head of the engraving department; Mr. Leo Loewenberg, foreman of the composing room, and Mr. Robert Longmore, the stereotyping foreman. THE TRIBUNE takes pleasure in according to these gentlemen the public recognition which they deserve for their achievement.

The possibilities which the new process holds out are manifold. It provides the means for giving added interest and brightness in the presentation of news features and advertising. Merchants and manufacturers have long been aware of the appeal of color, but until recently daily newspapers have made few attempts and enjoyed only limited success in color printing. THE TRIBUNE was first among the great newspapers of the country to offer two color pages in its daily issues and is now taking the lead in introducing the far more effective three color page.

The new process requires additional work in all the mechanical departments. It will give added employment to printers, stereotypers, engravers, and pressmen. The added interest of color in advertising should result in augmented retail sales. The introduction of such improved methods and products as this offers a sure remedy for the depression. Business men have often said that the depression would vanish if some new product were found to provide employment as the automobile did ten or fifteen years ago. Perhaps some such product will be found, but if every business man waits for some one else to discover it we may have a long time to wait. Meanwhile, each manufacturer and business man can help if not by developing new products then by refining and improving old ones.

THE TRIBUNE regards its new color process as its contribution to the recovery.

AND NOW COSTA RICA.

The outbreak of armed revolt in Costa Rica will disappoint many friends of republicanism in Latin America, for in Costa Rica the orderly processes of government and politics have been interrupted only twice before in a century. Prosperity and progress in that country have been the result of peace and we have hoped the Costa Ricans had firmly established their nation as an exception to the rule of government by revolution. They are a people proud of their race purity and of their social and political welfare. The aboriginal mixture is comparatively slight and this has been thought to account for the stability for which Costa Rica has been justly respected.

It is true that the existence in the Latin American countries of a large proportion of comparatively primitive people has much to do with the instability and recourse to force which marks their politics. Self-government, to be even partially workable, requires informed public opinion, a reasonable measure of popular education, and the experience which comes from participation in politics. Many of the Latin American republics lack these and are republics only in name. A small class monopolizes power and breaks up into factions contending for place and privilege. Soldiers have an inordinate advantage and appeals to the ballot offer no real check upon misgovernment. Voters are not equipped with the knowledge, habits of thought, or political experience to provide a check and they are voted rather than vote.

The Indian peoples have solid virtues, but they are not ready for modern self-government and are making very slow progress toward it. The ruling classes, on the other hand, have in the main no special interest in advancing the population to a point at which it will insist effectively upon sharing power, while their long traditions are those of a ruling, not a democratic, régime.

With the gradual influences of education these conditions may be expected to change, but the process will be a long one, interrupted in most cases, rather than advanced, by violent changes of government.

Our own relation to these changes should be governed by an intelligent acknowledgment of conditions, and not as it sometimes has been, notably under the Wilson-Bryan régime, by idealistic generalizations which do not apply. We have a right and duty to protect our nationals and our lawful interests, and our policy or course of action, when we are wise, will keep within these limits. Our intervention is more resented when it lays claim to altruistic ends than when it is frankly directed to the defense of our rights and interests. The altruistic results which have undoubtedly accompanied it are by-products which speak for themselves. The peace and order we have imposed on Haiti, San Domingo, Nicaragua and some other countries have brought benefits more profitable to their people than to us, but they are not the justification for intervention in law or sound policy.

RETRENCHMENT, NOT NEW TAXES.

The American Automobile association and the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce are protesting the proposal of the treasury department to restoration of a wartime excise tax of 5 per cent on new automobile sales. They object on the ground that it is discriminatory taxation, putting a disproportionate burden upon this industry. They assert that motor vehicle taxes paid in over a billion dollars in 1931 and that the proposed tax would approximately double the tax of motorists for the first year of purchase. They are right.

Every industry, every business, every taxpayer, in short, will object to additional taxation, and they will all be right. When the executive and legislative branches of government exercise the same energy and ingenuity in reducing the staggering expenditures of the federal government that they are doing now in finding new ways of wringing money out of business and the people a justifiable groundwork for new taxation may be found, but not before. Both the administration and the congress have refused thus far to lay any respectable foundation for new demands upon the taxpayer. The fall in revenue returns is no justification for new impositions. In any sound public finance it calls for the lightening of taxes, not their increase. But to lower taxes when tax returns are falling can only be possible by cutting expenditures drastically, and that is what politics and bureaucracy stubbornly refuse to do.

But it must be done. Federal finance is on the brink of bankruptcy. Industry, agriculture, and commerce are bearing as heavy a burden as they can carry. The people are in the same condition. To pile up more taxes upon them for expenditures not necessary and in many cases not even desirable from the standpoint of public policy is intolerable, and the nation should let that be known at Washington. The only taxation that is justifiable at this time is that which is required to meet the irreducible minimum of federal expenditure. THE TRIBUNE favors no tax, in old form or new, which does not strictly meet this test. It protests and will continue to protest every scheme for new taxation in any form while the government refuses to retrench as conditions demand. The federal budget must be balanced. But it must be balanced by the necessary reduction of expenditures, not by the unnecessary and ruinous increase of taxation.

GANGLAND AGAINST WILKERSON.

The opposition to Judge Wilkerson's appointment is led, in name at least, by labor. Capone and his sympathizers cannot, of course, present to the senate their substantial objections to the promotion of the judge who sentenced the gangster to eleven years in the penitentiary. But it is not to be doubted that gangdom is moving heaven and earth to defeat the elevation of Judge Wilkerson to the Circuit Court of Appeals.

If the gangsters succeed in their purpose every federal judge in the United States will have been given formal notification that it does not pay to apply the criminal law in all its vigor to the organized enemies of society. All the rhetoric being spilled over Judge Wilkerson's alleged prejudice against organized labor, whether sincere or not, is serving merely as a screen for the real opposition to him which is motivated in part by a desire for revenge and in part by a desire to terrorize the federal judiciary.

SMOKE SCREEN AT GENEVA.

The most conspicuous contribution to the smoke screen put up by the European delegations at Geneva to hide their practical purposes is the distinction between offensive and defensive weapons. The distinction is bogus, as any soldier knows. A bayonet is an offensive weapon when used in offense and a defensive weapon when used in defense. So is a battleship, a submarine, an airplane, a launch mounting a one pounder, or a farmer's pitchfork. There is no distinction in the weapon, only in its use. Any weapon is offensive, and a fleet of superdreadnaughts, backed by its full complement of cruisers, air forces and submarines, is defensive when directed by a defensive policy, as defensive as a navy of rowboats.

When the distinction is examined with the concrete proposals of reduction or abolition accompanying it at Geneva, its significance is easily understood. The abolition of the battleship is supported by the powers that have few or none. Its reduction in size is favored by the powers whose relative naval strength will be increased by this device. The submarine is frowned upon by Great Britain, which has a great carrying trade to be endangered by the submarine, and by Italy, which doesn't like the notion of French submarines in the Mediterranean. And so on. Every nation's proposals are explainable on grounds of its own special interests, except those of the United States, whose government is too busy with experiments of noble motive to bother about the interests of its people.

Editorial of the Day

[Grand Rapids Press.]

One-eye headlights and blind tail lights are among the most dangerous hazards on the highways, but the driver often is unaware that his vehicle is an offender in this respect. Therefore the suggestion of a remedy for this condition, offered by Blaine Gavett before the special traffic squad of the Safety council, is something meriting serious consideration.

A generally accepted signal, three short toots on the horn, for instance, could be used by motorists to inform drivers of delinquent cars that something is wrong with their lights, Mr. Gavett said. The driver thus warned could then turn in at the first service station to inspect and repair his lighting. As a result defects would be detected almost immediately and repairs could be made more quickly. This would eliminate a large percentage of the "blind" cars.

The careless motorist who deliberately disregards his lights, even if he knows they are working improperly, would be literally forced to make repairs in order to avoid being constantly tooted at.

The plan would need wide publicity and state-wide adoption to be wholly effective. Grand Rapids motorists, however, could utilize it at once and act as missionaries for the idea. It wouldn't be long before the practice probably would be adopted universally.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

WE'VE LOOKED OVER all the eulogies of George delivered yesterday and made a note of various candidates before us for the presidency who were declared the equal if not the superior of Washington and who have met heroically and victoriously as great if not greater difficulties than he had to encounter. But after thinking it over very carefully we somehow still admire George the most.

AND WHEN WE SAY we admire George more than our present day statesmen it isn't merely because he crossed the Delaware in a leaky boat in the ice. Anybody would cross the Delaware in a leaky boat to get away from Philadelphia. It was what Washington did to the Hessians and the British after he crossed the Delaware that matters. Our great men of today could cross the Delaware in a leaky boat in the ice as easily as George did, but what would they do in New Jersey after they got there? Take the first train to New York. But George stayed until he'd done a darn good job.

Now for a moment Beauty dies again
A little death, and springing back to view
Burns as before in every leafless glen,
In every twig ablaze with frozen dew.
Life has enough of poets for her need;
She scatters them as broken leaves are whirled
Unreckoning here and there; and few will heed
This small new silence in a noisy world.

Poet, te salutamus. We who keep
A few more days of this unpausing time
Like you shall lay us unfulfilled to sleep;
The richest of us, for his eager rhyme,
Shall wrest no greater guerdon from the years—
A memory, a sigh, and some few tears.

DOROTHY KISSLING.

"IF THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY and its platform and its leaders," says a circular sent out from the general headquarters of the party in New York, "bring back to the American citizen his courage, his faith in himself, his faith in his country, and his faith in his God, the Democratic party will succeed." Gosh, it ought to!

FOR THE TIME BEING at least the Japs, to use a somewhat homely old U. S. expression, have "bit off more'n they could chaw."

IT MUST BE the five year plan is getting a bit snarled up in Russia, because they've exiled Comrade Trotzky again, this time for life. Whenever the five year plan gets gummed up Comrade Stalin and the Red council always exile Comrade Trotzky some more.

THE SECOND MONTH of winter is over, and still we who live in Chicago wouldn't know there was a zero on the thermometer except we see it there on the scale if we look down far enough. Ah, what a climate! What a climate!

NO GROUND FOR COMPLAINT.

The wind is quite chill, and the sky's a dull gray,
There isn't much cheer in the outdoors today.
And all that we herr in the home or the street
Is "How can we pay for the things that we eat?"
The weather's erratic. I haven't a sou:
But, darling, my darling—at least I have you!
And what price is money, and what price is weather!
What good could they do if we weren't together!
I like it, of course, when the sun is on high,
And, of course, I like money, and what it can buy;
But I'll live without them, and be cheerful, too,
As long, oh my darling! as I can have you.

SENATOR FESS says he doesn't read his mail because it contains no intelligent thought. But if he doesn't read it how does he know it contains no intelligent thought, except that so few letters do these days? A far better plan is the one we adopted years ago; we throw all our mail with great violence to the top of the room. Letters containing intelligent thought will invariably stick to the ceiling and can be taken down with the use of a stepladder.

"MONEY CRISIS REACHES FRANCE."—Yesterday headline. Some American tourist must have worked off a plugged quarter on a waiter at Maxim's.

NEW WORDS are simply pouring into the lexicon these days. Mayor Cermak is going to make us "tax conscious," and a new committee anxious to see money come forth from the hoarders is out to make us "sock conscious." Anyhow, that's where we're supposed to hide it, we hoarders, but it's not true; socks cost money.

EXPERIENCE.

As soon as I begin to feel
A new romance commence,
I vow that this time, for a change,
I'll practice common sense.

And profit by the things I've learned,
I ought to be a winner—
Instead I grow a little pale,
Perhaps a little thinner.

Mistakes I made five years ago,
And those from just last summer,
Don't seem to mean a thing to me—
Each new romance I'm dumber!

EATING RAW FISH.

THE custom of eating raw fish, or fish not thoroughly cooked, is again getting people into trouble. The earlier reports were from states in the upper Mississippi valley and the basin of the great lakes. Now comes one from the Atlantic seaboard. The earliest account was from people born in Finland. This one relates to Jewish people. The subject is not bounded geographically, nor is it a matter of race. The one essential for the trouble now under discussion is a certain dietary custom. Some people eat smoked or dried fish without cooking.

Fish is an excellent meat food. While there is some variation in its calories due to difference in the firmness of the meat and in the amount of fat it contains, the rule is that fish has about the same heat and fuel value as beef, and about the same power of repairing worn tissues as have eggs or mutton. It generally has the usual vitamins and minerals, with exceptions, such as the high content of sea fish in iodine, and of parts of cod and halibut in certain vitamins.

There are peoples who eat no meat except fish, and they live in health and strength to reach ripe old age. To others fish is a luxury, a something craved, a food served as a reward of merit. There is no quarrel with fish as a food. The quarrel is with smoked, dried, and preserved fish meat, eaten without proper cooking. The hazard is due to the method of preparation for the table.

Dr. M. Plotz reports on 21 cases of fish tapeworm infection occurring in Brooklyn, and nearly all in one hospital service, and within a brief space of time. Nearly all the victims were Jewish people. On cross-examination by Dr. Plotz, it developed that these sufferers had eaten fish that had been improperly cooked, or had not been cooked at all. Many people like to nibble at uncooked, smoked or dried fish. And there are several renowned dishes of which uncooked fish is a part. Fish are very subject to tapeworm—some more so, some less. Any one eating the raw meat of an infested fish is in danger.

In some instances tapeworm causes abdominal pain and diarrhea. In others anemia results. In still others there are present some of a list of vague, indefinite symptoms that are not easily explained. It is probable that the reason Dr. Plotz found so many cases of fish tapeworm among his patients was that he knew they were accustomed to eating uncooked fish, and, knowing this practice causes fish tapeworm, he was on the lookout. Perhaps other physicians would find more of this trouble if they investigated more fully their patients who are accustomed to eating raw fish.

Dr. Plotz recorded a few cases among people born in this country. There is evidence not only that our fish are becoming more infected by tapeworm, but also that our people are disposed to learn to eat smoked, dried, and preserved fish without first cooking it.

LOSS OF MEMORY.

F. P. F. writes: A car caught the front end of my car when I was traveling around 40 miles an hour, perhaps more, and threw it out of control and headed it for the bank. I straightened the car. I did not think I had lost consciousness for a moment, but the next thing I knew the car was lying on its right side in the bottom of a ditch several feet deep, on the left side of the highway. The top of the left side was badly crushed, the top of the right side only slightly damaged, showing that the car tipped and struck against the ditch bank with its left side and then rolled back on to its right side.

There was a dent in my forehead, the seat in which I was sitting was broken, and the steering wheel was bent, showing that I had lurched against the steering wheel and then back against the seat. There was a constriction of my chest that made it difficult for me to draw a long breath. There was no pain in connection with it and in the course of a few days it wore off entirely. I did not attach any importance to the dent in my forehead. It bled a little but there was no pain. It has been a mystery to me that all this could have happened without my remembering a thing about it. Your article, "The Memory of Concussion," has led me to wonder if the blow which caused the dent in my forehead could possibly have been responsible for loss of memory.

It would seem as though I must have been conscious when my car veered to the left after I had it headed straight, and that there was nothing to cause me to lose consciousness up to the time the car tipped and struck the bank, at which time I probably lurched forward and struck my forehead. But I had not the slightest recollection.

It may not have been more than a second or less after I had the car straight until it was lying on its side in the ditch. I thought that I could not think fast enough to keep up. That there was any concussion of the brain, with a retroactive effect on my memory, is an explanation that I never dreamed of, and I am wondering if that is what happened. I suppose if I lost consciousness at all I may have been unconscious for several seconds or possibly minutes.

REPLY.

Your experience is an excellent illustration of what I wrote about. The experiences preceding the blow on your head were traveling too fast for your perceiving and recording apparatus.

DEPENDS ON THE WORDING.

Chicago, Feb. 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A year ago I married a second husband. Soon after he told me that he needed some money for his business, so I mortgaged my house. 1. In order to do so my children and I had to sign some kind of paper to show that my former husband was dead. 2. Would that make any change in title on the house? The house belongs to my children and me. Furthermore, he took the deed and claims that he lost it. 3. Can he borrow money, sell the house, or make any changes in title without me knowing about it? 4. Tell me how to get another deed, if possible. M. K.

1. The effect of this paper would depend on its wording.
2. On the facts stated the house would still belong to you and your children, subject to the mortgage. We assume that the title was in joint tenancy with your husband.
3. Not on the bare facts stated.
4. We do not understand the question.

NO SUCH PROHIBITION.

Chicago, Feb. 14.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Is it permissible for public schools to accept feeble minded children as regular scholars or is there a state law which provides that such children should receive their education in an institution especially conducted for such cases? E. V. W.

We find no prohibition.

NO SUCH LAW.

Chicago, Feb. 12.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Please tell me if there is a law prohibiting girls over eighteen to start work at 5:15 o'clock in the morning. If there is, where can this be reported? E. G.

We find no such law.

HOME BREW.

Chicago, Feb. 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Is it legal to make home brew for one's own use in the home in this state? L. B.

Regulation 60, section 2201, provides: "Beer, ale and porter, without regard to alcoholic content, may not lawfully be manufactured in the home or elsewhere. The sale of malt extract with hops and clarifier to other than permittees is, therefore, not permissible, notwithstanding the fact that the vender may furnish the purchaser of such materials with recipes containing a warning or caution not to do certain things as thereby the product will develop a high alcoholic content." CHINA-JAPAN WAR, 1894

SHANGHAI. — Capt. Galsworthy, Chief Officer Templin, and Quartermaster Evangelist of the sunken transport Kow Shing, who were rescued by the boats of the Japanese cruiser, have been taken to Sasebo, where they are held prisoners. Admiral Sir E. R. Fremantle, in command of the British China squadron, has ordered the Alacrity from Sushima to Sasebo with instructions to demand the release of the British sailors. Upon the arrival of the Alacrity at Nagasaki the commander of the British warships was informed that the prisoners would be delivered up to him today. A dispatch has been received here which confirms the report that a second battle has been fought at Asan between the Chinese and Japanese. It is added that the Chinese were defeated.

LONDON, Aug. 4.—It is known here that the Chinese minister is busy negotiating with the Armstrong people of England and the Krupp gun works of Germany for war munitions. In fact, all parties having good or bad war materials for sale are in negotiations with both the Chinese and Japanese representatives, and both countries are known to be placing large orders.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—The latest issue of the Tokio Jiji says the Japanese standing army, 50,000 strong, is armed with the new Murata repeating rifle, which can discharge ten shots in eight seconds. Smokeless powder is used, and the rifles are said to be equal in every way to those of the best equipped armies of the west.

28 YEARS AGO TODAY

FEBRUARY 23, 1904.

NAGASAKI.—Four Russian torpedo boat destroyers have been captured at Port Arthur by the Japanese squadron and their crews have been transferred. Russian signals were used with success.

TOKIO.—It is reported here that Vice Admiral Togo has again attacked Port Arthur. The report, however, is not confirmed, as the navy department says it has had no news from Togo today.

WEIHAIWEI—The British steamer Ching-Ping, belonging to the Chinese Engineering and Mining company of Shanghai, has arrived here from Port Dalny and reports that it was fired upon by the Russians and was hit seven times around its water line.

ST. PETERSBURG.—The German emperor is expected to remain neutral in the Russo-Japanese war only until the time when China fires the first shot, when, it is declared here, Germany will send a fleet and also an army corps to the far east to assist the czar, Emperor William being possessed with almost a monomania on the subject of the "yellow peril."

WASHINGTON.—The battleships Ohio and Iowa, the new armored cruiser South Dakota, and the new protective cruisers Tacoma and Milwaukee may be sent to reinforce Rear Admiral Evans' Asiatic fleet shortly because of the threatening outlook in the far east. Rear Admiral Evans will remain in command of the fleet.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

FEBRUARY 23, 1916.

BERLIN. — Air raids over Lombardy, with damage reported at points attacked by the aviators, are announced by Austro-Hungarian army headquarters in today's official statement received here. It says: "An Austro-Hungarian air squadron attacked factories in Lombardy. Two airplanes advanced as far as Milan for reconnoitering purposes. Another air squadron attacked the airdromes and docks of Desenzano on Lake Garda. In some instances hits scored on objects of attack were observed in both enterprises. All the airplanes returned safely in spite of heavy artillery fire."

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Unless unforeseen developments change the situation the proposed joint resolution warning Americans to shun liners and other merchant ships carrying arms of any character will be submitted to congress, with the approval of the administration, within a few days.

PARIS.—Following yesterday's successful attacks in the Bois Givenchy region and east of Brabant-sur-Meuse the Germans today launched a vicious assault in the Champagne and won the Haumont wood, the French official statement admits. The German artillery has become active in the region of Ban-de-Sapt and to the west of Aitkirch.

PETROGRAD. — Forty thousand Turks were killed, wounded, or made prisoners in the capture of Erzerum and subsequent fighting, according to dispatches received here. Other prisoners are being brought in daily.

WASHINGTON ON PREPAREDNESS.

Chicago, Feb. 19.—The late President Roosevelt was a man whom I seldom had any admiration for except as a politician. I agreed with him thoroughly, however, on the question of preparedness. One time he told a group of pacifists who had come to see him about disarmament that they were trying to "Chinafy" the United States. Any one who reads about the present troubles in China will appreciate the succinctness of that expression.

It would be well for all of those people who are continually quoting George Washington's detached phrases to support pacifist propaganda to look up his message to the third congress upon its opening, read the whole thing and digest it. If they can get any support for their arguments out of what he says, I won't begrudge it to them. Among other things the message urges the maintenance of a standing army and the establishment of a military academy to train officers for it. He says in part:

"There is a rank due the United States among nations which will be withheld if not absolutely lost by a reputation of weakness. If we desire to avoid insult we must be able to repel it; if we desire peace, one of the most powerful instruments of our rising prosperity, it must be known that we are at all times ready for war."

C. W. LAWRENCE.

FOR SHANAHAN.

Chicago, Feb. 17.—If the Republican party of Illinois wishes to elect the next governor, why don't they nominate the Hon. David E. Shanahan, speaker of the house of representatives? His knowledge of this great state and the needs of its institutions is surpassed by none. His fairness to all factions while speaker stamps him as a statesman of the first water.

More downstate voters would be with him than with any Chicago man thus far mentioned, knowing, by past performances, that they would get a square deal. All factions in Cook county could unhesitatingly support him with the assurance of having a winner at the head of the state ticket in November.

A. F. KENNEDY.

FOR A MORATORIUM.

Chicago, Feb. 15.—Kindly allow me to suggest to you that congress should pass some sort of a moratorium law for private debts. Some plan that would give individuals a little time, at least a year or two in the matter of foreclosures. Unless something like this is done millions of small home owners will lose their homes and their lifetime savings. Something like this was done during the world war and I think that it is as badly needed now as it was then. It seems to me that if foreign countries and railroads and bankers can get a moratorium the poor American farmer or city home owner, who has borne the burden of all of this hardship, should be entitled to a little of the same consideration.

GEORGE F. COSTELLO.

WANTED: ALTRUISTS.

Chicago, Feb. 12.—I am a student of Hyde Park High school and as I learn more and more about our city's government there is one question that comes to my mind constantly. Why don't our city officials offer their services instead of drawing salaries from a treasury that is so completely deflated? The greater part of them are so wealthy, anyway, that their positions are not their only way of earning a living. Why couldn't they contribute this bit to our distressed city? PHYLLIS GREENE.

SPEAKING OF THE WEATHER.

Chicago, Feb. 17.—My serious 7 year old son asked me recently if the newspapers printed anything else untrue besides the weather reports.

M. B. MAXEY.

WHISTLE.

Chicago, Feb. 20.—In the interest of suffering humanity I have decided to heed your plea for a palliative for snoring. This ailment being so widespread a cure for it will bring the blessings of multitudes on THE TRIBUNE for its publication.

The cure has been a secret in our family for many years and is published now for the first time. Here it is: When the war starts whistle, softly or loud, as the case requires, and the snoring will stop. Some people are mean about snoring and in such cases you will have to whistle quite loud.

DAN T. AVENUE.

A STOUT RUBBER BAND.

Chicago, Feb. 20.—Secure a large, wide rubber band; place it under the chin and up over the head, not too loose, not too tight, and retire. Snoring is the result of inhalation. After the muscles of the larynx have relaxed in sound sleep air is permitted to come in contact with the larynx and palate, causing them to flutter in the wind. Keep mouth closed and it won't happen.

J. E. SEITSINGER.

SIMPLE REMEDIES.

Hammond, Ind., Feb. 20.—Snoring can be stopped by the use of a pair of shock absorbers removed from some old auto and placed against the palate. This will stop vibration. If the mouth is not big enough, a silencer from a machine gun may be inserted in between one's lips. This article should be easy to find in Chicago. In case of extremely small mouth the old method of a clothespin on the lips and nose may be resorted to.

GEORGE F. TOWNSEND.

HEADS UP.

Chicago, Feb. 20.—Snoring is not due to adenoids, nor short necks, nor bad air, but just to the head being low. I find if the offender is given two to three pillows instead of one, or a higher and thicker pillow, all that snoring will be over, and what a God's blessing!

DR. J. M. NICHOLSON.

AGAINST GARNER.

Chicago, Feb. 16.—If the Democratic party wants to insure the reëlection of Herbert Hoover nothing will do it better than the nomination of John N. Garner or any other southern Democrat.

The people are not quite willing to submit to leadership from a part of the country that has perhaps more often than any other part hindered the progress of our great country.

If the south split the party in 1928 the nomination of Garner would force any loyal Democrat to split the party in a more serious way than before. As a Democrat I believe I speak the sentiments of many of those who will not forget what the south did in 1928 to one of the greatest [yes, perhaps the greatest] Democrats that ever headed the Democratic ticket.

JOSEPH P. CORCORAN.

JAPAN'S STRENGTH AT SHANGHAI.

Chicago, Feb. 15.—Would it interest your readers to know that Japan has more troops right now in or around Shanghai than the United States has in its entire regular army?

R. J. ALEXANDER.

TAXI RATES.

Columbus, O., Feb. 10.—Traveling in Ohio I have noted the cab rates in Toledo are 25 cents for the first 1¼ miles, 10 cents a mile thereafter. In Cleveland the rates are 5 cents the first one-third mile and 5 cents each additional one-third mile. And in Columbus 5 cents the first one-half mile and 5 cents each additional one-half mile.

Chicago should be a good cab town, and the first company to reduce their rates will walk away with the business and there won't be so many empties blocking traffic in the loop. HAL ELY.

Another First Wife Writes About Author

But no Prizes Are Offered for Identification.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

THERE has been a rush of First Wives' Tales to the bookstalls lately. Today sees another one added to the spate. Grace Hegger Lewis made the first American winner of the Nobel prize for literature the hero of "Half a Loaf," although she never mentioned him black on white as Sinclair Lewis. The first [and only] Mrs. Arnold Bennett but lately told an avid world what she thought of her first [and only] husband.

Today a woman who prefers to hide her acetylene torch under the bushel of "His First Wife" tells the married life and love story of another pounder of typewriter or pusher of pen, whom she discreetly labels "My First Husband" [Greenberg]. To be sure this literary first husband about whom his wife's confession wraps its winding sheet in the pages indited by "His First Wife" is no such pen pusher as either Mr. Lewis or Mr. Bennett. He is a novelist and playwright of, perhaps, more popularity than permanency of literary reputation. But on the other hand the tale which his first wife tells is, unlike the tales told by the former Mrs. Lewis and the former Mrs. Bennett, rather what the English call "fruity." The former Mrs. —— tells all, and there is nothing in the world that the public enjoys so much as a good jigger of "all."

The discretion indulged in by the author of "My First Husband," in not calling him by his actual name, is the only one in the book. Any reader of current fiction who has not, by page 92, recognized the identity of the "First Husband," will have it rammed down his gullet then by a quotation from one of his own books. It will take no sleuthing for Chicagoans to recognize him on page seven. All the others in the book but the husband and his second wife are called flatly by their full baptismal names, and half of newspaper and "lit'r'y" Chicago are mentioned in it on some page or another.

We will NOT give a handsome prize to any one guessing the identity of the "First Husband," nor a diamond studded brown derby to those who label "His First Wife" with her past or present legal Jane Doe.

Then Turn to "South of Suez."

It's a long way from Chicago to "South of Suez" described by William J. Markin in a book by that title, but the home life in those parts seems to have, at times, something on the recorded husband and wifeness of the former Mrs. ——'s memoirs. By the way, a note on the jacket says that in the author "There is a little of Thomas Burke and a little of O. Henry." Which reminds us of the story about Shakespeare's having written at least one Irish play, "Corry O'Lanus." Poor O. Henry, being inflicted with an apostrophe when he's unable to avenge himself!

If "My First Husband" tells a few plain truths about Mr. ——, and "South of Suez" does the same about Africa, "Hell in the Foreign Legion," by Ernest F. Löhndorff [Greenberg] puts the world right about that much and over romanticized service.

German Writes About French.

The truth as he sees it does another German tell in a volume called "Who Are These French?" [Macmillan]. Friedrich Sieburg, at present the London and formerly the Paris correspondent of the Frankfurter Zeitung, says exactly what he thinks about the French, and the result is a controversial volume of charm and perspicacity. Perhaps all of his conclusions are not those of every foreign sojourner in France. He has an affectionate admiration for the domestic manners of the French people, for their love of leisure, for their intellectual clarity, for their cookery, and even for their faults and absurdities. And above all he admires their stout refusal to become mechanized along with the rest of the modern world. But, he says, by her die hard idyll of individualism France actually is blocking the world's advance.

There will be battlers under both banners of Herr Sieburg's findings.

Chicagoan Tells of Jews in U. S.

After all of these volumes steaming hot off the griddle today, it is with a sense of leisurely calm that one turns to a volume which was published last year, but which will never suffer mere timeliness. It is called "Jewish Pioneers in America" [Brentano's]. It is written by Anita Libman Lebeson [of Chicago] and it gathers together extremely interesting historical material about a subject previously neglected in popular volumes.

Mrs. Lebeson finds Jews in every pioneer trek in the Americas from 1492 to 1848. [Pioneering in North America sort of stopped around that date for everybody.] She records their participation with minuteness and skill.

'Band Wagon' Brings Famed Astaires to Chicago After Absence of 8 Years

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

"The Band Wagon," one of the favorite pastimes of New York during the past year, came to the Illinois theater last night to prove to the connoisseurs of revues that it is a suave and urbane article in the form of entertainment. It contains the light irony of George S. Kaufman, chief of the Broadway satirists; some diverting burlesque sketches; and a rich score of popular music. It also contains, as leading personalities, the Astaires, Fred and Adele, who have become a sort of legend in the song-and-dance world.

This is Chicago's first view of the eminent brother-and-sister act in eight years. The first chapter of the Astaires' vogue found them here, in 1923, in a show called "For Goodness Sake," and then England adopted them. Since then this brilliant pair has shuttled back and forth between London and New York, prime metropolitan favorites with an ever growing réclame; and we hinterlanders have seen nothing of them except on our travels. Adele, they say, will presently retire from the stage to marry the son of a duke, and she blithely confirms the report; so this may be your last chance to observe this blithe and gifted girl in her professional paces.

They are a gallant pair of easy, educated entertainers, winning of personality, ingenious, and sly in characterization, and always effortless in the exercise of their skill. Their dancing is admirable; their sense of comedy is refreshing in its clean youthfulness of spirit; and their charm is inescapable. Their singing is merely the lightest sort of vocal utterance, but it serves neatly for revue amusement, especially since their diction gives the lyric writers a chance to be understood.

Adele herself, with her piquant face always ready to ripple into a smile, strikes me as a refined version of another Adele who used to be a popular singing and dancing girl hereabouts—Adele Rowland. But she is a more modified and worldly romp and as crisp as a head of lettuce in every appearance.

The Astaires grace "The Band Wagon" early and often, and whether they do their tricks together or parted they are infallibly winning. I found them most engaging in an ironical ditty in which they depicted two well bred but somewhat devilish French kids at their native sports. "Hoops," the number is called, and it's a rare bit of the fine art of frolic.

Two other players of major importance in the show are Frank Morgan, last seen here as a dramatic star in "Topaze," and Helen Broderick a comedienne whose specialty is cold, quiet Manhattan irony. Mr. Morgan's skill as an actor and his droll, soft, phlegmatic vein as a comedian find expression in many amusing ways; but I liked him best in his travesty of a florid old southern father in a sketch called "The Pride of the Claghornes"—a specimen of Mr. Kaufman's trick of turning theatrical formulae inside out.

"The Band Wagon" contains a group of dancers trained by that muse of the ballet, Albertina Rasch, who appear in vivid and strikingly stylized choral maneuvers. A Rasch ballet is no novelty this season, for Mme. Albertina seems to have a monopoly in the culture of strapping young nymphs for the revues. But these numbers are so effectively designed that they call for special comment.

There is a resemblance between this "Band Wagon" and the old "Music Box" shows in manner, method and urbanity. Up to the time I departed in search of a typewriter, moreover, it was astonishingly free of bedroom clowning.

Puzzlers' League Urges New Words for Dictionaries

New York, Feb. 22.—(AP)—If you love your work you are, in the words of the National Puzzlers' league, an "ergophile."

It isn't in the dictionary, but the puzzlers say a lot of words that ought to be aren't there. Especially are words that have a nice, convenient number of letters in them lacking.

Ergophile's nine letters fit well in word diamonds.

Its sponsor, Everett M. Smith, says it is derived from the Greek for work and love. By adding a few more letters to make "ergophilistine" he added, you have a perfectly good word for a person who likes a stupid job.

The league members, in convention here since Saturday, also want to put "humidauriculate" in the dictionary. One has only to dissect it to perceive its meaning—"wet behind the ears."

Settle Date to Celebrate Samuel Pepys Tercentary

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Feb. 22.—Lovers of Samuel Pepys and his immortal diary were in a quandary today, not knowing whether to celebrate his tercentary tomorrow or next year. The problem was settled tonight by the master of Magdalene college at Cambridge, where the Pepys library is kept and where there is an annual feast commemorating the diarist's birthday. He explained that although Pepys' birth was registered as in 1632, his 300th anniversary cannot be celebrated until Feb. 23, 1933.

Martyr Role Is Dangerous One for Wife

BY DORIS BLAKE.

The great mistake we weak-minded humans make is to let a single experience with one sole person out of the whole world of people sour us. I think we women are more prone to this form of self-punishment than are men, because we love the martyr rôle more.

Apropos: Mrs. K., we'll call her, is off "duty" stuff for life, because she worked away at duty for twelve years with a man who did not appreciate her gift. For twelve years, she tells, she was married to a man who was running about with other women. He openly called his "lady friends" on the phone. But she says: "I felt it was my duty to stick and try to play the game, to be a good sport and not give up the ship until it sank."

Mistake number one, we must intercept here. There is a difference between permitting a man freedom and license. And woman's duty to herself is to demand respect, which husband's actions in this case certainly did not evidence.

"As I was extremely anxious to see my husband meet with success," Mrs. K. further relates, "I worked during all of those twelve years, maintaining an attractive five room apartment, thinking a real home and attractive meals would in due time wake up the only man I had ever cared for."

Here we must intercept again to inquire if those years of willing servitude aren't years of following the thing one wants most to do? Even, perhaps, following the line of least resistance? With some men, meals and an attractive apartment far from constitute a happy love life.

Anyway, the word "duty" Mrs. K. insists was her motto during those love-barren twelve years. It became so dominating a motive in her life that when her husband asked for his freedom one day she felt it her duty to let him go. He married at once.

The wife now tells: "I am still working, but since I do not have the responsibility of a home to consider I am a different girl. I am just beginning to live and express my real self, which has been dead for years."

In that last sentence may be the clew to the marriage failure. It takes more than the performance of homely duties around a house to make a live, companionable mate.

Children Should Get Science Facts in Small Doses

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

His father was a most learned man—a scientist. One day the little boy—he was about 8—went to his mother with a question. I don't know just what it was—probably something like: "What is a shadow, mother?"

She started to answer, then she said: "You'd better ask your father, son."

The boy looked at her a moment. "No, I don't want to know so much. You tell me."

The story was told the other day by a lecturer at a parents' study group. And I thought it one of the most graphic ways of making it clear that children can be bewildered and weighed down by too much information. Can't you picture that little boy being wearied by a long dissertation on the relation of the sun to the earth, given by a father who did not know how to feed his child's mind on the little by little plan, but instead gave him such a large meal that it caused confusion and mental indigestion?

We should answer the questions our children ask us clearly and truly, but we must use judgment in knowing how much to give and how to give it. Children vary, of course. One child of 10 might understand an explanation of the intricate interior of a locomotive because he had been watching them all his life, and drawing and studying them. Another child of 10 with less background or a less scientific mind might be able to grasp only the rudiments of the principle of the use of steam as a propelling force.

Someg rown folks love to impart, even to other grownups! Some love to hold forth to children. I've seen children get that patient, police, wandering look when they got too big a dose of information in answer to a casual question, haven't you? In fact, I've been an offender, myself. So try to give information, especially to young children, in a form and quantity that can be easily absorbed.

Huru stor de till!

Igor there opened at the Julian theater the first Svenska tal-film to reach these shores. (That I know of.)

"Trötte Teodor" is farce, with incidental musik, and a lot of tal, which last meant nothing to me, but will doubtless intrigue Svenska mennen an qvinna, flickor and pojka. I know what the story's about because I have a program.

The film details the adventures of a retired gentleman called upon to officiate in the royal welfare department's branch dedicated to the advancement of musical arts. Heavy colds have laid low the usual personnel which is why Teodor is drafted.

He isn't trötte when he starts out. No, no! But a flicka comes along who upsets his usual orderly program and not only causes the poor man to be really weary but to have to feign a weariness which shall keep him, presumably, in bed a large part of the time.

See picture—or program—for more details.

Acting and sound are all right. Photography's not so good. Musik? So-so. Lines? Funny, probably, if you're Swedish.

"Trötte Teodor" will be at this little theater for several more days.

"HOUND OF THE BASKERVILLES."

Produced by First Division Pictures.
Directed by V. Gareth Gundrey.
Presented at the Castle theater.

THE CAST.

Sherlock Holmes	Robert Rendel
Dr. Watson	Frederick Lloyd
Sir Henry Baskerville	John Stuart
Beryl	Heather Angel
Sir Hugo Baskerville	Sam Livesey
Mrs. Laura Lyon	Elizabeth Vaughn
The Hound	Champion Edmund of Send

KIND: Mystery melodrama. Adapted from Conan Doyle's story about the huge, horrific, moor roaming, fire breathing hound with eyes of flame whose depredations on members of the House of Baskerville cause Sherlock Holmes to receive an S. O. S., which, of course, he responds to promptly and effectively.

ACTING: Able though unremarkable. Neither Robert Rendel as Holmes nor Frederick Lloyd as Watson are the storied characters as I have imagined them, but they seemed both good men and true. As for the hound, well, there WAS a disappointment! Just a nice, big, friendly looking pup with nary a supernatural glimmer about him with which to confound a countryside.

DIRECTION: Fair.

DIALOGUE: Difficult to follow because of swift delivery and poor recording. I understand it was written by the late Edgar Wallace.

SETS, SCENERY, PHOTOGRAPHY: Ordinary.

AUDIENCE APPEAL. Not much, I'm afraid.

See you soon!

Discoverer of Cortin Treatment Gets Medal

Buffalo, N. Y., Feb. 22.—(AP)—The chancellor's medal, highest award of the University of Buffalo for public service, today was conferred on Dr. Frank A. Hartman, one of the discoverers of the cortin treatment for Addison's disease and a member of the faculty of the university. The medal was presented at the midwinter commencement of the university. For 16 years scientists sought a remedy for Addison's disease until, late in 1930, Dr. Hartman made his first public announcement of cortin, an extract of the adrenal glands. Dr. Hartman became interested in this research work in 1914.

Latin School Pupils Perform for Parents at Open House

Assembly Holds Washington Day Program; Work of Children Highly Praised.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE most interesting place in town yesterday to the mothers and fathers of the boys who are students at the Latin school on Dearborn parkway, just south of Lincoln park, was the school, for it was holding its annual open house, and, of course, every parent was there. In the morning the lower school held its assembly and the parents of the boys in the six lower grades had the opportunity of seeing their sons take part in the Washington birthday celebration.

The first grade boys, Billy Blair, Peter Connor, Billy Coonley, Tommy Healy, Edward Kretschmer, Bryan Reid, George Shaw, Edson Spencer, Mark Stendel, Henry Wedelstaedt, and Jimo Wood, assembled on the stage for a circle talk, similar to those held every day in the classroom, only instead of Miss Osgood, their teacher, conducting the circle, little Peter Connor was the master of ceremonies, and such a splendid one as he was, too! I am sure the chests of his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Peter F. Connor must have swelled with justifiable pride, and the parents of the other youngsters must have been very proud, also, of the cunning and ready replies their sons made to Master Peter's questions about the Father of Our Country.

The second and third grades gave a pageant, "Nations in Costume," and handsome young Stanton Armour, the Lester Armours' eldest child, was George Washington, Bobby Joiner was Martha Washington, and Dexter Corley was Washington's aid. Bobby certainly will be a star performer in the Triangle club if ever he goes to Princeton, but he will have to learn to stand with his feet closer together if he is to impersonate members of the opposite sex! Stanton and Bobby are both in the second grade, and other classmates of theirs in the pageant were Bobby Blair, Charley Buck, Edward Conners, John Ettlinger, Pat Healy, John Marshall, Conrad Peterson, Gambel Stendel, and Eddie Bill White. Dexter is a third grade pupil and his classmates who were in the pageant were Larry Brashears, Teddy Joiner, Clarence Kellogg, Donald Wildes, and Archie Wilson. Folk-songs and original poems were given by the children in the pageant.

Duncan Forbes and Herman Kretschmer of the fourth grade gave poems, Perry Kline and Charles Bartlett of the fifth delivered patriotic talks, and Charles Renshaw and Paul Florian of the sixth grade also were on the program. At the upper school assembly the boys were just audience, for Charles B. Pike and Wallace F. Kirk were the speakers. Mr. Pike talking about the opportunities for Washington study in the new historical library and Mr. Kirk discoursing on municipal politics. But a very interested audience the boys made.

In the afternoon the Yoshida Trio gave a performance and then tea was served in the library, with Mrs. Chauncey McCormick and Mrs. Bruce Borland pouring. The table was covered with a red and white heavy linen cloth, and a blue glass vase containing pale yellow roses gave the necessary patriotic color scheme. Acting as hostesses all day were Mrs. McCormick, Mrs. Borland, Mrs. Valentine C. Bartlett, Mrs. Walter Cummings, and Mrs. Duncan Forbes.

Sweaters Hit of Spring for Any Occasion

Variety of Types and Color Cheer the Wearer.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

What sweaters can do to and for spring wardrobes is just everybody's business—those who sell them, those who wear them, and those who are shopping for some brand new models. Smartly dressed women will wear them practically everywhere during the daytime—you can be smartly sweatered for every occasion.

It seems incredibly crude to call such delightful feminine woolies sweaters, but it is typically American-ese—the term is as lacking in appreciation and imagination as the name jumpers, by which these same fascinating knitted things are also misnamed by our English cousins.

This season there are so many of them—so many kinds and styles—that unless you are unswervingly faithful to your clothes allowance you will not be able to resist each new color or kind, because their low prices are almost as unbelievable as their beauty.

Buy or Knit Your Own.

If, though it hardly seems possible, you cannot find just what you want, you can knit your own . . . . fashion seems to be sponsoring the return of the knitting circles, all gloomy prophets of a world going wrong, please note. You can buy sweaters that have been knit with a beautiful large hole-d nonchalance . . . . even though you didn't do them yourselves, you'll be accused of it. Some of the newest hand knitted effects are made of stuff that looks suspiciously like grocer-string. Skillfully knit to fit, nicely bumped and nubbed they are frightfully smart in their natural string color when worn with green, brown or black wool street suits.

The patterns and the various stitches will be as intriguing and just as interesting to sweater collectors, these days, as such information was when your grandmothers discovered a new stitch . . . . for instance, the holes are catchy and curiously shaped . . . . or you may like rows and rows of funny little humps that look like tapioca, or fanciful twisted designs of twisted stitches, and others that are knitted to resemble fabrics like corduroy and tweed.

And a lot of good necking is accomplished by these new sweaters . . . clinging V necklines . . . good square turned necks . . . rather collegiate turtle necked affairs and the flatteringto-every one cowl neckline. You can't go wrong with any of them. The sleeves are your own personal problems to be settled or solved with short sleeves mostly . . . either diminutive puffs above a tight band of ribbing or leg o' muttons above the elbow and long and slim on the forearm . . . and there are models without sleeves for the one who knows how properly to sarug a well rounded and shapely shoulder.

Colors Make for Hunger.

The colors can make you hungry . . . fresh apple green . . . strawberry ice cream rose and pink . . . a yellow that looks like a luscious, puffy omelet . . stripes that make you long for cinnamon stick candy, and shades of ivory and cream and old blue that defy any material minded description.

If you want something different to wear with your suit, try a sweater waistcoat . . . they are very often sleeveless . . . they are buttoned across the chest, double breasted, and fetchingingly short and snappy. In fact, all the new sweaters are as brief as can be . . . even sweaters for golf, such as the comfortable cardigans, have been pulled up shortly, just touching the hips.

Quite formal ensembles can be matched with quite formal sweaters, impossible as that statement sounds, for there are sweaters knit to resemble Irish lace in authentic Irish lace patterns. Dull silk thread makes soft, clinging sweaters that are picturesque and ideal for the more elaborate suits.

Alice Means Guest at Many Parties.

Pretty titian haired Alice Means, who is visiting her grandmother, Mrs. William H. Hubbard of 26 Scott street, and is being entertained a lot by her grandmother's friends and those of her mother, Mrs. Robert W. Means of Brookline, the former Alice Hubbard, as well as by the young people she has met, spent last week-end in Geneva as the guest of her cousin, Miss Cynthia Cooke, and the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cooke. Mrs. Edmond Raftery gave a luncheon for Miss Means on Saturday at the Little Traveler, that attractive shop in Geneva which so many Chicagoans and north shore residents make the destination of their motor trips in nice weather, winter and summer.

Another thing that is drawing many Chicago society women to Geneva these days is their desire to see Mrs. Josiah McRoberts, who now that she is well enough to see visitors, has as steady a stream of them as the doctor will allow for she has many friends, all of whom are anxious to congratulate her upon her recovery from a serious illness which has kept her in bed since before Christmas. Mr. and Mrs. McRoberts formerly used their Geneva house only as a summer residence, coming into town for the winters, but for the last few years they have been staying in Geneva the year 'round, going to Arizona for several months each winter. This year, however, they will have to forego their western trip for Mrs. McRoberts is not able to travel yet.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Noyes of 70 Cedar street are being congratulated upon the birth of a son last Saturday at the Michael Reese hospital. This is their second boy, the other, Johnny, having been born twenty-one months ago. Mrs. Noyes was the former Dorothea Felt.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry H. Kenly of 70 East Cedar street and Mr. and Mrs. John Norris of Lake Forest are among the Chicagoans listed at the National hotel in Havana.

Lake Geneva Scene of Party.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubbard Carpenter had a party of house guests at their Lake Geneva house over the holiday week-end.

Mrs. Frank D. Stout is in New York and will sail shortly for California by way of the Canal Zone. She won't be back in her lovely house at 3150 Lake Shore drive until late April.

A committee of Lake Forest women has hit upon the happy idea of establishing a concert ticket exchange for the benefit of the Druce Lake Camp for Girls. They are anxious to receive any tickets for the Tuesday, Friday, or children's concerts which their owners are unable to use. The tickets will be sold [I imagine they'll have no difficulty finding purchasers] and the proceeds turned over to the camp fund. Mrs. Kenneth Templeton of 1250 Elm Tree road, who is in charge of the exchange, will see that tickets are called for and delivered. Mrs. George Blossom and Mrs. Lawrence Scudder are on her committee.

The Charming Cheat

By Clara Sharpe Hough

SYNOPSIS.

Ricardo Dane visits New York in search of his aunt, Miss Filomena Stanley, his mother's half-sister. Ricardo's mother had recently died and left him heir to the ranch and mountain land in Romeu valley, California, where he had spent most of his life. He intended to find his sole remaining near relative and bring her back to Romeu Valley. He had understood this to be his mother's dying wish. His aunt, an actress, had been out of favor with the family.

Ricardo locates a Filomena Stanley, but instead of an aged aunt he finds a beautiful young aunt. She is living in a Bohemian studio with a Follies girl, named Frances. Ricardo readily believes this lovely creature, who acknowledges the relationship. Ricardo showers her with gifts and moves her into a better apartment. He moves into the same building on another floor. Webster Sutton, a college friend of Ricardo's, visits New York. He and Eunice Greenway, a girl from home, who is studying in New York, are entertained by Ricardo and his aunt. Eunice is a friend of Ricardo's fiancée, Rachel Beatty. She heartily disapproves of Filomena. Web believes his friend is being trimmed and, before he leaves, tells him so. Ricardo learns that Web was right when Filomena is called home due to the illness of her father. After another search Ricardo finds his real aunt. She is acting in a Broadway play. Ricardo's plan is to have Filomena prepare to marry him and leave her waiting at the church, but, before he can carry it out, Rachel arrives in New York with her father, who has been called there on business. Rachel meets the real aunt. She doesn't fit in with the stories Rachel has heard. Ricardo evades telling her the truth, but confides in his aunt. Eunice takes Rachel to call on Filomena. Ricardo meets them in the lobby. They see Filomena leaving the building. That evening Ricardo brings his aunt to have dinner with Rachel and Mr. Beatty.

INSTALLMENT XXVI.

NO MIND OF HIS OWN.

Rachel naturally was not at all surprised when Ricardo met them in the hotel lobby accompanied by an entirely impeccable aunt.

They had reached after dinner coffee when Mr. Beatty said:

"I know just why Ray and Dick wanted you to get together with us tonight, Miss Stanley. We want to talk wedding plans."

"Wedding?" said Aunt Filomena politely. "Whose?"

"Theirs," replied Mr. Beatty, lighting a large cigar.

"You must try my lighter," said Aunt Filomena, "it's great. Now that I've learned not to break my fingernails." She took the lighter out of a velvet bag brimming with miscellaneous articles, all necessities.

"No use for those things," said Mr. Beatty briefly.

"Well, just try it," urged Aunt Filomena, snapping the light on near his already glowing cigar.

"I'll try it," said Ricardo, getting out cigarets. "So will Ray. Come on,

"I know just why Ray and Dick wanted you to get together with us tonight, Miss Stanley. We want to talk wedding plans."

Ray, let Aunt Fil have a good time. She's got to go over to the theater pretty soon and get shot."

Aunt Filomena, allowed the privilege of lighting three cigarets with her lighter, smiled at them all and said:

"Now how about weddings?"

"They want to go to Bermuda," explained Mr. Beatty.

"You don't get seasick, do you, Dick?" inquired his aunt, anxiously, "because if you do, that Bermuda trip this time of year——"

"I never get seasick," he assured her. "Of course Bermuda's Mr. Beatty's idea. He thought——"

"Bermuda or some place," amended Mr. Beatty. "I always think of Bermuda and honeymoons. I always——"

"Now I," said Aunt Filomena, "always think of Bermuda and onions, for some reason. But then, I've never had a honeymoon."

"The thing is," Mr. Beatty returned determinedly to his topic, "they want to take a nice little sea trip, go south where it's pleasant, you know. Christmas in the West Indies, somewhere. I'll be on my way home by then. Here Ray's got the chance to get her trousseau in New York and she can be married in the Little Church Around the Corner."

Aunt Filomena shuddered. "Every couple that ever came to New York to be married has been married at the Little Church. It's about as exclusive as the corner of Forty-second street and Fifth avenue. If I wanted to be really smart I'd be married by the city clerk, I think." She turned to her nephew: "So you're going to settle down, Dick?"

"Don't you think it's time?" asked Rachel smilingly.

"Of course it's time. And I'll have you understand you're a very lucky girl, Rachel. Dick's about the only one of his sort." She laid her hand on his arm for a moment. "Well, when's the wedding?"

"What's the matter with Monday," asked Mr. Beatty. "Now this is Friday. That gives you a lot of time to get your things together, Ray. At least if you'd begun today when I told you to you'd have had plenty of time. Monday morning. Then I can get off on the evening train Monday and not have you children on my mind."

"They ought to be able to get some sort of boat out on Monday. Or in a day or so. They can stay on here until they do. After all, a honeymoon is much the same one place or another."

"Isn't it?" said Aunt Filomena.

"You know, daddy," said Rachel, "you have to get reservations on ships and things. I don't think—at least I think we ought to see about that first. And Dick——" she hesitated, choosing her words carefully. "Dick really isn't enough interested—in a trip—to see about them."

"Ray," he protested, "you mustn't say that. You—I—whatever you want to do——"

"That's not what I mean," said Rachel, tilting her half empty cup and carefully watching the cold coffee rise and fall. "I should think you'd have some idea, yourself, about where you want to go——"

"Come now," said Mr. Beatty, "you two can settle that sort of thing by yourselves. Just now we want to settle the important details."

"You know," said Aunt Filomena, returning her cigarets and lighter to her bag, "it just occurs to me. One of those round the world cruises starts next week. I forget what day. You know, they go through the canal and up the coast to Frisco. Why don't you all start off on that together? You could go on to the coast by yourself if they wanted to get off for their—get off on some island, it stops everywhere, you know. Or they could drop you there and go on around the world. Some honeymoon, that."

They all looked at her in admiration.

"Well, I wonder," pondered Mr. Beatty. "I wonder."

"Why," inquired Aunt Filomena then, "do you have to decide about being married first? I mean, you could all start off together, and if they feel like it, they could be married by the captain and get off where they please. Why isn't that a perfectly good idea?"

"You might come along, too, Aunt Fil," said Ricardo, "there's nothing like a nice large family party for a honeymoon."

She smiled at him wickedly. "I don't think you wanted a lot of privacy on yours. You didn't seem very keen on going off to Bermuda."

"The real trouble is," he explained, under Rachel's steady gaze, "I hate to admit it, but I do get seasick. So Bermuda didn't appeal much because they tell me it's a sort of rough trip."

"It's funny," remarked Rachel, "it's my wedding, you know, and nobody really consults me much about it."

Aunt Filomena bestowed a smile upon her. "The bride doesn't seem very important, does she? Want me to help any with shopping for the wedding gown?"

"You're awfully kind," replied Rachel almost too politely, "but I think Eunice will come with me."

"Who is Eunice?"

Rachel looked at her narrowly. "I thought you knew Eunice," she said.

"I don't believe—O, is she the girl you were with that day, Dick? The day when——" she paused invitingly.

"Day of the tea party," supplied Dick easily. "She was the one who got so sick on the gin, Aunt Fil. You remember."

"O, yes. I'd forgotten her name. She certainly had an unhappy time, poor girl," said Aunt Filomena. "Haven't seen her since. I've got to run, children. Mr. Beatty, thank you for a delightful dinner. No, don't get up. Dick will get me a taxi. I hope all the plans come off all right."

"You'll be sure to be there?" urged Mr. Beatty, "Little Church Around the Corner, Monday morning, unless we have to change our plans."

"One often does have to change plans," she remarked, "but I'm used to that, being an actress. I change even my character. One day I'm one person, next day another, you know. The last young man I had to play aunt to——"

"Come on, Aunt Fil," Ricardo seized her arm, "you're going to be late." With a last smiling goodnight she followed him outside.

"Are you trying to let me down, or what?" he demanded, as she stepped into her taxi.

"Trying to help you out, dear boy," she smiled sweetly. "Do you really want to start on a honeymoon with Rachel on Monday? Or have you changed your mind since I last saw you?"

"I don't believe I've got any mind to change," he replied. "I honestly don't know whether——"

"What I thought," she responded crisply. "I'd like to see you make up your own mind just once, so I'd know. I wonder what you would do if there was a showdown. But you're right, that wasn't the way to do it——"

"Showdown on what?" he interrupted.

"I'll have to think of something better," she responded cryptically, "tell her I didn't mean anything at all. Plymouth theater," she spoke to the driver. "See you soon, Dick." She was gone.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Short Stockings Cause of Runs; Get Them Long

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Yesterday we were talking about shoes with breathing space in them, and how a nice, comfortable looking shoe can be smart and contribute a great deal to the facial expression.

There follows the subject of stockings. Many women are wise enough to give their feet room in shoe leather to get around comfortably—but they go short on stocking length. A short stocking can raise quite as much of a grouch as a short pair of shoes.

And here's another thing about short stockings that ought to interest every woman, runs being the bane of our sheer-stocking sex. If you've been having trouble with runs, don't blame the stocking manufacturer. Don't blame the store from which you bought them. Not until you have determined that the size you order is right.

The runs may be from the strain put on the sheer chiffon with the overcrowded hose. One of the stocking department heads advised a friend who complained of her daily experience with runs, to take a half size larger. The friend did, and sure enough the run trouble was reduced at once. Not entirely, of course, but there wasn't that sure "run" discovery after a few steps around in the stockings.

The run trouble may start from the garter end. But if you add the extra strain at the toes to the strain of the garters, it's pretty hard to keep the sheer material from breaking out somewhere.

Another trick advised as a precaution against runs is to wash the stockings before you put them on. That is, rinse them out in coolish water. And, of course, wash them after every wearing. That goes without saying.

BY MARY MEADE.

You have all had a brief respite from the cranberry family since the holidays so we have invited them to become an important part of tomorrow's menu. Cranberries always seem to embody such a large element of cheer, that they fit right into our straight laced thrifty meals. One gets a positive glow buying cranberries which look so bright and blithely expensive when one has but to dole out a few cents to pay for them. A healthy little berry, is the cranberry, too—a fact which makes them even more welcome to us.

Some of our readers have written that they have had their troubles with cranberry jelly. The cranberries obligingly jelled for them, but the resultant jelly was not "clear as crystal," as good jelly should be. Now the recipe we are giving for such a jelly makes a delicious tart clear jelly which has just the proper degree of stiffness. If you wish your cranberry jelly as translucent as your currant and grape varieties, strain it through a cloth as you do those two jellies. However, I prefer more of the cranberry pulp in mine, so the straining is done with a colander.

Cranberry Jelly.

4 cups of cranberries.
1 cup of water.
2 cups of sugar.

Pick over the berries, removing the soft and damaged ones. Wash them. Place them in a kettle, add the water, and cook the berries slowly until they are soft and break open. This will take about ten minutes. Pour them into a colander which has been placed over another kettle. Press all the pulp through. Place the sugar in the oven to warm. Return the cranberries to the fire and bring to the boiling point. Take from the fire and add the warm sugar. Stir well until the sugar is completely dissolved. Turn into molds or glasses. If this is not to be used within a few days, cover the glasses with paraffin when the jelly is cold. Store in a cool place.

Swiss steak is a polite version of round steak. If you wish, you may substitute water for the tomato used, though the tomato prevents your husband recognizing the presence of an economical entrée at the dinner table.

Swiss Steak.

2 pounds of round steak [about 1½ inches thick].
1-3 cup of flour.
1 teaspoon of salt.
2 tablespoons of fat.
1 medium sized onion, sliced.
Pinch of pepper.
2 cups of stewed tomatoes, or tomato juice.

Place the steak on your bread board and pound the flour, salt, and pepper into it thoroughly. Do this on both sides. If you have an available clove of garlic, rub it over both sides of the meat. Melt the fat in your skillet and brown the onion slightly in it. Sear the meat on both sides, cover with tomatoes, and cook over a low flame for about two hours. Cook covered tightly.

Yield: Six servings.

Whist Players Open Annual Tourney Here

Auction? Contract? Hmmph! Just faddish, upstart games, all right in their way—but have you ever essayed the ancient and scientific game of whist? Andrew J. Mouat, as one of the committee officiating at the thirty-second annual tournament of the Chicago Whist association started yesterday at the Palmer house, wants to know.

As a member of the committee officiating at the tournament, which will last four days and will determine the championship Illinois pairs and teams in auction and contract as well as whist, Mr. Mouat knows his cards. Moreover, he's been playing whist for forty years and still prefers it to either or both of the latest, more recent developments of the game. It may sound old fashioned, he admits, but there still are plenty of whist devotees in and around Chicago, he asserts, playing regularly.

"Bridge isn't more than sixty years old," points out this card veteran. "Whereas whist has been a popular game for 400 years. And the next phase of contract, I'll prophesy, is going to be more like whist. There won't be any dummy hand, and all four players will play their cards. In whist, you see, there's no bid, no dummy, and the last card dealt in the dealer's hand is trump. Makes it more scientific."

Abe Brown of 6728 Cornell avenue and R. Frankenstein of 5052 Woodlawn emerged yesterday as championship whist pair for the state. Other veteran bridge and whist players participating include Edward J. Tobin, president of the group; E. Goldsmith, R. L. Simonsen, Dan Gelder, Dr. F. E. Cheeseman, and R. W. Halpin.

Some Jobless Movie Actors Get New Parts

Independent Seeks Big Names for Film.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 22.—The first picture rôle for Betty Bronson in some time has come her way because C. C. Burr, independent producer, wanted to recruit a cast of glittery names to appear in "Midight Patrol." Among others in the cast are Edwina Booth, who, like Betty, hasn't done anything much since her first and one big starring rôle; Mary Nolan, who's likewise been off the studio salary records for some time; Earle Foxe; Tod Sloan, once famous jockey; Jim Jeffries, ex-champion pugilist, and Mischa Auer.

Betty Bronson seemed destined for a lustrous film career after "Peter Pan," but she differed with the Paramount studio over the importance to be given her future rôles, and got herself chopped off the contract salary list.

Edwina Booth achieved much prominence in "Trader Horn," but came back from Africa quite sick and during the ten months it took her to recpuperate her film career had become stranded. Mary Nolan has had so many lawsuits and temperamental episodes recently that she hasn't had the time nor chance to face the camera. All in all, Mr. Burr's picture seems like a grand reunion of refurbished celebrity.

Edgar Allan Woolf, writer of books and movie plots, is burning up. He received a threatening letter some months ago demanding several thousand dollars and employed a bodyguard as a consequence. Other messages followed, most of them over the telephone, although Woolf changed his private phone number several times. After confiding to a sympathetic pal that he was nearly worried crazy Woolf finally tumbled that the pal was the culprit who sent the threats.

The Motion Picture Academy of Arts and Science announces that all major studios have reached an agreement for uniformity governing the image area on film photography and projection. This means that instead of varying sizes of camera apertures and different image areas used for disc prints, sound track prints and silent films, all theaters in future will be enabled to equip themselves with standard projection equipment and both the exhibitor and camera man can dispense with such things as movable lens mounts, sliding aperture plates and other adaptive devices.

Projection of the picture image by the new specifications will result in screen proportions of approximately three by four in theaters, with no more danger of the projectionist cutting off the heads and feet of characters or blurring the action. The new equipment is supposed to be distributed to theaters over the country within two months.

Marie Dressler sat next to Dr. Albert Einstein at a dance recital the other night. Marie made such a hit that the German savant tells her he at last has a good reason for going to see motion pictures.

Jimmy Durante had a closeup photograph of his visage, centering about his famous nose, made up, pasted it on lace and sent it to Greta Garbo for a valentine.

There's an entirely Irish cast making "The Information Kid" at Universal, but a German, Kurt Neumann, is directing it. The cast includes Jim Gleason, Maureen O'Sullivan, Tom Brown, Mickey McGuire, and Andy Devine. Brown, by the way, is an 18 year old actor who not so many years ago was playing a small boy's part in the Jim Gleason stage hit, "Is Zat So?"

MISS JEAN THACKERY.
[Paul Stone-Raymor Photo.]

Miss Jean Thackery of Winnetka will take part in "Step This Way," the fourth annual Northwestern university Waa-Mu musical comedy, to be given on March 8, 9, 10, 11, and 12, and she undoubtedly is a contestant for the title of "Northwestern's Most Beautiful Co-Ed," who will be chosen by a committee from the Art institute. The name of the queen will be kept secret until the first night of the show and she will be introduced at each performance. The annual Waa-Mu show is sponsored by the Woman's Athletic association and the Men's union, from which is derived the name, Waa-Mu.

Washington Society

Washington, D. C., Feb. 22.—[Special.]—President and Mrs. Hoover have as their guest at the White House Mrs. Edgar Rickard of New York, who arrived this morning.

Secretary of War and Mrs. Hurley were honor guests at dinner this evening of Maj. Gen. Thomas Q. Ashburn and Mrs. Ashburn.

The chief justice and Mrs. Hughes attended the ball this evening given at the Mayflower by the official bicentennial commission in celebration of the 200th anniversary of George Washington's birth. The attorney general and Mrs. Mitchell were among guests in the boxes, and many of the diplomats and their wives also were in the large company.

Secretary of Agriculture and Mrs. Hyde and their daughter, Miss Caroline Hyde attended the ball, as did Assistant Secretary of War and Mrs. Frederick H. Payne, and Assistant Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Ernest Lee Jahncke.

Mrs. Jacob Leander Loose, formerly of Chicago, entertained at dinner before the ball, having as her guests the Japanese Ambassador and Mme. Debuchi, the surgeon general of the army and Mrs. Robert U. Patterson, the president of the United States chamber of commerce and Mrs. Silas H. Strawn and the former's sister, Dr. Julia Strawn of Chicago, and Gen. William E. Horton.

Mr. and Mrs. William Jeffries Chewning Jr., the latter formerly Miss Margo Couzens, daughter of Senator and Mrs. James Couzens of Michigan, represented the former's ancestors, Col. and Mrs. William Ball, maternal ancestors of George Washington. Mrs. Ball was the famous Hannah Apherold.

Mrs. Elonzo Tyner, formerly of Chicago, attended the ball at the Mayflower, appearing as her ancestor, Lady Gage, wife of her maternal ancestor, Gen. Thomas Gage, second son of Viscount Baron Gage of Sussex county, England. Miss Peggy Tyner represented her mother's paternal ancestor, Countess Amelia of Poland.

Patent Leather Sleeves Put in French Frocks

Designers Work to Effect Surprises.

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Auntie Paris giving advice to the chic-lorn has the same old tried and true adage for you girls this coming spring. "If you want to be smart, have a little surprise about your clothes." Do something different.

No, no, it won't do to wear your frock upside down. The surprise touch that makes French chic has to be something that will make all the other girls wish they had thought of it first. Like Lyolene's patent leather sleeves put in sports dresses. Now many a girl in the Paris dressmaking clan is laying awake nights gnawing her heart out because SHE didn't think of this first.

Patent leather is no treat in belts, shoes, sashes, and handbags, but when it comes in tricky little puff sleeves like those shown in our sketch it is thrilling. To be thus employed, the leather dressers of France have put patent leather through such a dressing that it comes out as thin and supple as spun silk, and in this new state it drapes, shirrs, and ties with grace.

The value of contrasting surfaces is employed in the frock pictured, for the material of the dress is a dull surfaced woolen so that the shiny sleeves and the draped tie collar of patent leather get the full relief of marked contrast. That is another important detail of chic. The stitched cloth belt is lined with patent leather.

The dress has wide shoulders ending in two inch long kimono sleeves.

SURPRISE

Three Lake County Women Seek Office; Petitions Are Filed

Three Lake county women have tossed their feminine hats into the political ring. Yesterday Mrs. Clarence N. Goodwin of 1160 North Sheridan road, Lake Forest, wife of the former judge, filed a petition with County Clerk Lew A. Hendee designating herself as a Democratic candidate for precinct committeeman of Shields Precinct 7. Later Mrs. Josephine M. Angly of Grays Lake filed a similar petition, also as a Democrat, for precinct committeeman of Avon Precinct 1. During the day Mrs. Harriett Edwards, wife of former Judge Claire C. Edwards, certified with the secretary of state her candidacy for Republican delegate to the national convention.

Official Contract

By Charles True Adams

(International bridge authority; author of "Official Contract at Sight.")

A signal may be perfectly clear and accurate without any previous understanding on the subject at all.

In yesterday's play-a-problem we had a very pretty showing to North by South of the holding of his hand which enabled the partnership to bid a slam and yet there was nothing prearranged about the signal given.

South opened the bidding with an invitational bid of two hearts. West passed. North bid three hearts. East passed and South bid three no-trumps. South feels that North must know that the three no-trumps would show all but one suit definitely stopped with high cards. The only suit that could be open is the club suit and South feels that if North holds the top clubs he will read South's bid correctly and encourage a slam. If he does not hold the top clubs, he will return simply to four hearts, and no harm will be done. After South's three no-trump bid West passed. North, holding the ♣ A, J and good support in both spades and hearts, properly read South's no-trumper and gave a slam encouraging bid of five hearts. East passed. South promptly went to six hearts which closed the bidding. [Note: South held 5½ high card tricks and knew that North held the equivalent of at least 1½. Seven high card tricks between two hands should be sufficient for a little slam bid. South's only problem then was to be sure that North had the clubs.]

West opened the ♣ K, North came up with the A, East played the 2 and South the 4. Dummy then led the ♥ 8 which South overtook with the A. South led back the ♥ K on which North played the 9. The second lead of trumps, of course, cleared that suit. South now led out the ♠ A, K and then led the ♠ 4 to dummy's ♠ J. To the seventh trick dummy led the ♠ Q on which South discarded the ♣ 10. By now you must see what South is doing. He did not wish to take the risk of a finesse in diamonds and is therefore eliminating all the adverse suits from his hand and dummy—except trumps and the diamonds. So that when West is put in the lead he must either lead a diamond to South's A, Q tenace or some other suit, which dummy can trump and on which South can discard the ♦ Q. To trick eight then North led the ♣ J and South discarded the ♦ 3. West took the trick with the ♣ Q. If West leads a diamond now he leads directly into South's tenace. If he leads a club dummy will trump and South will discard the ♦ Q. Either way a little slam bid and made for North and South.

Many Attend Palm Beach Show.

Our Palm Beach news gatherer writes that the most distinguished audience of the season saw Muriel McCormick (Mrs. Elisha Dyer Hubbard) open in Shaw's "St. Joan" at the Playhouse last Tuesday evening, and that many dinner parties were given before the play. Mrs. Hubbard received a great ovation and many flowers, for, as our correspondent writes, "her performance was admirable and done with professional finish and much charm."

Mrs. Harry H. Shearson, who is second vice president of the Playhouse, was there, looking very charming in a rose colored frock with a rose velvet jacquette. Mrs. George A. McKinlock was another Chicagoan in the audience, handsome in a pastel tinted flowered chiffon with a velvet wrap in putty color. Mrs. Jacob Baur is in Palm Beach now, visiting Mrs. Charles H. New Varieties of Old Flowers Prove Popular

BY PAUL POTTER.

Flowers our grandmothers thought most attractive in their outdoor gardens still maintain their popularity in the modern floral arrays. But there have been new varieties developed, new strains that often prove more hardy or more colorful than the parent stock, and the experienced gardener finds himself wishing to give them more prominence.

The argeratum is a common annual, yet new dwarf and compact forms have been developed. The Blue Ball found satisfaction last year, as did the little Blue Star, and they fit quite nicely in solid beddings, for potting or for edgings.

The bushy, spreading annual called Arctotis breviscapa is another fairly new flower. It is daisy shaped with a bluish center and white petals. Recent species of it from South Africa have been given no common names, yet find ready use in masses for edging. The Aster anemone, though not a new species, has been improved also. The short slender stems support improved larger flowers, the improved plants having stiffer stems, yet still find the aster wilt troublesome.

Lua A. Minns of Ithaca, N. Y., has been telling us of a new light pink variety of the annual larkspur which is more bushy than the Cambridge Blue, and says it can be grown out of doors. She also tells of the successful growing of the Dianthus or sweet Wivelsfield, only a few years old, in her garden. Some use it as a perennial, but it also grows as an annual in cool atmosphere. It resembles Sweet William.

Dr. A. B. Stout of the New York Botanical gardens is studying the lemon lily, hemorocalis multiflora, a hardy garden flower with most of its foliage at the bottom and possessing a flower of long blooming season. He obtained a new species from China in 1925, and has been quite happy with the development.

Some American flower catalogs are now listing the Perry's variety of the anthemis tinctoria, a bushy plant with silvery blue foliage and long lasting flowers. It originated in England.

These suggestions are but a few of those to be found by the ambitious Chicagoland flower gardener seeking new fields to conquer. We would welcome experiences of our readers in their explorations along these lines.

Calls Education Only Cure for Evils in Leisure

Washington, D. C., Feb. 22.—(AP)—Education was visualized tonight as the only escape for a world confronted with the three perils of leisure—discontent, disorder, and disease.

Dean William F. Russell of the Columbia university teachers' college, speaking before the National Education association's department of superintendency, termed the need for proper education a "fundamental problem affecting the welfare of the state."

Describing the effects of modern machine age development, Dean Russell said:

"It is not too much to speculate that we are entering a society in which in good times, not in depressions, many people will be idle. Young people will not be employed. Old people will be retired. Young people from 20 to 45, men and women, will indulge in brief periods of furious activity to be followed each day by hours of relaxation with two or three days off each week. Either we shall have a situation like this, or else the opportunity to work will be as at present unjustly distributed, or else there will be a deviation from the tendencies which have operated in the years just past."

"We cannot report those who are not at work," he continued. "We have no distant frontier to which they can go nor free land to give them."

A World's Record

More than three thousand births without one, single loss of either mother or child! That is the official county record of Dr. W. B. Caldwell, during fifty years' family practise in Piatt County, Illinois.

No wonder mothers have complete confidence in giving their wee ones Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin!

If you have a baby, you have constant need of this wonderful preparation of pure pepsin, active senna, and fresh herbs. A child who gets this gentle stimulant for the stomach, liver and bowels is healthier and happier. It keeps children's systems from clogging. It will overcome the most stubborn condition of constipation. It builds them up, and is nothing like the strong cathartics that sap their strength.

A coated tongue or bad breath is the signal for a spoonful of Syrup Pepsin. Children take it readily, for it is really delicious in flavor. Taste it! Take Syrup Pepsin yourself, when sluggish or bilious, or you have sick headaches and no appetite. Take some for several days when you're run-down; see how it picks you up.

It is a prescription preparation which every drug store has ready in big bottles; just ask anywhere for Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

SO AILING, THIN . . . NERVOUS

she couldn't even stand the radio!

Now 4 lbs. heavier—feels fine and dandy

WAS there no escape for her? No relief from steady loss of weight, from weakness, constipation, poor complexion? Sick and afraid—no wonder she lost control of her nerves. Actually got to the point where even the radio upset her!

But help came. And today she's "another" woman—peppy, good company, lovely to look at. And "nerves" a thing of the past! But read her letter:

Tells amazing secret

"I had been ailing for some time. Often constipated, my skin dull and sallow and losing weight by the minute. You can imagine how worried and nervous I got. I simply had to have quiet—even the radio was more than I could stand.

"I don't know where I would have ended up if I hadn't read in the paper about Ironized Yeast. It pepped me up immediately. Soon my bowels were regular and my complexion fresh and clear. I also gained four pounds. There is no praise too high for this wonderful body-builder." Mrs. B. Palermo, 7043 S. Hermitage Ave., Chicago, Ill. This letter is only one of hundreds of equally amazing reports from Ironized Yeast users.

Good news for you!

Man or woman—you, too, no doubt have been discouraged about your health—feared you never could overcome underweight, nervousness, constipation or skin and stomach disorders. But why can't you? Thousands have done it—quickly and easily—with Ironized Yeast!

World-important discovery

Ironized Yeast contains a seven-to-one concentrate of "beer yeast". Seven pounds of this rich, imported health yeast—scientifically cultured by foreign experts—are required to make one pound of the yeast concentrate. So valuable, so vital—is this concentration process that the Biological Commission of the League of Nations—at an official session in Geneva, Switzerland—recommended its adoption as a world-wide standard.

But Ironized Yeast is more than a weight-builder—more than a nerve-strengthener. It enriches and purifies the blood! That's because it is scientifically ironized—treated with three distinct kinds of tonic iron. Thus when you take Ironized Yeast, your whole system is benefited. Every cell in your body responds to its glorious, vitalizing effect!

Triple-tested by experts

To insure your gaining the health and weight you want, Ironized Yeast is triple-tested for actual health-building results. These tests are made by our own scientists, by a prominent physician and by a professor of Bio-Chemistry in a leading medical college.

GUARANTEED! North, south, east and west—Ironized Yeast users are rejoicing in new firm flesh, new clear complexions and all-around health. If the very first package does not help you, too, its cost will be promptly refunded. BEWARE OF CHEAP SUBSTITUTES. Look for the "I.Y." on each genuine tablet! It's there to protect you from misleading imitations. At all druggists. Ironized Yeast Co., Atlanta, Ga.

RICH SPORTSMAN ADMITS FAKING KIDNAPING STORY

Blagden Tells Police He Regrets Incident.

Malone, N. Y., Feb. 22.—[Special.]—Harry H. Blagden, wealthy sportsman, who vanished under mysterious circumstances from his Lake Placid camp a week ago Thursday and five days later turned up in Cleveland with a story of having escaped from kidnapers, was not abducted at all, according to a statement today by State Police Captain C. J. Broadfield.

Blagden, according to the state police, has admitted that he went away voluntarily and never was a captive. Capt. Broadfield said he received a letter yesterday, signed by Harry H. Blagden and mailed in Arden, N. Y. The letter follows:

"Dear captain: I have at last gotten myself straightened out. I wish to state that I was never kidnaped. I had been worrying about the time, my problems and the future. The load seemed so heavy that I could not bear it. There just seemed to be no way out until, alone in the cottage at the Lake Placid club, this kidnaping scheme suddenly came to me. I immediately acted upon it. The further I got into it the more difficult it seemed to turn back.

"In Cleveland, after discovering the publicity and its effect upon others, I finally grasped the whole situation and used the story of my escape as the best way out.

"It has taken me till now to make this statement, which I should have made in Cleveland."

INQUEST ACQUITS HUSBAND SLAYER; POLICE HOLD HER

LIQUOR INSANITY CASES GAINING UNDER DRY LAW

Bad Alcohol Taking Toll in Wisconsin.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., Feb. 22.—[Special.]—The number of alcoholic cases committed to insane hospitals has increased rapidly in recent years, A. W. Bayley, secretary of the state board of control, revealed today.

"The bad liquor which is being drunk under prohibition is responsible for many of the pitiful cases," Mr. Bayley said. "While the number of such persons committed to hospitals for the insane dropped when prohibition commenced, the total is now mounting steadily toward the number of cases cared for prior to prohibition."

More Cases in North.

About 135 first admissions of such cases occurred in 1927 and 1928, whereas only 72 first admissions were made in 1921 and 1922, declared Mr. Bayley. Reports from asylums since 1928 indicate that a greater increase has occurred.

The northern part of the state has always had more alcoholic cases than the southern portion, according to Bayley. The northern hospital for the insane at Oshkosh had 74 alcoholic victims, while the state hospital at Mendota had 61 cases, in 1927 and 1928. There were 55 alcoholic insane at Oshkosh in 1921 and 1922 and 17 at Mendota for the same period.

"Wisconsin has many more alcoholic victims than most states of the union," declared Mr. Bayley. "Federal statistics show that in the United States for every 100,000 people, there were two sufferers in 1926, 2.2 victims in 1927, and 2.3 victims in 1928.

More Milwaukee Cases.

"Milwaukee county takes care of such sufferers through the medium of its own county hospital, and so the state figures do not include those for our industrial center. However, their statistics also bear out the fact that alcoholic commitments have been increasing in number. In 1927 and 1928 Milwaukee had 67 cases, whereas in 1923 and 1924 she had only 60 cases to deal with.

"That this condition of affairs is true of the entire country is proved by Federal statistics. The statistics also show how large a part of the total number of insane is taken up by victims of rotten alcohol. There were 2,656 alcoholic cases among 54,445 insane in the United States in 1927, while in 1928 there were 2,770 cases among 55,520 insane. The figures compiled on alcohol cases include only first commitments and do not take in those who return for the second time."

The Old Story

In the year of 1932 there should be no monthly martyrs to pain. Some women still think they must suffer—they haven't heard of Midol—or can't believe that it has solved their problem.

Did you know that five to seven minutes after swallowing a tiny tablet you can be yourself—can be comfortable—can go about without feeling a single further twinge of muscular pain?

Your regular periods need not be painful—they are not painful to those who know of Midol. These wonderful tablets make Nature's process a mere incident. No pain, not even discomfort when you have learned to depend on Midol, as women who used to have the hardest time have found. It is not a narcotic, does not interfere with the process, but does stop the pain; relieves headaches, too; neuralgia, etc. Every drugstore has Midol.

JUSTIFIES TAXES ON MOTORISTS AS PAY FOR SERVICES

Bureaucracy's View Told to Engineers.

Urbana, Ill., Feb. 22.—[Special.]—Several hundred engineers and highway commissioners from all sections of the state were in attendance at the opening session of the three day annual highway engineering short course today at the University of Illinois and the number will be greatly increased by tomorrow.

Gasoline taxes and license fees are not taxes but repayments to the government for a required service rendered, declared A. R. Hirst of the United States bureau of public roads, in addressing this afternoon's gathering.

"During 1932 the department has planned the expenditures of four million dollars for city street construction and half a million dollars more for the maintenance of city streets," said Frank T. Sheets, state highway engineer.

"Illinois public imposts probably amount to less than one-half cent a mile of travel," Hirst declared. "This is less than one-tenth, and probably averages about one-sixteenth of the total cost of operating the motor vehicle. It is not a tax. It is a repayment to government for a required service rendered.

"It is undoubtedly much less than would be the cost of equal facilities furnished by private enterprise with profit, and profit there would have to be if the necessary services were to be continued.

"The motorist must in fairness pay much of the cost of creating and maintaining the facilities necessary for the pleasurable and economical operation of his motor vehicle."

First bout—7 o'clock.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Golden Gloves opened on the south side of Chicago last night with a record attendance. Three thousand watched 59 bouts, which lasted from 7 o'clock until after midnight. The opening night of the third and final sectional meet at White City was monopolized by the four lighter divisions, the 112, 118, 126, and 135 pound classes.

Tonight at White City the heavier boys will swing into action. Where last night most of the matches were decided on boxing ability and endurance, tonight the powerful punches of welterweights, middleweights, the light heavyweights, and heavyweights will halt many of the fights in jig time. When the husky lads throw punches with pounds of muscle behind them some one is liable to bounce sprawling to the mat.

Forty Bouts Tonight.

This doesn't mean that the boys who fought last night were not interesting. They were, but for those who like to watch the big boys in action tonight is their bargain bill. There'll be more than forty bouts tonight. The doors will open at 6 o'clock and the first bout will start an hour later. White City has room for more than 4,000, and all the seats are excellent. Tonight's show probably will last until 11 o'clock, considering the number of bouts that will end with a well directed right hand punch.

Ninety-three boys appeared yesterday afternoon, passed their physical examinations, and made weight. Ten others were disqualified. If this afternoon's crop of ambitious Golden Gloves seekers equals that mark, more than half of the south side record entry will have tried their skill and courage in the ring.

End Trials Tomorrow.

The south side boxers complete their trials tomorrow night. Then the successful sixteen boys will join the teams from the west and north to battle against the championship teams from five states in the Tournament of Champions which opens next week at the Chicago Stadium.

Chicago is preparing an almost entirely new team to meet the New York boys in the intercity bouts at Madison Square Garden March 28. Leo Rodak is the only champion from last year and he competed last night in the 118 pound class. A year ago Rodak won the flyweight title.

The south side trials last night did not uncover any spectacular fighters although the boys tried hard and were

BOX CAR BOXER SCORES K.O., GETS NAP, WINS AGAIN

BY FRENCH LANE.

Don Brand of Fort Dodge, Ia., was one of the big heroes of Chicago's south sectional Golden Gloves bouts last night.

Boys like Don are refreshing to write about, even though sooner or later they may get whipped as they travel down the championship trail. But one whipping won't stop a Don Brand.

Until Brand squared away against Apoliner Conrad in the south side Golden Gloves preliminaries last night nobody in Chicago had ever heard of him. Until this opportunity to win Golden Gloves as a lightweight was called to his attention, he never had any idea of pulling himself away from Fort Dodge to travel to Chicago and engage in some fisticuffs.

Hears About Golden Gloves.

He had invaded Des Moines and won the lightweight championship of Iowa in the A. A. U. meet. When he got back to Fort Dodge, everybody began telling him about the Golden Gloves touranment.

Don said to himself, "a champion of Iowa will get along pretty well anywhere." So he decided to fight for the Golden Gloves.

There was little money in the Brand family coffers, so the problem of moving from Fort Dodge to Chicago was no minor item. But Don solved it, although it took him three days and three nights to make the trip.

Box Car Beats Hiking.

He left Fort Dodge last Friday afternoon, hitch hiking his way toward Chicago. Each motorist who gave him a lift carried him a few miles and that was all. It was slow traveling. Don could have walked it almost as fast. Early yesterday morning he found himself no nearer Chicago than Bureau Junction. He gave up hitchhiking as a bad job and climbed into a box car on a Rock Island freight train. It landed him in Chicago yesterday just a few minutes before it was time for him to weigh in at White City.

Don weighed in and was a couple of pounds below the lightweight limit

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Avalon, Cal., Feb. 22.—The training process of the Cubs' rookies moved another step forward today and, which is unusual this year, the weather offered no obstacles. Heretofore the program has been mainly physical but this time Manager Hornsby launched his first lessons in the finer points of the so-called national pastime.

Sliding and base running were the items on which attention was centered, after which the rookies were permitted some batting practice, which always is most enjoyable for the participants. Hitting never is regarded as work.

Sliding was conducted in the sandy spot on which Cubs and near Cubs for the last ten years have been gouging bits of hide from their anatomy. There were no skin casualties today, but it wasn't because the candidates didn't put all they could into their efforts.

Hornsby Directs Sliding.

Hornsby stood over the pit base and he had the youngsters slide in two at a time, one on each side of the bag. After he watched them for a time he told each of his pupils which side was most natural for him. They were warned, however, about the wisdom of going either way, depending on whether the shortstop or second baseman is making the fielding play.

Stanley Hack, the $50,000 Sacramento purchase, was sent skidding into the pit so often that he was literally eating sand. Hornsby's interest in him is explained by the fact that the youngster is slated to be the regular third baseman. His sliding was just like everything else he has shown thus far. He picked up instructions faster than a dry sponge can pick up water. He was the same apt pupil when the manager provided him with some expert batting instructions early in training.

Malone, Root Pick 'Em Off.

The school in base running, which followed the sliding exhibition, was confined to the knack of getting a lead off first base. Hornsby put himself in the limelight as first baseman and had Charley Root and Pat Malone on the mound. It wasn't much of a trick for Pat or Charley to pick off some of the runners, but a few more days of tutoring will eliminate some of the faults. Even the rookies who don't remain will be better stocked with ideas when they go back to the sticks.

When the batting practice started there was a man pitching who looked strangely familiar in a Cub uniform. It was the veteran Grover Cleveland Alexander, who wasn't wearing his House of David beard. He's going to rejoin that team later, but just now intends to have some fun showing the youngsters some real pitching. He's been keeping himself in the condition of a 20 year old out here all winter, so today he was able to offer discouragement to the men with the bats.

Alex Stops Hitters.

In the previous drills a flock of baseballs had been driven out of the spacious park, but Alex put a stop to most of this. Even at his 40 odd years he still can show more than half the big league pitchers how to operate, and if that isn't an anti-Volstead argument nothing is.

President Patrick of the Los Angeles club was around the field again today and all the rookies were watching him closely. For a number of them he is a future boss. The Cubs are going to hand him at least a half dozen athletes, but what he wants before anything else is a first baseman and outfielders. For the latter he is demanding Johnny Moore and he might get him later on.

The only first baseman Hornsby can dispense with is Harry Taylor, and there is no intention of making that move until it is definitely established that the candidate cannot supplant Charley Grimm.

Rear Guard Off Tonight

THE second squad of the Chicago Cubs will leave Chicago tonight on the Los Angeles Limited for the training camp on Catalina island. Among those in the party will be Guy Bush, Dutch Henry, Jakie May, Bob Smith, and Les Sweetland, pitchers; Les Bell, third baseman; Kiki Cuyler, Lance Richbourg, Riggs Stephenson, and Danny Taylor, outfielders.

FONSECA LEADS SOX ON SOUTHERN TRIP TOMORROW

Manager Lew Fonseca, Coaches Johnny Butler and Bill Cunningham of the Chicago White Sox arrived in Chicago yesterday from the Pacific coast. They were met by the Sox officials, who are completing plans for the departure of the advance squad for Mineral Wells, Tex., tomorrow afternoon.

The trio joined Red Faber, veteran spitball pitcher, who is starting his nineteenth season as a member of the White Sox. Faber arrived in Chicago several days ago.

Among the players who are expected to arrive today is Bruce Campbell. Others will arrive tomorrow, just in time to catch the train for the camp. The party will number eighteen.

Harry Grabiner, vice president of the White Sox, said the squad will spend a week at Mineral Wells and then will move to San Antonio. The Sox will open its schedule of practice games against the University of Texas at Austin on March 17.

CARDS AND A'S BEGIN DRILLS AT FLORIDA CAMPS

Tampa, Fla., Feb. 22.—[Special.]—Four more major league baseball teams moved in along the Florida gulf coast today to start training for the coming season. Among them were the St. Louis Cardinals and the Philadelphia Athletics.

The Athletics have pitched their camp at Fort Myers, while the Cardinals will drill at Bradenton.

Manager Gabby Street led ten players of the world's championship team into camp. Among the players were Flint Rhem, Ray Blades, Paul Derringer and George Watkins. Mike Gonzales, veteran Cuban catcher, arrived yesterday.

At Clearwater, Max Carey, manager of the Brooklyn Robins, arrived with a contingent of batterymen, and was met by Glenn Wright, Al Cohen and four pitchers. Members of the New York Yankees were beginning to show up at St. Petersburg. The Boston Braves are expected at St. Petersburg within a few days.

PRINCETON GRID POSITION OFFERED TO FRITZ CRISLER

Gopher Sports Director Mum; Awaits Contract.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 22.—[Special.]—Fritz Crisler, University of Minnesota athletic director, refused tonight to deny or confirm reports that he would accept the position of head football coach at Princeton university. The position was offered to Crisler today.

Those close to Crisler feel that he has made up his mind to leave Minnesota and will sign with Princeton within the next few days. Terms of the contract with the eastern school are expected to reach Crisler tomorrow and he is to give a "yes" or "no" answer within the next 48 hours.

Officials Out of Town.

As President Lotus D. Coffman is away from the university on a tour of the orient, and Minnesota's acting president, Dean Ford, was out of the city, there was no one in authority to make an effort to retain Crisler as the Gophers' sport director.

As far back as December, it is said, Princeton made its first bid for Crisler's services. The offer is said to have come when Bernie Bierman was appointed head football coach here. Crisler refused this bid. Since then the Princeton committee seeking a new coach has been overcoming Crisler's objections to terms.

It is reported that late last week the committee from the eastern school conferred with Crisler in Minneapolis. At that time all concessions were said to have been granted. The Gopher athletic head insisted that these promises be placed in writing. This is believed to have been done, and the agreement is being forwarded to Minneapolis.

Fails to Deny Offer.

Crisler also has been approached by Wisconsin during the last few days. Reports that he had been asked to go to Madison for an interview this week were denied by Crisler.

Since late December, when Crisler said he would stay at Minnesota, rumors of his departure have developed frequently. He denied each one as it came up. Today he wasn't issuing denials. He merely remained silent.

As far as could be learned, no serious efforts were being made by those in authority at the university to keep him in his present post, although townfolks and alumni were up in arms over the possibility of his departure because the new combination of Crisler and Bierman was hailed as the start of a new era of athletics at Minnesota.

PRINCETON WAITS.

Princeton, N. J., Feb. 22.—[Special.]—"I don't know anything about it, but I am very happy to hear it if it is so." That was the statement of President John Grier Hibben of Princeton university when informed that H. O. [Fritz] Crisler, University of Minnesota athletic director, was expected to accept Princeton's offer to coach the Tiger team next year.

"The matter, of course, is in the hands of the board of athletic control, and any statement must come from them. I believe, however, they will have something to say in a few days," said President Hibben.

Await Full Developments.

Thurston J. Davis, supervisor of Princeton sports, refused to say whether Crisler had been offered the coaching position. No official announcement will be made until negotiations are completed, he declared.

"Following the established policy formulated by the board of athletic control in anticipation of many rumors of this nature, I must decline to comment on any such report," said Davis.

A. A. U. Stars Beat 3 World Track Records

New York, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Three world records were shattered, another equalled twice and two meet records broken tonight in the National A. A. U. indoor track and field meet.

The New York Athletic club captured the team championship, displacing the Illinois A. C., with a total of 27½ points. The I. A. C. was fourth with 10½ points.

New York university's medley relay team whipped Pennsylvania and the New York A. C., over the route of one mile and seven-eighths in 7 minutes. 29 3-5 seconds. This displaced the former world indoor mark of 7:30 2-5, set last year by Pennsylvania.

Other world records were hung up by Joe McCluskey of Fordham, who won the two mile steeplechase in 9 minutes 46 2-5 seconds, and Mike Pecora of the Brooklyn Y. M. C. A., who stepped the mile walk in 6 minutes 27 1-5 seconds.

Toppino Ties Record Twice.

Emmett Toppino was crowned national indoor sprint king. The speedster from Loyola university of New Orleans twice equaled the world indoor mark of 6 1-5 seconds in winning the 60 yard dash from the Negro star, Eddie Tolan of Detroit.

For the first time in weeks, the sensational mile runner, Gene Venzke, failed to take part in the record breaking. The Pottstown, Pa., boy, who lowered the world indoor mark five days ago to 4:10, won his first national championship at his favorite distance in 4:15, but he had a walkover. Only two runners of an original entry of 10 opposed Venzke.

Dale Letts, Illinois A. C. runner, outran George Bullwinkle of the New York A. C., on the last lap to win the 1,000 yard run in 2 minutes, 13 seconds. Ward Harmon of the Navy was third and Ray Conger of the Illinois A. C., fourth.

Wilson Wins in Great Finish.

The 600 yard final produced the most spectacular finish of the meet as Alex Wilson, of Notre Dame, with a last desperate lunge, won by inches from Eddie Roll, of the New York A. C. Both fell flat to the boards as they hit the finish line, and Roll was picked up by his teammates in a semi-concious condition.

George Spitz, N. Y. U. high jumper and world record holder, set a new meet record at 6 feet 7 inches.

Herman Brix of the Los Angeles A. C. turned the tables in the shot put on Leo Sexton of the New York A. C., who shattered the world indoor record five days ago with a heave of 52 feet 8¾ inches. Brix beat Sexton with a toss of 51 feet 4½ inches, setting a new meet record. Sexton's best was 51 feet 1¼ inches.

Yanks Book 5 Exhibition Games at Mexico City

REIFF BOTTLED UP, SO JOHNSON DIRECTS ATTACK

Purple Star Fails to Get Basket.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Feb. 22.—[Special.]—Northwestern defeated Michigan, 30 to 26, in an overtime Western conference basketball game here tonight after the Wolverines had fought their way to a 23 to 23 tie in regulation time.

The score was 11 to 11 at the half. Then the Wildcats forged ahead and at one time were out in front by seven points. Northwestern could not hold its advantage in regulation time, but proved its superiority over Michigan for the second time this season in the overtime.

Both teams played a defensive game at the start, Johnson sinking the first field goal after 11 minutes. Play became faster in the second period, however.

Michigan made only six baskets and Northwestern 11, five of which were scored by Johnson.

Daniels Leads Scorers.

Capt. Daniels of Michigan was the scoring ace with three baskets and seven free throws for 13 points. Joe Reiff, Purple star, was held to two free throws by Williamson, who contributed seven points to the Wolverines' total.

Johnson opened the scoring with a free throw after Weiss fouled him. Williamson tied it and Daniels gave Michigan a two point lead with a pair of penalty throws. Johnson's basket tied the score at 4 all. Farber dropped in a goal 45 seconds later to put the Purple ahead. Williamson was fouled by Reiff and scored one point.

Daniels scored Michigan's first basket with an overhead throw from the pivot position under the net, but Farber tied the score with a free throw. Johnson pushed in a shot and Daniels sank a free throw. Reiff was fouled by Williamson and scored two free throws to give the Wildcats an 11 to 8 lead. A free throw by Daniels and another overhead basket by the Michigan captain tied the score just before the half ended.

Wildcats Step Out.

Daniels put Michigan ahead with a free throw, but McCarnes evened matters. A free throw by Farber and baskets by Johnson, Farber, and McCarnes gave Northwestern a 19 to 12 lead. McCarnes fouled Petrie and left the game with four personals. Petrie made good on both tries.

Smith maintained the Northwestern lead with a long basket. Then Williamson tossed in a basket and a free throw. Johnson netted a side court shot, giving the Purple a 23 to 17 lead.

With two minutes to go, Daniels, fouled by Johnson, scored both free throws. He then batted in a basket. Altenhof tied the score with a long shot from side court just before the game ended.

Shaw fouled Farber a minute after the overtime period opened and the chunky guard made a free throw. Farber immediately eluded Shaw for an easy basket. Petrie, fouled by Farber, sank his try. Johnson eluded Daniels for a short basket, giving the Purple a 28 to 24 lead.

Culver Ends Scoring.

Williamson dropped in a goal from center court. With only 45 seconds to go, Culver, substitute for Farber, scored from under the basket and Northwestern had its four point margin. Lineup:

BADGERS, 34; MAROONS, 23

Madison, Wis., Feb. 22.—[Special.]—Wisconsin saved itself from the Big Ten cellar here tonight by defeating Chicago, 34 to 23 in a listless game, featured by 34 fouls.

The Badger defense stopped the Maroon long passing game and save for a rally at the start of the second half, when the Maroons scored six points in three minutes, to close the Wisconsin advantage, 16 to 12, there was never a question of the outcome.

Capt. Marvin Steen with 11 points, seven on free throws, and Harry Griswold with 10 points led the Badger attack. Porter was high scorer for the Maroons with five points.

Wisconsin used reserves in the final eight minutes of play and the Cardinal defense weakened to allow Chicago to score nine points.

SOUTH SIDERS CHEER GOLDEN GLOVES FIGHTS

not wanting in courage. So far, the north side has had better material in the lighter classes.

But the fans can tell you this morning that only an extraordinary boxer and puncher can keep Rodak from winning a second pair of diamond studded gloves. Rodak stopped Joe Getzy, an unattached boxer, last night in one round. Flashing the same left hand which defeated the flyweight champion of France in the international bouts at Soldiers' field, Leo sailed into Getzy without delay.

Not only did Rodak have a jab, but he showed a punch which floored his opponent three times for no counts before Referee Joe McNamara stopped the fight.

If Rodak wins the bantamweight title this year he'll be the second boy ever to win two Golden Gloves titles. Jimmy Chase did that in the first two years of the Golden Gloves tournaments.

Captains C. Y. O. Team.

Rodak is captain of the team from the SS. Peter and Paul parish of the Catholic Youth organization. He also won a C. Y. O. championship last December.

For the other lads, boys who yet have to earn their places as veteran performers in the amateur ranks, it was the story of lack of skill but a spirit to hammer away without regard for consequences. And many of these remained in the tournament through sheer courage.

Thirty-two boys remain in the four weights which fought last night. Thirty-two more will remain after tonight's bouts. All will compete in the south side finals tomorrow night. And if you want a look at some honest to goodness scraps before the tournament of champions opens, you'll be at White City tonight and tomorrow night.

Shamrocks to Battle Duluth Sextet Tonight

To maintain their winning stride, the Shamrocks must beat the cleverest offensive team in the American Hockey league when they meet the Duluth Hornets tonight at the Stadium. The Hornets have recently fought their way from last to third place. They are as anxious to land in the play offs as the Shamrocks are to keep them out.

The Hornets are in the best condition they have enjoyed this season. Laurie Scott and Jack Leswick, two of their star forwards, have been on the hospital roll on and off all year until lately. Scott was third high scorer in the league last year, and Leswick was considered one of the outstanding youngsters of the season. Other stars in the Hornet offense are Gus Forslund, one of the league's scoring leaders, and Art Merrill.

To Use Three Lines.

Manager Johnny Mitchell will send three forward lines against the Shamrock defense. They are made up of the aforementioned four and of Gloomy Lessard; Ernie Anderson, Joey Thorsteinson, Eddie Bouchard, and Crutchy Morrison.

In Capt. Bob Davis and Red Stuart, Mitchell has two of the best defense men in the league. Stuart in defensive play is tied with Johnny McKinnon for high scoring honors among the league's defense men. Teaming with them on defense is Carl Bergl.

Another important factor in the Hornets' rise is the return of Vern Turner, who is playing one of the best games of a long career. Against him Manager Babe Dye will send his kid line and two new combinations necessitated by the loss by suspension of Capt. Gordie Brydson.

Shamrocks Hold Edge.

Tonight's game is the sixth of the season between the two clubs, and marks the second appearance of the season here of the Hornets. The score stands three to two in favor of the Shamrocks. Lineups:

of 135 pounds. He had missed a few meals on the Friday to Monday jump from Fort Dodge to Chicago.

He whipped Apoliner Conrad in his first bout. He was so much better than Apoliner that the referee stopped it in the first round and Brand was the winner on a technical knockout.

Sleeps 2 Hours; Wins Again.

Then Brand slept for two hours and got back some of the sleep he had lost on the three day and three night trip from Fort Dodge to Chicago. He crawled through the ropes again and whipped Harry J. Fennimore of St. Bernard C. Y. O. in three hard rounds of fighting.

Don ought to catch up completely on his sleep today. Lightweights who encounter him in the late rounds at White City tomorrow night had better beware.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

CITED FOR CONTEMPT.

THE WAKE has been cited to explain alleged unethical conduct by Knights of the Road, Pullman and Hotel division. We feel like some of the eminent physicians put on the so-called carpet by the Chicago Medical society because of statements or actions deemed detrimental to the profession. We feel sure we are right in principle, but it is, we admit, difficult to explain our action.

This alleged offense took place upon return from a vacation trip to the east. The alleged unethical conduct was an article in The Wake explaining that depression had affected hotel rates and that porters, bellboys, and others accustomed to gratuities, now were even civil with tip less than those formerly bestowed.

Yet here is what Warden C. H. B. of the Knights charges against us: "Swindle sheets should be considered sacred and reference thereto made only verbally and then in low breath. Why? Because that little item 'Incidentals' covers many things which heretofore I never have been called upon to explain.

"Now the boss has referred me to your article and has asked an itemized account of services included in Incidentals. You have proved recreant to the interests of Knights of the Road if prosperity should return and we should again be sent forth to sell goods which none now will buy."

Although only an associate member of the Knights, The Wake regrets filing of these charges against us. We do not think our past record warrants it. In the first place, we have not for years used the trite items of Incidentals or Entertainment in our expense accounts to Friend Arch. That's old stuff.

Instead we say with becoming modesty that we originated the idea of "Good Will" items in expense vouchers. When that item was a bit frayed we substituted "Experience" and various other innovations which at least made the statements piquant and interesting, sometimes even exciting—to us.

We deny, in toto, these charges filed against us. As an associate member, we reiterate our loyalty to the Knights of the Road and will make eloquent defense when called upon to refute the false accusations.

Worst Joke I Ever Heard.

How to Do?

Let us pause at this time in our every day axis,
Temporarily taking up seasonal praxis,
Working out a report re '31 income taxes,
Figuring out what we owe Uncle Sam.

If your job is to serve, either labor or what,
And your income consists of fees, wages or not,
Uncle Sam will be waiting to share in your lot
If, in infinite wisdom, he finds it.

If you're married, live together, form 1040 will say:
Exempt thirty-five hundred and further you may Claim a four hundred credit for each child, hooray,
Under eighteen years of age, say if any.

For '31 you report no receipts for the year,
No business, no labor, of all living stripped bare,
Does Uncle Sam with his cash help you out? Answer here,
Or perhaps you believe in good fairies.

Irish Seek No. 13 Tonight Against Michigan State

The Spartans have dropped only three games in 15 starts, one of them to Notre Dame, 28 to 25. An early season loss to Michigan was avenged recently and State broke even with St. Xavier of Cincinnati.

JUST TOO TIRED TO SKATE, SAYS NORWEGIAN STAR

New York, Feb. 22.—[Special.]—Sonja Henie, Norwegian figure skater, who, with others of Norway's Olympic team, was reported to have demanded "exorbitant fees" to appear in two Canadian ice skating carnivals, today declared that "it was all a big mistake."

"We didn't demand any expense money at all. We told them months ago we couldn't appear in the carnivals at Ottawa and Toronto after participating in the Olympics and the world championships. The physical strain is too great."

Miss Henie will make her last American appearance at Madison Square Garden on Wednesday night.

Sharkey Made Me What I Am Today—Schaaf

Jack's Cool—In Corner.

Sharkey has been in his corner as chief second in every fight except one. Jack was training for the Primo Carnera match in New York when Schaaf defeated Tuffy Griffith in Chicago last September. Schaaf says that despite Sharkey's excitable nature when in the ring, he is a cool and calm second.

Ernie never has boxed Sharkey, but he did spar with him when they both were in the navy. That was in 1923, when Schaaf was only 15 years old.

Sharkey will arrive in Chicago from Miami, Fla., Friday morning to handle Schaaf against Stribling. Ernie is meeting the same man his fighter-manager fought for the right to a match for the heavyweight championship three years ago Friday.

Stribling Takes Rest.

Schaaf boxed four rounds yesterday at Trafton's gym, two each with Tommy Davenport and Ed Wills, and indulged in several rounds of bag punching, rope skipping and shadow boxing.

Stribling says he is on edge, and fearing that he will go stale, he rested yesterday.

My Sullivan, St. Paul boxer, and Ben Jeby of New York signed last night to fight the semi-final bout. The match is set for ten rounds at 160 pounds. Jeby is the first middleweight to file a challenge and a forfeit to bind a contest with Gorilla Jones, the division champion. Sullivan has scored three knockouts in a row, Mel Coleman, Billy Light and Gary Leach being the victims.

The balance of the card will have Adolph Heuser and Clyde Chastain, light heavyweights, at eight rounds; Al Fay and Tommy Davenport, heavyweights, at eight rounds, and Sammy Levine and Franklin Cheek, featherweights, at four rounds.

Bonefish, Built Like Racing Car, Moves Like One

BY BOB BECKER.

Aboard the [Ilderim], Florida Keys, Fla., Feb. 22.—[Special.]—The famous species of salt water game fish known as a bonefish, which we are hunting down here among the keys and the hot sun, has been described as a big, silvery herring, stream lined like a racing car and so fast that it makes the water smoke when it runs. The fellow who concocted that description wasn't very far from ringing the bell. This afternoon we were introduced to Mr. Bonefish around 2 o'clock when a scorching sun was in the sky.

After we had hooked and landed a 6½ pounder we looked around to see where the fire was, because this fish tore away like a fire marshal on the way to a four eleven alarm.

J. C. Elston, skipper of the Ilderim, anchored the boat approximately one half mile from a broad, flat bank where the bonefish were supposed to feed. This bottom feeding species dotes on crustacea and seems to be particularly fond of shrimp and hermit crabs. It retires to comparatively deep water at low tides and then moves onto the flat bars to feed when the tide comes in.

This afternoon, when George Roberts, our guide, edged us onto the bar close to a mangrove key, we hadn't poled along for more than a few hundred feet when we spotted the fish. They were mucking around on the white sandy bottom, showing their dorsal fins, which gleamed and glistened like wet burnished silver in the brilliant sunlight of midafternoon. We saw not one but five or six show their fins while George, crouched in the prow like a South American Indian paddling a canoe, cautioned us to keep quiet, as it is imperative that no tackleboxes be dropped or oars banged around when you are bonefishing. They are as shy as deer in the hunting season. In fact George compares this game of working a school of bonefish to stalking a deer.

We rubbed our hands in suppressed excitment and elation at finding our fish so quickly, but George turned around sharply to say:

"Now stop that, Mistah Bob. You gotta keep cool. You ain't going to get nothing if you get excited. Take it easy."

That was easier said than done. However, George took up his hammer, cracked open two shells containing hermit crabs, hooked them on number four hooks, a sweeping two handed cast sent them out and the hunt was on. In less than twenty minutes we had hooked a six and a half pounder, after missing one strike, thrilled to a run of about 135 yards as the fish streaked it across the bar and six or seven minutes later he was in the boat, the only fish caught during the brief fishing time that we had.

CALUMET LIGHTS WIN; COMPLETE PREP TITLE LIST

Coaches Meet Today for Semi-Final Pairings.

Calumet High school's lightweight basketball team whipped Bowen, 28 to 22, yesterday at White City and entered the semifinals for the Chicago Public High School league championship. The result broke a tie for second place in the south section and Calumet now will represent the district with Parker, which won the sectional title.

Calumet's triumph over Bowen completed the list of teams which will compete in the title series.

Draw Schedule Today.

Coaches of all squads which qualified, light and heavyweight winners and runners-up in the four sections, will gather in the league offices today to draw up the schedule for the series, which probably will start Thursday.

Benny Swanson, who sank three field goals and three penalty throws led Calumet's attack. Calumet trailed, 12 to 11, at the end of the first half, but rallied in the third quarter for a 20 to 17 advantage.

Joliet heavies took second place in the south section of the Catholic league by defeating De La Salle, 25 to 10, on the latter's court last night. Simon led the victors, collecting six baskets and one free throw. Joliet lightweights, with Hartford sinking the winning goal, defeated De La Salle, 25 to 24, in overtime.

La Grange Heavies Win.

La Grange's heavyweight squad, led by Schultz, who scored seven baskets, defeated Proviso in a nonconference game at La Grange's gymnasium. La Grange lightweights triumphed over Proviso, 24 to 20. The lineups:

Heeney Loses, but Gives Baer Lively Fight

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 22.—(AP)—Finishing with a great tenth round rally, Max Baer, the former Livermore butcher boy, pounded out a ten round decision over old Tom Heeney of New Zealand here today.

It was a rousing battle from start to finish, with the veteran Heeney putting up unexpected opposition. Heeney bored in steadily and in the early stages had the better of the fighting. He battered Baer steadily at close range with jolting uppercuts and made good use of a 12½ pound weight advantage.

Baer found the range after the third and pounded his stocky opponent with lusty rights to the jaw.

PRINCESS ZELDA JUST LASTS TO DEFEAT SILVERY

Favorite at Hialeah Park Rallies Too Late.

Miami, Fla., Feb. 22.—[Special.]—A nose victory in which the winner just lasted to save the purse, featured the George Washington handicap, feature at Hialeah park here today. Princess Zelda, owned and trained by E. J. Reed was the winner, finishing the mile and a furlong in 1:53 2-5.

The scantest of margins away, as the winner flashed past the judges, came Silvery, the favorite. Silvery was second by half a length over Lionhearted. The order of finish after that was Outpost, Blue Cloud, Charles Clarke, June Moon, Red Face and Wrack Royal.

Winner Returns $8.70.

Princess Zelda was the third betting choice and returned $8.70 for $2.00. She carried 104 pounds and led from start to finish, although a stride past the winning post Silvery was in front. Jockey G. Riley was up on the winner and scored a double on the day since he previously had brought home E. R. Bradley's Bun D. in the second race.

Judging from the kind of race he rode, Riley's instructions evidently were to get to the front and stay there. He broke the 6 year old mare very fast and rushed to the first turn with a lead of several lengths.

Cutting to the inside, he hugged the rail and saved every foot. Silvery, meanwhile, had been rated back of the pacemaker with Hank Mills bidding his time for his move. At the top of the stretch Mills shook up his mount and began to close on Princess Zelda. Silvery gained with every stride and at the sixteenth pole seemed about to go to the front. She hung just a trifle and Riley with whip and heel got Princess Zelda over the line a winner.

Another Favorite Loses.

With Bun D. Riley again got his mount home ahead of the favorite. Shavings, owned by Mrs. John Hay Whitney, was made the public choice but Bun D. also had a good many supporters. These two fought it out to a close head finish. They carried level weight of 119 pounds. The winner returned $7.70 for $2.00 and finished in 0:36 for the three furlongs.

Only one favorite won, although three were second and the other three third. The lone winner was Fort Dearborn, owned and trained by G. W. Ogle. He was made a 6 to 5 shot and scored in a close finish with Bosafabo, a heavily played second choice. Fort Dearborn was a neck to the good at the end of the mile and a furlong.

ST. VIATOR AND DE PAUL FIVES CLASH TONIGHT

Bourbonnais, Ill., Feb. 22.—[Special.]—De Paul university of Chicago and St. Viator will meet in their third basketball game of the season here tomorrow night. St. Viator was beaten in both previous contests, one of which was a charity affair at the Chicago Stadium.

Capt. Joe O'Connor is expected to be out of the De Paul lineup with a knee injury sustained when the Demons beat Detroit last Saturday.

Heine Coan and Pete Barskis will start at forwards for De Paul, El Weston will play center, while Jim Gorsky and Tony Laritus will be at guards. The Demons have won eight of their 13 games this season.

De Paul will end its season next week, meeting McKendrie college at De Paul.

CAMPBELL PLANS RUN FOR RECORD ON BEACH TODAY

Daytona Beach, Fla., Feb. 22.—(AP)—Sir Malcolm Campbell, here seeking to break his own world's automobile speed record of 245 miles an hour, tonight instructed his mechanics to be prepared to take his Bluebeard racing car onto the beach for possible trials tomorrow.

The sandy twelve mile course, which has been rough and bumpy for more than a week, showed signs of improving late today. Campbell said he did not believe the course would be good enough by tomorrow to break his record for the mile but that he might be able to attain a speed high enough to break the world's record over five kilometers, five miles and possibly ten kilometers.

Piles Go Quick

Without Salves or Cutting

Thousands of sufferers from piles have learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with an internal medicine. Neither salves nor cutting remove the cause.

Bad circulation of the blood in the lower bowel causes piles. The veins are flabby, the bowel walls weak—the parts almost dead. To end Piles an internal medicine must be used to stimulate the circulation, heal and restore the affected parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonhardt was the first to discover a real internal Pile remedy. He called his prescription HEM-ROID, and prescribed it for 1,000 patients with the marvelous record of success in 960 cases and then decided every Pile sufferer should be able to get HEM-ROID tablets with a rigid money-back guarantee.

Dr. Leonhardt's HEM-ROID has an almost unbelievable record of success right in this city. So why waste time on external treatments or worry about an operation when Walgreen's invite every Pile sufferer to try HEM-ROID with guarantee of money back if it does not end their Piles, no matter how stubborn the case?

Iowa Hopes to Name Football Coach This Week

Iowa City, Ia., Feb. 22.—[Special.]—The University of Iowa probably will appoint a head football coach this week "if everything works out right," Dean C. C. Williams, chairman of the athletic board, said today. Dean Williams said the appointment would be made at the next board meeting, and intimated that although none is scheduled for this week, a special meeting probably will be called.

The Iowa chairman would not divulge the name of the candidate whom the board is trying to get, but it is known that the board still entertains hope of securing the services of Jimmy Crowley of Michigan State. Crowley has stated that he was no longer interested in the Iowa position.

A committee of Iowa board members is expected to go to East Lansing, Mich., some time this week to interview Crowley. Board members also have indicated that they have not yet given up hope of getting Howard Jones, who turned out championship elevens here in 1921 and 1922.

GERMANY USES NATION'S CREDIT TO HELP BANKS

Fosters Merger of Big Institutions.

BERLIN, Feb. 22.—(AP)—The German nation attempted by an enormous bank merger today to place Germany's private deposit banking system on a sound basis and to restore confidence shaken since the sensational crash last July of the Darmstaedter und National bank.

By an emergency decree signed by President von Hindenburg, the reich was empowered to acquire stock in private banks or to subsidize them. The decree permits government participation up to 250,000,000 marks (about $59,250,000) and to extend up to 400,000,000 marks ($94,800,000) in credits.

In addition to the great Darmstaedter (Danat) bank, the merger involves the Dresdner bank, and several smaller institutions—the Deutsche Diskonto Gesellschaft, the Barmer Bankverein, and the Commerz und Privat bank.

Banks to Repay Later.

By writing off losses and transferring some of them to the reich on condition that they will be restored later from earnings, as well as by investing some of the Reichbank's surplus profits in private banks, the German government believes the way has been paved for restoration of confidence, which, in turn is expected to end hoarding by the people.

Finance Minister Hermann Dietrich explained that the main feature of the reorganization is the fusion of the Danat with the Dresdner under the name Dresdner bank.

Ordinary shares of both banks will be folded up at a proportion of ten to three. Preference shares of the Dresdner will be folded up at 3 to 2 and later will be transferred into ordinary shares.

Extent of Government Aid.

In the fusion of the Barmer Bank Verein with the Commerz und Privatbank, which will result in a capital of 80,000,000 marks (approximately $19,000,000), with 30,000,000 marks reserve (approximately $7,000,000), the reich will invest directly or indirectly about 112,000,000 marks (about $27,000,000).

"The reich's aid is not a case of the reich merely sinking money without a return," Herr Dietrich said. "The money loaned must be paid back, according to a fixed scheme.

"The Dresdner and the Commerz und Privatbank will repay to begin with by turning into the reich 15 per cent of the net profits.

"The banks have been put through a cleasing process. Losses have been written off. For whatever is still endangered reserves and securities have been created."

NATION SAVES BIG BANKS.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 22.—State paternalism has involved Germany in the banking business to the tune of about $155,000,000 under an emergency decree issued today in an effort to reconstruct Germany's banking system.

All big German banks, with the Deutsche bank as a single exception, are controlled by the government, which has given them funds directly or indirectly through the gold discount bank.

Out of the remnants of the Darmstadter und Nationalbank and the Dresdner bank, which it rescued in the crisis last July, the government now makes a new Dresdner bank. The shares were reduced by 70 per cent. The government loses $23,000,000 of the $70,000,000 it advanced those banks last summer. It adds another $46,000,000 in advances in treasury certificates as reserves.

Since thousands of bank clerks are bound to lose their jobs through amalgamation, the government is advancing $5,000,000 to help take care of them.

Government Gives Its Pledge.

The German republic's guarantee, in respect to foreign creditors, is continued, although the guarantee in respect to home creditors will end on the day the merger is registered.

The Commerz bank, with which Barmer Bankverein is merged, reduces its capital, at the government's behest, by 70 per cent, to a little over $5,000,000. That, with the aid of the national government, will be reincreased to $19,000,000.

The Allgemeine Deutsche Creditanstalt also is compelled to cut its capital by two-thirds, to $1,500,000. Again the nation steps in to enable that capital to be increased to $4,500,000 and donates another $1,000,000 for reserves.

The Deutsche bank discloses that losses of $65,000,000 are covered from its own resources. Sixty per cent of the capital of that bank disappeared, but with the temporary assistance of the gold discount bank the capital is brought up again to $34,000,000.

Minister Dietrich explained that unless the government had helped the banks 1,500,000 depositors would have been ruined and a national catastrophe would have been precipitated.

Railway Tests New Pullman Duplex Cars

BY SCRUTATOR.

In the field of transportation the Pullman company has of late taken a leading position as a merchandiser.

A few years ago a Pullman conductor caught attempting to sell something to a passenger probably would have been disciplined. He would have been given to understand that his job was ticket punching, not selling.

Today every Pullman conductor is a salesman. He gets a commission every time he sells a berth to a day coach passenger, or a more expensive accommodation to a passenger already holding a Pullman ticket. The results have been highly satisfactory. In the last 21 months a million passengers occupying lower berths have been sold the uppers at the reduced rate for "single occupancy sections."

But the Pullman company has not confined its efforts to selling what it has. It has been making many experiments to find out what the public wants and how the company can most profitably meet those wants.

Testing Duplex Car Type.

Many new types of sleeping car accommodations have been designed. The latest of these is the "duplex," an arrangement of single bedrooms with two on the main floor and two more upstairs, the remaining space in the car being devoted to standard sections.

Two sleepers of this type are now being operated daily on the run between New York and Akron. Each room—upstairs and down—has a comfortable lounge for general travel, the back of the seat being turned down to form a spring mattressed bed at night. Each has its own toilet facilities, its own window, and self-regulating heating and lighting. The upper room is reached through a short staircase.

The Pullman company also is getting back into the serving of food, a line of business started by George M. Pullman, but dropped forty years ago. Within sixty days it will have in operation about forty combination parlor and buffet cars. One end of the car is devoted to standard Pullman passenger equipment. In the center is the kitchen and at the other end are tables where sixteen may be served and as many as thirty others may be seated.

There is an increasing demand for this type of buffet car, for it makes possible the elimination of both the regular railway diner and the club or observation car.

New Excursion Methods.

One of the most important discoveries last year in the passenger transportation business was that sleeping car excursions at low rates could be made highly profitable.

The average number of occupants per Pullman car in 1931 was about eight. This was a record low figure and may be explained by the general falling off in railroad travel and the reluctance of railroads to reduce the number of cars per train in proportion to the decline in the number of passengers.

On the excursions, however, the average occupancy was about 30 per car. The rate for the excursions was about half the regular sleeping car charge. No great mathematical skill is required to deduce that there is more profit in carrying 30 passengers per car at five dollars each than 8 passengers per car at ten dollars each.

For the 104 excursions operated in 1931 there were 617 sleeping cars used in which 18,135 passengers were carried.

One interesting feature of these excursions was that most of the traffic was actually created and would not have moved had the comforts of a sleeping car not been available.

A. M. Byers Co.

Would you be so kind as to give me your opinion on A. M. Byers stock? A self-addressed envelope is inclosed. —J. L. H.

A. M. Byers company was established in 1864. It manufactures about half the wrought iron pipe made in the United States. It also produces wrought iron sheets, used for roofing. In October, 1930, the $12,000,000 plant at Economy, Pa., was completed and the old plant at Girard, O., was abandoned. A new and more economical method of production, the Aston process, is being used.

The company's product has high corrosive resisting qualities and is used mainly for the transportation of water having a high chemical content. Most of the output is used in the building and plumbing trades. Some is used in oil fields where sulphur and alkali occur. Public utility companies are also customers.

The company has to compete with companies selling steel, copper, brass, and cast iron pipe.

Sales for the fiscal year ended Sept. 30, 1931, were $4,978,000, against $8,013,000 for the preceding year, $10,155,000 for the year ended Sept. 30, 1929, and $10,606,000 for the 1928 year. Net income for the 1931 fiscal year was $81,600, which covered only about one-fifth of preferred dividend requirements for the year. In 1930 net was $1,134,000 which was 2.85 times preferred dividend requirements and equal to $2.79 per common share. Net for the 1929 year was $1,977,000 and for the 1928 year, $1,578,000.

On Sept. 30, 1931, current assets were $4,137,000, and current liabilities were $251,000. Working capital was $3,886,000, against $5,545,000 the year before.

The company had no funded debt. Capitalization consisted of 56,744 shares of 7 per cent cumulative preferred [par $100] and 262,135 shares of no par common. Dividends are being paid on the preferred but not on the common.

Northwestern Light and Power company furnishes utility services to forty-two communities in northwestern Iowa.

Gross earnings in 1930 were $484,000, against $451,000 for 1929 and $408,000 for 1928. Interest was earned 3.25 times in 1930, 3.53 times in 1929 and 3.21 times in 1928.

The $1,367,500 first and refunding 6s, due 1950, are secured by a first lien on all property of the company, subject to a $38,500 minor assumed obligation.

WHEAT STRONGER AT WINNIPEG; LIVERPOOL OFF

More Grain on Ships for Europe.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Winnipeg and Liverpool were open yesterday, while all American exchanges were closed. The Canadian market showed rather pronounced strength, especially when the action of Liverpool was considered, and closed with wheat ½@¾c higher, the close being at the top to ⅛c under, with May finishing at 67⅝c in Canadian funds.

There was no material pressure on the Winnipeg market, according to a report to J. E. Bennett & Co., while a moderate export business in Manitoba was put through via Vancouver. Part of the strength came from a revision of the Italian wheat quota. Mills in that country are now permitted to grind 50 to 60 per cent of bread wheat, compared with 30 per cent previously. It is expected that the increase in the quota will be reflected in heavier purchases of Manitoba and Argentine grain.

Liverpool wheat closed unchanged to ⅝c per bu lower after being as much as ⅞c lower at one time, the March showing the most decline. Supplies on ocean passage increased 48,000 bu last week and aggregate 57,440,000 bu, against 57,016,000 bu last year. World's shipments of wheat for the week were 15,202,000 bu, against 15,950,000 bu the previous week, and 161,98,000 bu in 1931.

A good class of buying was reported in barley at Winnipeg with the close ⅞c higher. Rye there gained ⅝c while oats were ¼@⅝c higher.

BY AL CHASE.

Chicago's recent wage cut of 20 per cent for building mechanics is called a healthy sign which eventually should bring about other needed adjustments in the territory, according to an announcement made yesterday by the F. W. Dodge corporation. It is expected to start work which had been held over on account of the pending wage agreements, the Dodge monthly bulletin states.

January construction totals for the Chicago district are announced by Dodge to be $9,181,300 in new contracts awarded. Of this, $1,206,700 was in residential building; $1,922,400 in nonresidential building, and $6,052,200 in public works and utilities. This territory includes Indiana, Iowa, northern Illinois, and eastern and southern Wisconsin. Important city totals for the month were those for Chicago, which reported $704,500; Indianapolis with $198,700, and Milwaukee with $204,600.

Small Homes First.

"The recent announcement concerning wage adjustments in the building trades in the city of Chicago may likely release some work which had been deferred pending new wage agreements," the bulletin states. "Altogether, this development may be looked upon as a healthy sign which in the long run should operate to hasten other needed adjustments in the territory at large.

"Signs of improvement in this district will doubtless manifest themselves first in an increasing demand for small houses. At the moment small house construction is at a low ebb, but as further needed correction in respect to municipal budget balancing, wage adjustments, foreclosures, and the like are more nearly completed, the apparent demand which has accumulated should assert itself.

Diversey Parkway Leases.

The Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company has leased the two stores at 952-54 Diversey parkway, adjoining the "L" station, for ten years and will operate one of its semi-self-service grocery stores. The adjoining store at 950 has been leased by the Lake View Quality markets, Rudolph Horky, proprietor, for five years. Mr. Horky has thirty-eight stores.

The Sheffield avenue corner store, in the same building, at 956-58 Diversey parkway, has been leased to the Laz Motor company for a term of years. Naumann and Steuer, who negotiated these leases and who manage this property, report that with the leasing of the last vacant office in the building to the Congress Sales company, they have filled this building 100 per cent and at rentals that compare favorably with or are as high as the rentals of 1928 and 1929.

WOULD MAKE ALCOHOL FROM CRUDE OIL FUMES AT REFINERY

Toledo, O., Feb. 22.—(AP)—The Barnsdall Oil corporation of Tulsa, Okla., local agents announced today it has leased from the Pure Oil company eight acres of its Bayshore refinery property for a $2,000,000 alcohol plant. Work on the plant, it was said, is to be started in the spring. The plant will make use of a new process of extracting alcohol from crude oil by capturing the fumes of the crude in the refinery of the Pure Oil company.

Borg-Warner Subsidiary Reports Gain in Earnings

HOGS ADVANCE EARLY, CLOSING NEAR THE TOP

A sudden burst of strength in the hog market yesterday carried prices up 10@20c and to within 30c of the highest spot since middle of last November. The market surged forward directly after the opening of the session, and the buying wave which seemed to gain momentum as the day progressed was in marked contrast to the precautionary buying by most houses last week. The "planks" were swept clean on choice grades during the early rounds and only 4,000 head, mostly poorer quality stock, remained at the close, the high point of the day. Selected 180@200 lb. hogs sold upwards to $4.35, equaling the highest since January 7. The top on January 1 at $4.65 stands highest since middle of November, while $4.10 is the lowest the top has been since June, 1899. The general average moved up 15c at $4.05. This is the first time in five weeks that the average price has been above the $4.00 line.

Yesterday's advance in hog prices seems sharp when considering how little the market has fluctuated during the last three months. Since the first of the year the top has been down to $4.10 eight times. Yet in the last three months the top has been over $4.50 less than a dozen times. In other words, since middle of last November, top prices have fluctuated within a range of $4.10@4.50 fully 90 per cent of the time. Receipts at 45,000 were about 25 per cent below normal for Monday at this time of year. Receipts on only two corre-

JAPAN'S CANNON JOLT LONDON STOCK PRICES

LONDON, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Trading on the stock exchange was quiet with a general tendency toward a drop in prices owing to the lack of support and the uncertain far east situation. Trans-Atlantics eased while Chinese and Japanese bonds were one point lower on latest Shanghai developments. Argentine rails were a half to one lower on adverse crop reports and Cable and Wireless issues were weak on the generally unfavorable outlook. Gilt edged securities and home rails were the only steady features.

Paris Market Weak.

PARIS, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Trading on the bourse was heavy, due to Saturday's unfavorable Wall street reports. International issues showed some resistance, but the closing tone was heavy.

ANTI-HOARDING GROUP STARTS CAMPAIGN HERE

Cook county headquarters of the citizens' reconstruction organization were opened yesterday in the Daily News building. Walter Ross of Ross and Browne, real estate operators, has been placed in charge of the local offices.

From these headquarters will be directed the campaign in the Chicago district to get hidden money back into circulation. The campaign in Illinois outside of Chicago is being directed by Dr. Charles M. Thompson, dean of the school of commerce and business administration of the University of Illinois.

The definite announcement of an offering of United States treasury securities will be made on March 7, and the bonds themselves will be ready for delivery at the local banks all over the country on March 15.

Santa Fe Buys 25 Dining Cars with Air Coolers

Announcement of the purchase by the Santa Fé railroad of twenty-five dining cars equipped with air cooling devices was made yesterday by W. J. Black, passenger traffic manager. The new equipment will cost $200,000. Mr. Black said that all dining cars on the railroad will be so equipped, following successful experiments on a Santa Fé's extra fare train to California.

UTILITIES
Win Praise of Bankers

PUBLIC utility securities should be given wide recognition because of the success of the utilities in resisting current business conditions, according to the Investment Bankers Association of America. The Association declares:

1 No business has more successfully withstood the violence of the economic storm or deserves more confidence than that of the well-managed electric light and power company.

2 "If confidence but grasps these facts, the level of many securities of light and power companies, both bonds and stocks, that are now so low as to bear but little relation to intrinsic worth, will not long remain so."

3 That not a bond of an electric light and power company has been dropped from the legal list of Massachusetts savings banks because of lack of earnings, and only one company has been removed for such reason in New York.

• Bonds of companies comprising the Associated Gas & Electric System offer sound investment opportunity at attractive yields.

TIRE FACTORIES CUT PRICES TO LARGER DEALERS

Retail Selling Unaffected by 10% Drop.

Akron, O., Feb. 22.—(AP)—A 10 per cent slash in the prices of automobile tires to large commercial dealers was announced here today. There will be no change in the price of retail tires. The cut does not affect mail order houses.

The reduction sharpened a dispute of independent dealers and larger corporations, the small retailers charging it is another step to crowd them out of business. Goodrich, Firestone, General, and Goodyear joined in announcing the reduction but denied originating it.

"Continuance of this trend," commented F. A. Seiberling, head of a company bearing his name and 73 year old dean of the industry, "will lead stockholders of the large manufacturers to question wisdom of those in higher places."

Asserting the 75,000 tire dealers in America are having the major share of their legitimate market taken away from them, he said, "they should be given an opportunity to liquidate before they are crowded completely out of business."

Kelly-Springfield Give Report.

The Kelly-Springfield Tire company reports a net loss, after all charges, of $468,334 for 1931, compared with a net loss of $3,796,054 in 1930. The company had an operating profit of $1,002,334 last year but this was wiped out by a chargeoff of $1,470,668 for reserves, inventory adjustments, foreign exchange losses and depreciation. These charges included a reserve of $364,138 to cover possible price fluctuations in crude rubber during this year, although President W. H. Lalley expressed the belief that it will not be needed.

Mr. Lalley calls attention to the fact that the new board of directors and management assumed control late in March, last year. During the first quarter the company had sustained a loss of $392,000 but a net profit was made each month beginning with May and including October.

This Company Boost Sales.

The All Weather Tire company, operating five locations in Chicago, reported yesterday that 1931 unit sales exceeded 1930 sales by 56 per cent.

Sales of the Diamond T Motor Car company last year showed a gain of 6½ per cent over 1930 and 20 per cent over 1929.

HOGS ADVANCE EARLY, CLOSING NEAR THE TOP

Hog Futures Stronger.

There was more optimism heard on the selling side of the hog futures trade yesterday, but no changes were reported in bids. July offers were raised to $6.25 but bids for July contracts stopped at $5.00. May mediums were offered at $5.35 and bid $5.00 and March contracts were offered at $5.00 and bid $4.25.

Cattle displayed a stronger undertone at the opening yesterday and numerous sales of good to choice grades went over the scales at fully steady prices, but the later market showed an inclination to lean to the weak side again. Steers carrying weight got best action and some sales of 1,200@1,500 lb averages appeared fully 50c higher than those made at the low time last week. The bulk of all sales of beef steers were fully 25c above the best time of last week's market, but the consensus attributed this advance to the better quality of yesterday's offerings. The price range at $7.75@8.00 was well filled out and a bigger quota of top kinds sold above $8.00. Several of the corn belt states were well represented with long fed steers. One shipment from Nebraska averaged 1,399 lbs and sold to Swift for eastern trade at $8.50, the top. The rank and file of medium to good quality cattle sold at $5.50@7.50, while the proportion going below the $5.00 line was smaller than on recent sessions. Only inferior low grades carrying very little "kill" sold below $4.50.

Lambs Average Steady.

Buyers vigorously resisted salesmen's efforts to send the price of lambs higher yesterday and after considerable haggling an erratic trade developed which averaged about steady for the whole day. Unevenness ranged from 10¢ lower to 15c higher. Those requiring an early "kill" were forced to pay slightly higher on the early rounds, while later buyers succeeded in holding their top prices 10c under last week's closing quotations. Packers, shippers and city butchers paid upward to $6.75 on opening rounds, with bulk of later sales of good slaughter lambs at $6.25@6.50. Receipts at 18,000 were small for Monday. Only one corresponding day has been lighter since 1923.

VIEWS STERLING AS LIKELY BASIS OF WORLD MONEY

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 22.—(AP)—A new system of money and exchange was pictured as a possibility today by Dr. D. M. Marvin, economist of the Royal Bank of Canada. Before the Canadian club of Toronto he said he thought sterling would be the logical basis for the new system.

"The traditional position of sterling as the world's medium of exchange, the position of London as the world's banking center, her wealth of experience, her splendid banking system, at the center of which the Bank of England operates without the stringent restrictions and inhibitions of the central banks of France and the United States, form a combination ideally designed for this purpose," he said.

Gatineau Power Co. Starts New Canadian Substations

Gatineau Power company of Canada, a part of International Hydroelectric system, has commenced the construction of additional substation and transmission line facilities to provide for expanding electric power requirements in the Ottawa and Hull districts. The capacity of the company's Val Tetreau substation for supplying 11,000 volt power is being increased from 40,000 horsepower to 80,000 horsepower through the installation of three additional 10,000 kv. a. transformers of the outdoor switching type, and additional 110,000 and 11,000 volt switching equipment.

Canadian Farmers Moving to Western Provinces

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 22. — Farmers of Canada are moving westward. Official figures of the federal government, based on last year's census, reveal that all eastern provinces of Canada had less farms in 1931 than in 1921, date of previous census, while all western provinces showed substantial increases in the number of farms. Even agricultural Quebec showed a decrease. British Columbia showed the largest percentage increase.

Commonwealth Customers Pay LESS for LOANS

$2.93 is the average Monthly Cost of a $295 loan under COMMONWEALTH'S Reduced Rate. This allows 25 months for repayment. There is no lower cost than this in Chicago.

THE personal property which nearly every family owns and the signature of husband and wife enable one to secure any amount up to $300 quickly and easily.

THERE ARE NO fees or deductions. You may take 25 months or pay all or part sooner. Interest at the Reduced Rate is charged only while you keep the money.

Also Salary and Auto Loans.

Why pay more than HOUSEHOLD'S LOW RATE on loans? . . .

Household loans, $50 to $300 to families at reasonable rates. Rate on loans above $100 almost one-third lower than maximum permitted by small loan law.

For example, average monthly cost of $200 repaid in 20 equal monthly payments is $2.63—the lowest in Chicago.
